Editor's Column

STUART R. PADDOCK

With two broken wrists in our family . . . one right and the other left, it is still going to be a Merry Christmas for the editor and his helpmate. There is at least one pair of hands between us.

The stores were never so filled with Christmas suggestions and they were never so crowded with shoppers.

As everyone knows who tried shopping Saturday.

We are leaving until next week suggestions of New Years resolutions that the average resident will enjoy hearing from local officials.

Readers who have any suggestions for us to pass on to the powers that be, speak up.

As we hear the Christmas Carols we should be doubly thankful that we are residing in a country that still believes in the Christ Child; and one in which Santa Claus is still a part of childhood.

Are there any of us, regardless of our years who do not have happy memories of past Christmases when we were young?

This is the season when many mothers resurrect the recipes for Christmas dainties handed down from their mothers. The results of their labors will be enjoyed by the callers, as well as the family, during the holiday season.

We know—we have made a few calls ourselves.

It is at the Christmas time that the mails flood us with appeals for financial support. Oh, if they would only come at sometime in the year when poor Dad has not so many demands upon his budget.

We warrant that many of those appeals will necessarily have to go unanswered this year.

Mt. Prospect is going to do something about it.

The Chamber of Commerce is asking other organizations to get behind a Mt. Prospect Community Fund Drive that will cut down the number of door to door soliciting of local residents.

We envy those who are able to plan for a few weeks in the southland.

As one of those who has survived three-quarters of a century of northern winters we recall the good old days of ankle length woolen, prickly underwear, calf skin overcoats and laprobes; warm overshoes, home knitted scarfs and mittens, woolen stockings, heated soap stones in the buggy, bed warmers for the chilly bedroom and when woman-kind thought more of being warm during the winter than following the dictates of fashion.

Thus we understand why so many wives are trying to sell their husbands on the joys of winter vacation. We know one woman who has been given the choice of a month down south or a mink coat. What was her answer? You guess.

Today's young people do not know the joy of a sleighride party all snuggled down in the straw of a bobsled with a candy pull at the halfway house of one of the families.

Remember the thrill we young ones got out of candle-lighted Christmas trees of yesterday?

A member of the staff of this paper after a bit of research through the files tells in this issue how Christmas was celebrated hereabouts 50 years ago.

Around the Palatine Breakfast Club table we learned this week why the North Western railroad is losing money. John Nelson has lived in Palatine 13 years and has only made one train trip and that one was only to Park Ridge.

Paddock Publications achieves another "first" this week with its color page Christmas message. This is the first time we have published a four-color page.

Many daily newspapers are recognizing the significance of color printing, and we are happy to include our suburban weeklies among those newspapers who offer full-color editorial material.

This is just another in the long line of improvements and advancements which we hope to continue providing our readers and advertisers.

Christmas Day in Suburbs

by PHILIP NELSON

It was quiet now, except for the giggling as Millie Brown settled down in her bed with a sigh and Christmas Day, 1959, in Suburbia began quietly and inauspiciously.

Bethlehem must have been much like this, she thought, and the feeling of peace and joy spread over her as she whispered "shhhhh" to her three little ones in the next bedroom and felt her eyelashes fluttering to rest.

Before she dozed off, she realized Joe had rolled out from under the coverlet and was curled up, shivering with cold, his knees up to his chin, his teeth chattering like a marimba band. Drowsily, she covered him, then closed her eyes.

Just as the giggling subsided and the numbness poured like liquid fire down her limbs, bedlam broke loose. There was a loud crash and shouting and confusion, and then the lights came on with blinding suddenness.

Joe was stading in the middle of the bedroom, yawning, his eyes half open. Then, from the livingroom, it sounded like all the furniture was being moved.

MILLIE SPRANG to her feet, alarmed. "Burglars," she gasped, as she watched Joe fumble with the old family blunderbuss that hadn't been fired since the Civil War.

Millie threw on her housecoat and ran into the livingroom where all the noise rose and fell like a clatter of dishes.

There were her three imps, Sandy, 2; Cora, 5, and Jimmy, 6, pointing while they chirped with laughter at a red figure struggling, half in, half out of the fireplace. It was Santa, stuck like a red beetle in a swamp of mud, and Scrappy, the dog, yipping and snarling as he yanked and tore at Santa's suit, and at the bag of toys at his feet.

"Let me down," blustered Uncle Pete, for it was he in the Santa costume. "Let me out," he raged from halfway up the fireplace, where his head was buried in a nest of yellow-white beard mixed with soot. His scarlet ballooned pants and black boots waved and thrashed on the outside of the fireplace as the dog growled and snapped at him.

As Scrappy barked at the red-clothed figure wedged in the fireplace, the cat only arched her back and lapped up the milk which the youngsters had left in a cup and saucer, but which she had knocked over in her haste to drink it.

"Are you going to let me down?" Uncle Pete demanded, almost whimpering now. Their first outbursts of laughter subsided as Joe stepped quickly to the fireplace and after much tugging and effort, freed the rotund uncle, hustling him off to their bedroom, just as they heard Jimmy say in wonder: "Hey, that sounded like Uncle Pete."

AND, AS THE bedroom door closed behind them, Millie was sure she heard little Sandy lisp: "Dat's Unca Tweetie."

"All right," said Uncle Pete, wheezing as he sat down heavily, wiping his sooty and perspiring forehead. "It's not funny. Your aunt put me up to it. First, the orphanage, and they kept me longer than I thought. And then--your kids. They'da spotted me if I came through the front door, your aunt said. Climb up the ladder, like a real Santa, she said. Go down the fireplace. It won't hurt you, she said, to do things right for a change."

"Sure," said Millie. "'Go fly off the Wrigley building,' she said. 'Go circle the moon two-three times,' she said. 'Time you went into orbit,' she said."

"I had to--I just had to bring the toys," whimpered Uncle Pete. "You don't know your aunt."

"Oh, yes," said Millie. "Next year, we'll remodel the fireplace to fit your suit. Maybe we'd better take your measurements now."

"Your aunt would make my life miserable," groaned Uncle Pete, rubbing his sides where he had barely squeezed through the brick.

"So you snuck down the chimney," bantered Millie. "Merry Christmas, Santa. It's a pity we didn't build a nice roaring fire for you, so you could have melted down a couple-three pounds. Merry Christmas."

"Okay, okay," groaned Uncle Pete. "So I made a little mistake."

"Let the man be," ordered Joe. "It isn't every Christmas we have a live Santa climbing down our chimney."

"My first mistake was marrying your aunt," Uncle Pete muttered.

"I was just teasing," smiled Millie. "Go home," she said, and kissed Uncle Pete on the cheek as she helped him out the back door and steered him to his house next door where Aunt Minnie was probably waiting up for him with a couple of ominous prophecies about orbiting to Mars.

"Hey," barked Joe from the bed where he was langorously sliding out of his slippers, when she had returned, "the little monkeys."

"What about them?" asked Millie wonderingly.

"We left them out there with about a million presents under the tree. C'mon," and grabbing her by the hand, he slammed toward the door.

THERE THEY WERE in the middle of chaos, the dog barking and the cat running about in circles and spitting from under the couch.

Sandy pitted, with all of his two-year old strength against Scrappy, the dog, in a tug of war over a sweater they had found in one of the tinsely packages under the tree. The sweater was stretched to capacity, one arm to an antagonist, Scrappy leaving go only long enough to bark and then seize it again with his jaws.

"Swetta," wailed Sandy. "Dog-dog go swetta."

Half of the packages were not only open, but strewn over the floor, and Joe caught a glimpse of Jimmy's glistening eyes as he ran his fingers lovingly over the two-wheeler. But Cora captured him completely, as she sat there with the doll as big as she was and looked into its blue eyes and mumbled meaningless words of praise, her tousled blonde curls limply touching the blonde curls of the doll.

"Well, Merry Christmas," he said weakly, stooping to pick up a cigarette case with his name inscribed upon it where it had been dragged across the floor. "Thanks, darling, just what I needed," he said, although he had secretly been planning to give up smoking. Perhaps he could trade it in later, after the holidays, he thought.

Four Men Win Conduct Case

A weak case and one of Chicago's top criminal lawyers combined last Friday to free four Chicago men charged with disorderly conduct in Arlington Heights, when they took what police thought was unusual interest in Arlington Park racetrack activities.

Justice of the Peace Walter Dahl heard village police officers testify that the defendants, George Bravos, Antonio Dionisio, Angelo Imperato and Joe Jones, also known as Jimmy Kirk, were arrested on August 8 after they were observed for two days relaying racetrack information over a telephone at a service station at 1706 W. Northwest hwy.

JOE JONES, an officer testified, stood on a box outside the service station, looked at the track tote board through binoculars, and called off odds to Bravos who relayed them over the telephone. Officers also testified that the men drove back and forth between the track and service station.

When arrested the defendants had over $10,000 in cash on them, including $50 in quarters. Police testified that they made several long distance calls.

The question at last week's trial, however, was whether or not the men had been disorderly. Herbert Barsy, counsel for the defendants, argued that "there is nothing under the law in these men's actions that could be construed as disorderly conduct." He noted that at the time the men were arrested, one was standing against a wall reading a racing form and another was standing against a wall reading a racing form and another was standing beside the highway. The two others were arrested when they pulled up in a car.

In granting Barsy's motion for dismissal for the charges, Judge Dahl said, "I know what these men were doing. We all know what they were doing. If anything, they were violating the gaming law. But they were not being disorderly as defined by prior cour decisions."

Rape Attempt Spurs Police

The attempted rape of a four-year-old girl has spurred village police into an around-the-clock search for a stocky youth who was in northeast Arlington Heights last Tuesday.

This is the vague description police have been able to piece together following the assailant's seizure of the girl December 15 near her home.

The girl and her five-year-old playmate, a boy, were accosted by the youth around 4 p.m. while playing in a field in the 700 block of N. Douglas. The boy was told to "go hunt rabbits." He remained in the area, however, and told police he saw the girl stripped, thrown to the ground and choked.

THE CHILDREN were found later walking down the street by the girl's baby sitter, who is also the mother of the five-year-old boy. The girl had managed to get her clothes back on, but was crying. Police were summoned. A doctor's examination revealed the girl was bruised, but suffered no permanent injury.

Police have located two seven-year-olds who think they saw the assailant in the area from their perch in a treehouse. Officers also are checking on reports of a peeping-tom seen in the area, whose description fits that of the girl's attacker.

"I'm confident that we'll solve the case," said Police Chief L. W. Calderwood. He noted that additional police have been assigned on special detail to the case, and are checking out several leads.

Commuter Express Added for Nights

A new evening express train from Chicago for Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Barrington commuters goes into operation starting Monday, December 21, according to C. F. Stewart, general passenger traffic manager of the Chicago and North Western railway.

The road will make a number of schedule changes effective Monday when several "Push-Pull" train runs are established on the Wisconsin division. The road is now receiving delivery of 36 new coaches to operate in the unique bi-directional trains.

The new evening express run, not a "Push-Pull" train, will leave Chicago at 6:30 p.m. with its first stop at Mt. Prospect at 7:00 p.m., Arlington Heights 7:05, Palatine 7:11 and Barrington 7:19. The train operates beyond to Harvard.

ONE OF the daily "Push-Pull" runs will be No. 641 now leaving Chicago at 4:33 p.m., but rescheduled to leave six minutes later at 4:39 p.m. starting Monday. As at present, the train will make its first stop at Park Ridge, and all stops beyond.

Inbound to Chicago, No. 614 will be a "Push-Pull" train making all stops Crystal Lake to Park Ridge, except Deerd., then express to Clybourn and Chicago arriving downtown at 7:40 a.m.

Stewart explained that the 12:30 p.m. local from Chicago will also be a "Push-Pull" train to Crystal Lake, as well as No. 686, a mid-afternoon run arriving Chicago at 4:17 p.m.

Adjustments of a few minutes will be made in a number of other trains starting Monday, Stewart said, and new timetables are now available.

Plan Is Topic for 2 Boards

A downtown businessmen's plan for the redevelopment of Arlington Heights' central business district will be considered at a joint meeting of the village board and plan commission Wednesday, Jan. 13 at 8 p.m. in the village hall.

The plan commission has been considering the plan's proposals for the past few weeks and has indicated it doesn't feel the village should share the cost of implementing the project, a provision of the plan.

THE PLAN in brief would:

—add 319 shopper and 69 commuter parking spaces and 37 commuter pick-up spaces.

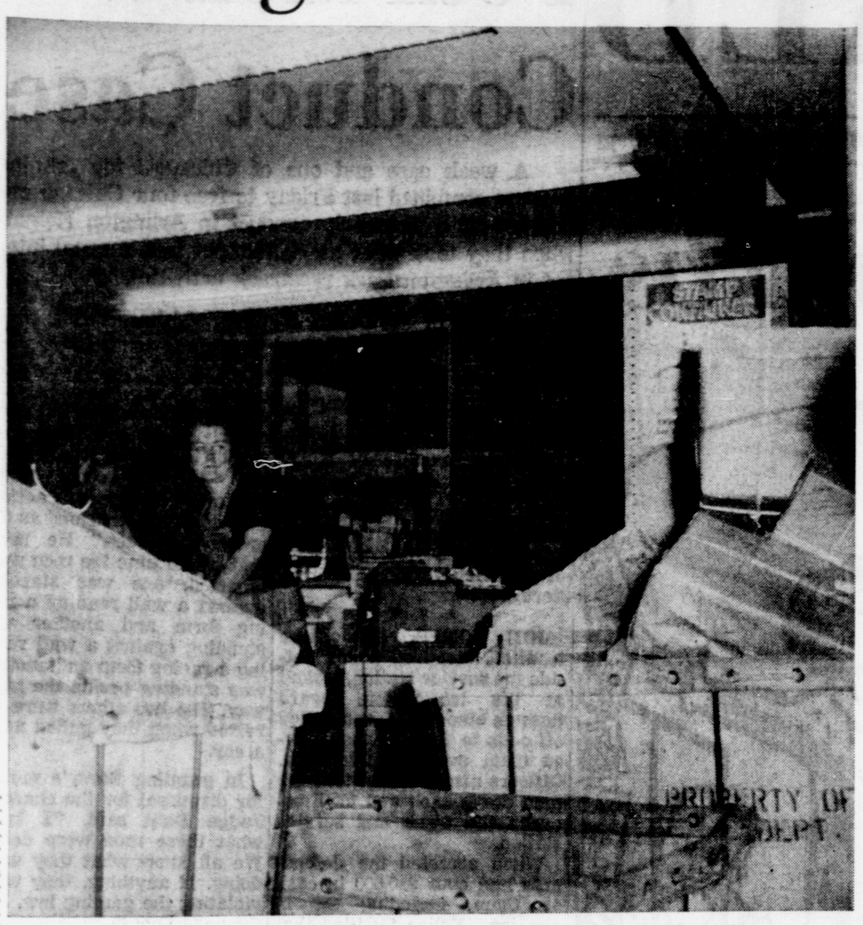

—provide for a commuter street running parallel to the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks.

—add many new shopping facilities to the downtown area, south of the tracks, plus drive-in banking facilities for the Arlington Heights National bank.

Lutheran Home for the Aged will hold an open house this Sunday, Dec. 27, starting with a song at 3 O!clock, followed by refeshments.

Postal Workers Beam Through Yule Crush

EYE STRAIN is occupational hazard of postal clerks during holiday season as scribbled and incomplete addresses tax mail sorting and delivery. Above, Harold Vreeland, chief dispatcher at Arlington Heights post office, separates mail.

One might suppose the only unhappy countenances around at Christmas time would be found half obscured by the holiday cal post offices.

And no one would blame the carrier for grousing as he shoulders a pack twice the weight he's normally used to, or the clerk who gets eye strain trying to decifer a scrawled flourish.

Actually, the contrary appears true. Mail carriers fairly beam over paychecks brimming with overtime pay, and generally tempers have been checked and hair-pulling held at a minimum among the postal force.

"It's Christmas time, and we have a job to do," William H. Watson, Prospect Heights postmaster, says philosophically.

"It's a tribute to the experienced people we have working for us who are exhibiting 'esprit de corps' in the best tradition of the post office department," lauds Palatine Postmaster C. J. O'Hara.

"The public has been very patient," comments Richard Dolgopol, Wheeling postmaster. "They've had to wait in long lines, and there's nothing more irritating than waiting."

THE QUEUES assembling behind postal windows, however, are minute compared to the in mail which represents a 500 to 700 per cent surge over normal volume.

"Our normal operation is magnified, oh, I don't know how many times," Arlington Heights Postmaster, Mrs. Virginia F. Dodge, says with an elaborate wave of her hand.

Some northwest suburban area post offices have established an annex to accommodate incoming parcel post; others have just doubled or tripled their staffs.

Postal Christmas woes also create close to 400 jobs in the area for the unemployed and college students.

At the Arlington post office, 201 W. Wing st., the staff has been beefed up to 250 additional personnel, an increase by 50 over last year, according to H. Anderson, superintendent of mails.

Approximately 225,000 pieces of mail are being processed daily through the Arlington postal plant during these "peak" days. An annex at 116 E. Davis st. has added another 6,000 square feet of space for handling outgoing letters and incoming parcel post, Mrs. Dodge pointed out.

THE POST office's biggest headache? and it's of migraine proportions: incomplete addresses.

"A letter will come in and just say, 'Joe Jones, Arlington Heights,'" Anderson said. "In a community of 24,000, it's a little difficult to deviler a letter or package of this sort."

"Not indicating whether the street address is north, south, east or west will also cause a 24-hour delay," adds the assistant superintendent of mails, Robert Proebstle.

This year, post offices are making available stickers indicating "Out-of-town" or "In-town" delivery, with one sticker serving four bundles. "Such bundled mail eliminates having it go through the full handling course," says Postmaster Dodge.

Lettered mail volume is up 20 per cent over last year, and parcel post has shown a 15 per cent rise, Anderson notes.

ILLUSTRATING the sudden upswing in mail that most postal departments experience at this time of year are the figures provided by Joseph Knuth, Mount Prospect postmaster, who relates: "On December 14, 5,000 pieces of mail went through our cancelling machine; on December 15, there were 104,702 pieces processed by the machine."

Palatine, with four mounted routes and three rural routes (post offices on wheels) to serve, had to call on the services of the U.S. Army this year to keep mail flowing.

"The Nike site located here loaned us the services of a 2½-ton truck which was obtained from Ft. Sheridan. That's real cooperation. I don't know how we'd have got along without it," Palatine Postmaster O'Hara said.

For Arlington's assistant postmaster, Louis A. Zinkel, this will be his last "Christmas crush."

He's retiring July 6 after 30 years, postal service. "That is, if Christmas doesn't kill me first," Zinkel says. (B8

Parental School Support Is Urged

All Cook county taxpayers should pay the cost of operating the Parental school, 3600 Foster, Chicago, now supported by the city board of education.

This was urged by the City Club of Chicago at the annual public hearing Wednesday on the Chicago school board's 1960 budget.

The City club, said Edgar Bernhard, its spokesman, feels "it is not the proper function of the Board of Education to provide the home and parental care of children in the Parental school." He added:

"In view of the governor's veto of a second bill to reimburse the board for this cost (almost $500,000 annually), the club requests that negotiations be entered into for the purpose of seeking such reimbursement from Cook county, which is the governmental agency generally charged with custodial care within its boundaries." Ross to Narrate Hospital Telecast

Norman Ross will be the narrator for the Lutheran General hospital special telecast, "The Inn of Many Rooms," on Station WBKB, Channel 7, from 10 to 11 p.m. on Christmas Eve. The hospital is located at 1775 Dempster st. in Park Ridge.

Through a unique presentation of the Gospel of St. Luke, Ross will tell the story of a young expectant mother who enters a hospital on Christmas Eve where the work of healing, the giving of life and the easing of death continue throughout the night.

Special emphasis will be laid on the inter-relation of religion and medicine, dramatically and reverently illustrated by passages from the Bible.

MANY RELIGIOUS paintings and pieces of sculpture will be used throughout the telecast as the camera follows the Christmas Eve story at Lutheran General hospital.

The telecast will be concluded with the dedication of the new hospital by Dr. Fredric M. Norstad, head of the department of pastoral care.

The script is by Bob Hartman. Herb Cunniff directs the entire production.

Ross, currently seen on two television programs, "V.I.P." and "Norman Ross — Commentary," is a graduate of Stanford university and studied at Trinity college at Oxford university.

He is conversant with four languages in addition to English: French, Spanish, Russian and Chinese. This has been of great benefit to him in many trips abroad.

During his Army service in India he met several times with the great Indian leaders, Gandhi, Nehru and Jinnah in connection with his regular broadcasts on the Indian Radio Network.

HE WAS A member of the National Committee for the Hoover Commission and was voted the Junior chamber of commerce "Man of the Year" in 1949. Ross is a member of the executive committee of the board of directors of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations.

He currently delivers approximately 75-100 speeches a year, mostly on foreign affairs to various groups in the Chicago area, and is carried on the lecture roster of both the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations and the Adult Education Council. (B8

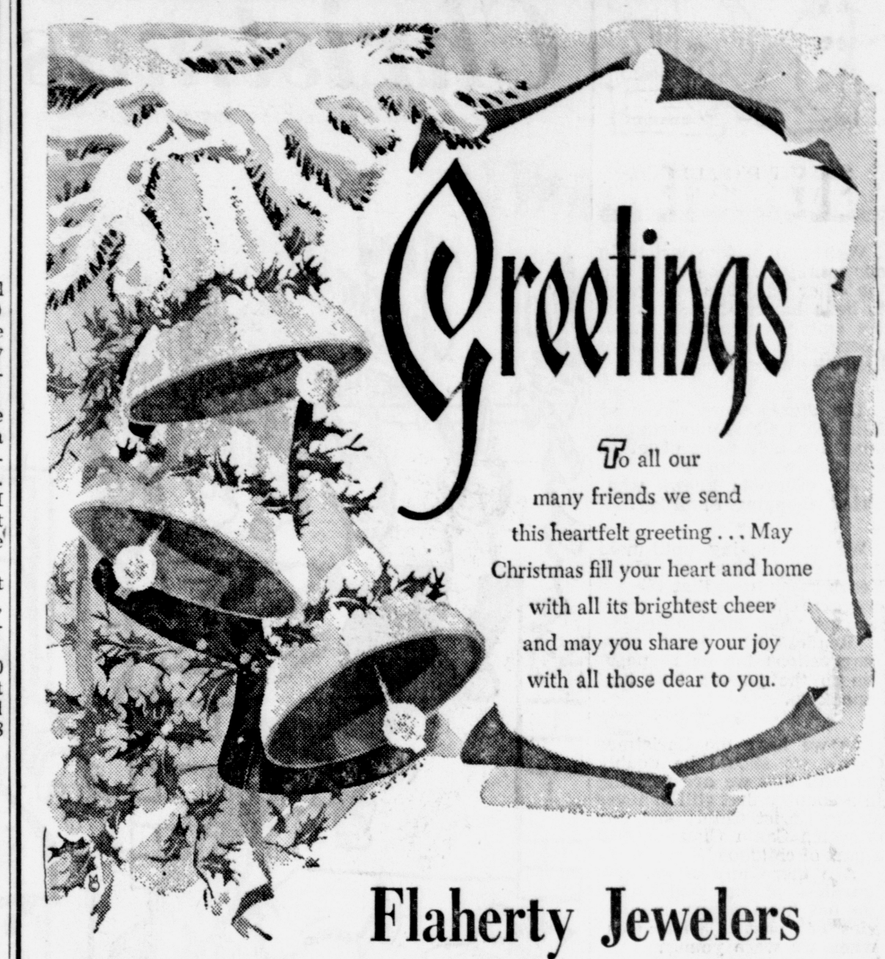

Seek Village For Inverness

The unincorporated community of Inverness in Palatine township is a step closer toward incorporation.

A petition to submit the incorporation proposition to voters of the community was filed Thursday in County court by Attorney Caleb H. Canby III. It carried the signatures of 49 property owners and residents. The signatures were gathered by Carl Buehler III, 353 N. Ayrshire lane. (B8

Northwest Area Residents Use 40,000 Christmas Trees

FRED NORAN (left), Box 255, Rte. 3, Palatine, inspects a Christmas tree held by Frank Kirchmeyer Sr., of Prentice, Wis., at the lot run by Kirchmeyer and his son, Frank Jr., of 222 Williams, Palatine. The trees, grown by the elder Kirchmeyer near his Wisconsin home, are being sold at the corner of Northwest hwy. and Wilke rd.

"I'll take two. One for the living room, and one for the playroom.

"Make one flocked white. The green one the kids can decorate.

"How much? Twenty bucks? O.K. Help me put 'em in the trunk, will you?"

"Daddy, don't forget the branches Mommy wanted."

"Oh, yes. Give me a few of those, too."

And off we go on another Christmas tree caper.

This year residents of Chicago's northwest suburbs will buy upwards of 40,000 evergreen trees of various shapes, sizes and hues, along with a variety of other pre-fabricated metal sprouts that will fold down into a little tube for storage over the years.

THE CHRISTMAS tree business has become a booming enterprise since first a group of Hessian soldiers brought the custom with them from Germany during the American revolution, and since President Franklin Pearce made the symbol universal in this country by setting up the first tree in the White House in the middle 1850's.

Indeed, in the last 10 years, the business has become one of the most lucrative seasonal activities in our country.

And, like many other businesses, Christmas tree wholesaling and retailing has become well-organized and big.

Twenty years ago, Dad used to go out on the back lot or into the woods across the road with a freshly-sharpened axe, pick out a likely-looking balsam, cut it down, and bring it in.

Mom and the kids would spend a day decking it out, and the family would be set for the season.

Today the process has changed considerably.

Now there are no trees out back or across the road. The closest stand of decent pine might be 200 miles away.

SO DAD has to drive over to the nearest lot. He takes the kids sometimes because they still get a kick out of it.

There he has his pick of a few hundred trees that days before may have stood glaring at the peak of one of Canada's mountains or looking gently down on a Michigan river.

In Rolling Meadows this year, the Community church is selling trees that were shipped in by rail from Quebec. The church members who sell the trees every year to pick up some extra cash for their building fund, have a working agreement with an Elmwood Park supplier who makes a big business of buying trees for Chicago dealers.

The Rolling Meadows group places an order (1800 for this season) with the supplier in August. He buys in Quebec, ships the trees in by the carload, meets the train in Chicago, and sends one car out to Arlington Heights for delivery.

At the corner of Northwest hwy. and Wilke rd., Frank Kirchmeyer of Prentice, Wis., and his son, Frank Jr., of Williams st., Palatine, are selling trees grown by the elder Kirchmeyer on 500 acres of timber land near his home.

Kirchmeyer Sr. is one of several men in the Prentice area who have gone into the Christmas tree business on the side to pick up a little extra. During the remainder of the year he cuts wood pulp and sells it to nearby paper mills.

Most of the growers in the Prentice area supply buyers from Chicago. They sell their trees for a dollar to a dollar and a half apiece, the buyer trucks them into Chicago at a cost of about 35 cents apiece, and either sells them to a retailer or stacks them on his own lot.

Kirchmeyer saves the middle man fee by growing, trucking and selling his own trees.

People who can afford to take the time and effort and who have the land available to grow evergreens can pick up extra money in the business. Most of the northern states will sell trees cheaply to people who promise to plant and raise them. The states feel this is a good way to implement their re-forestration programs.

THERE'S ONE danger in the tree growing business, however.

Once you raise the trees you have to sell them.

That's where John Q., Daddy and the kiddies come in.

"This year people are buying about 50-50 balsam and Scotch pines," Kirchmeyer says.

Trying to guess the tempo of the times and the variations in taste 10 years in advance (that's how long it takes a tree to mature to the cutting stage) can be a pretty rough proposition.

"I planted 2000 Scotch last year because they seem to be the coming thing," Kirchmeyer said. "Most of the people like full, bushy trees, and the Scotch usually fits the description better than the thinner balsam."

On the Rolling Meadows lot, where they sell nothing but balsam, Salesman Ken Turcotte, 2300 Kirchhoff rd., had a lady customer who was looking for a tree that was "skinny in the back."

"Our living room is small," she said, "and I don't want the tree sticking way out in the middle of it."

The variations in taste have led many people to buying two or even three trees, sometimes vari-colored.

Kersting's Garden center, 621 N. Main st., Mt. Prospect, is specializing in Scotch and Austrian pines brought in from Michigan and the flocked trees that have become popular.

Ted Topolski, of Franklin Park, one of the Kersting salesmen, says the cotton-sprayed models are selling on a par with the standard evergreens, even though they are priced from $12 to $15.

PERHAPS the most significant change in buying habits reported by all of the dealers is the trend to two or more trees per home.

Many people are purchasing a tree for the living room (often flocked), besides one for the family or play room. Many buy a second or third small tree for the children's bedroom.

Another trend is to the aluminum tree that can be folded down and stored for years to come. Some of the regular tree dealers, however, express doubts that the aluminum tree will sell because of its cost (about $50), and because the usual lights cannot be used on the metal without danger of electrical shock.

But one thing is a certainty. Suburban residents this year will buy thousands of trees.

The Christmas tree caper is well under way. (B8

WORD STUDY

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Cadaverous; like a corpse or cadaver; pale; ghastly; also, gaunt and haggard. "The once spirited horse was now a cadaverous relic."

Cryptic; mystic; secretive; occult; mysterious. "The FBI intercepted a cryptic message sent by a foreign agent."

Falsification; the act or process of representing falsely. (Pronounce first syllable as "fall"). "The falsification of his books was soon discovered."

Pandemonious; disarranged; disorderly. "A pandemonious array of toys on the floor provoked a stern word from the father."

Dereliction; a failure in duty. "The employer refused to excuse such dereliction."

Four Daughters Pose For Greeting Cards

"Say watermelon. Come on, Corry, smile."

"Okay, that's good; just a few more now."

And thus the saga of the picture Christmas card begins. The saga is 20 years old. Each year the dialogue is about the same; the characters don't change; but the settings have run the gamut from the bathtub to picnic table to living room rug.

The characters for the past 14 years have been four girls.

(Advice to parents about to undertake this project — girls are not easy to photograph. Hair brushes must be gathered to smooth locks carefully set the night before the anticipated day. And trying to get four, red-blooded American girls to look like the beauty queen each thinks she is is no picnic.)

THE SAGA really starts with two girls seated in the living room on a piano bench — a prop soon to be replaced.

Costumes must match, of course. When little girls are young, this is no problem, since they always wear sister dresses for special occasions. The gallery shows a navy sailor dress, a white cotton, smocked in pastels by auntie, and white blouses. But as age and individuality creep on, a look-alike outfit is more difficult to find.

"Let's try crew necks. What about man's shirts this year," it is suggested.

"No, that's icky, lets all wear different party dresses."

The problem was temporarily solved for three years, when mom and dad plunked three, then four in the bathtub. The caption those years: "A tubful of Christmas cheer," and "Something new has been added," (Courtesy of Lucky Strike), when daughter number four joined the photographic models.

The third time the young ladies appeared in the nude, they were perched on a picnic table with faces smiling coyly over their shoulders. The salutation: "Back again with Season's Greetings."

AH, BUT costuming is one of the easier facets of Christmas picture taking. Everyone is their grumpiest on the morning set aside for dear father to imitate Daguerre. One daughter at the blase age of 15 is just too too bored by the entire procedure. Another cries fitfully during the ordeal. This, of course makes for a wonderful "Merry Christmas" card.

Then came the era of the braces. "Trisha, keep your mouth shut. I know you don't look very attractive right now, but think how lovely you will look with nice straight teeth. And all that steel would probably crack the camera."

"Ah, there they are. Aren't they lovely. Oops, just lost baby off the piano stool."

Thus came the demise of the bench as suitable positioning for the young ladies. Their derrieres had become too large for the creaky antique which was retired back to its proper use forever.

"If you can't stop crying, we'll do it without you."

"How can I smile? Trisha's pinching me."

"Oh, shut up. I am not. Why don't you just sit still so we can get out of here."

What "Merry Christmas" repartee!

LEST WE forget. One year a cat was added to the quartet. "We just simply have to put Kitsel in the picture. She is a member of the family," pleaded the eldest and owner of said feline. So an indignant puss was exposed to the rigors of flash bulbs and spotlights — enjoying the process about as much as a dog fight.

With father hovering over the camera, and mother enticing her beauties to "loosen up, keep your mouth closed, stop wiggling, make all your arms go the same way, okay, Monty, we've had enough tears now, Becky no need to kick Corry," the picture taking is endured.

But the fun is just beginning. Down into his little homemade basement darkroom, father retires to produce the results of this morning of agony.

Eagerly each pours over the samples daddy makes. Each, of course, likes only the picture in which she looks best, and none looks the best at the same time. So round and round we go as even grandparents are called in to give their sage advice.

AT LAST, throwing his arms up in despair, daddy retires once again to the peace of the basement to choose and make the card.

Long ago the enlarger used to make the card was homemade. Father is very ingenious, you see, and he took an old camera, three different sized tin cans, welded them together, shot a light on switch through the top, and presto, it's an enlarger.

In the old days mother used to write the greeting on each card by hand, but as the couple became more dextrous at this yearly project, daddy photographed the caption and did the entire card at once.

Carefully he set up picture baths, organized his equipment, corralled any bored female to help, and set in to make the 300 cards.

Wrapped in big apron and perched on an old torn rattan-seated chair, daughter worked silently beside her father. Flick, on went the light, reflecting the negative onto the precious paper. "One - and - two - and - three - and" he would count. Then, quickly snapping off the light, he handed the paper to his first born.

He had taught her to flick the paper smoothly into the developer basin. Tapping the paper softly with homemade wooden grippers, she watched fascinated as the darkest portions of the picture "came up." Judging competently when the picture was dark enough, she took the grippers and put the picture into the stop bath. Bubble, bubble, bubble, the chemical reacted, stopping development action. She had learned to handle the next picture in the developer, keep one for a short time in the stopper, and deftly flick it face down into the final hypo bath.

WHEN THE last white enamel pan was full, daddy would start cold water rushing into a large flat pan. Into this final wash the pictures went, swirling round and round as the water spurted in and out of the bath. The final step was laying the soggy picture into a blotter roller and sticking the roll on top of a furnace pipe to dry over night.

When one is a little girl, it is fun to listen to the radio in the quiet darkness and watch the pictures miraculously appear on smooth white paper. As little girls grow up, however, parties and dates and homework make long hours of standing less appealing. Daddy now goes down alone to run through the cards.

Finally envelopes are addressed, stuffed, and stamped, ready for the mailman's load. Christmas pictures are finished for another year.

When people call to say how cheered they are by the yearly greeting, the grumpy words and long effort dim. "I guess it's worth it," all agree.

Couple Spends First Christmas in Suburbs

Odors of Swedish bread and Christmas cookies waft from the Hubert Kenyon home in Winston Park, as Mrs. Kenyon prepares for Christmas.

The Kenyons, like many in the northwest suburbs, are spending their first Christmas here. They are filled with dreams of pine trees, recently planted, that someday will be strong and large enough to support Christmas lights.

They are anticipating the first Christmas morning service in the church they recently joined and Christmas with the family in their shiny new home.

HIGH POINT of the Christmas season for the Kenyons is the family present opening, Christmas morning.

"The Swedes celebrate Christmas on Christmas eve. I'm Swedish, but my husband's English, so we celebrate Christmas in the morning," Mrs. Kenyon said cheerfully.

Her house, the week before Christmas was just beginning to bustle with the holiday glow. A small green tree packed and move here from her Chicago bungalow adorned the table in the family room.

"It looks so cheerful, especially at night with its little lights on," she said. And cheerful it was.

Another tree, far more unique stood in the living room picture window. Mrs. Kenyon called it the "candy and nut tree." Made by a friend of hers, various sized red and gold cups circled the stem, tapering to the top. How inviting it would look when filled with Christmas goodies.

Another ornament made by her friend decorated the dining room table. The big balsam, picked by her husband the night before lay in the backyard besides boughs the Kenyons would use for decorating.

MRS. KENYON explained her husband's system for making a tree look sturdy. "He takes fine green string, and connects the bottom branches, so they won't droop with the load of ornaments."

Presents were hidden in safe corners as parents and children prepared for their first Christmas in their new home.

Three industrious Kenyon children have been working hard to save money. Dickie, 16, the musical member of the family, saves money by baby-sitting.

"After he spent one evening at a neighbors, she called to say her children would have no one but him," Mrs. Kenyon said proudly. When Dickie isn't baby sitting, he is singing with the Madrigal group and high school chorus.

Michael is almost 15. "He walks the streets of this town from Winston to Plum Grove delivering Fuller brushes and helping the Fuller salesman with his order," his mother said. "My children know their way around here after five months much better than I do."

Jean, the baby, is 11. Right now she's much more interested in the intellectual than the material, devoting her time to reading rather than money-earning projects.

Mrs. Kenyon said she hadn't given too much thought yet to the Christmas menu. But it's about the same each year: turkey, cranberry sauce, sweet potatoes, two vegetables, Jello salad, and homemade pumpkin pie.

"It'll all disappear, too," she laughed. "My, can children eat."

THE KENYON Christmas tree is usually put up the Sunday before Christmas, but it's going up Thursday, this year, because so many neighbors have theirs up.

So far as holiday gaiety is concerned, the family is looking forward to a neighborhood open house and church and school Christmas activities.

The Kenyons are new to the suburbs. Their landscaping is not finished. They have put in small evergreens. They still want to buy more furniture. But they like having a home of their own for Christmas. It will be a Christmas just for the family, since there are no relatives to come from far places to share with them.

It will be a Christmas of good, homebaked food, giving, and friendly gathering with their neighbors.

There is just one question. Where will Santa come in the Kenyon house? Like many new houses here, there is no fireplace or chimney!

New Setback For Backers Of Village

A Barrington township faction seeking to set up their own local government as the village of Barrington Countryside has suffered another setback.

County Judge Otto Kerner on Thursday denied their plea for the court to call a spec election on their incorporati proposition for January 9.

Their arguments were feated on the ground th some of the area involved their petition for incorpo tion is "already includ within the corporate limits a validly incorporated nicipality." This is the lage of South Barring which was incorporated a special election December

At this time of year, we take a long look in two directions: backward with warm appreciation for your patronage and forward with the happy anticipation of continuing to serve you.

Outlined Highway Hazards

Seventy-one million cars traveling 5.6 billion miles!

That's the Christmas holiday traffic picture envisioned by the National Safety Council.

"There's a good chance," said the Council today, "that virtually every motor vehicle in the country will be on the road at some time or other during the holiday weekend.

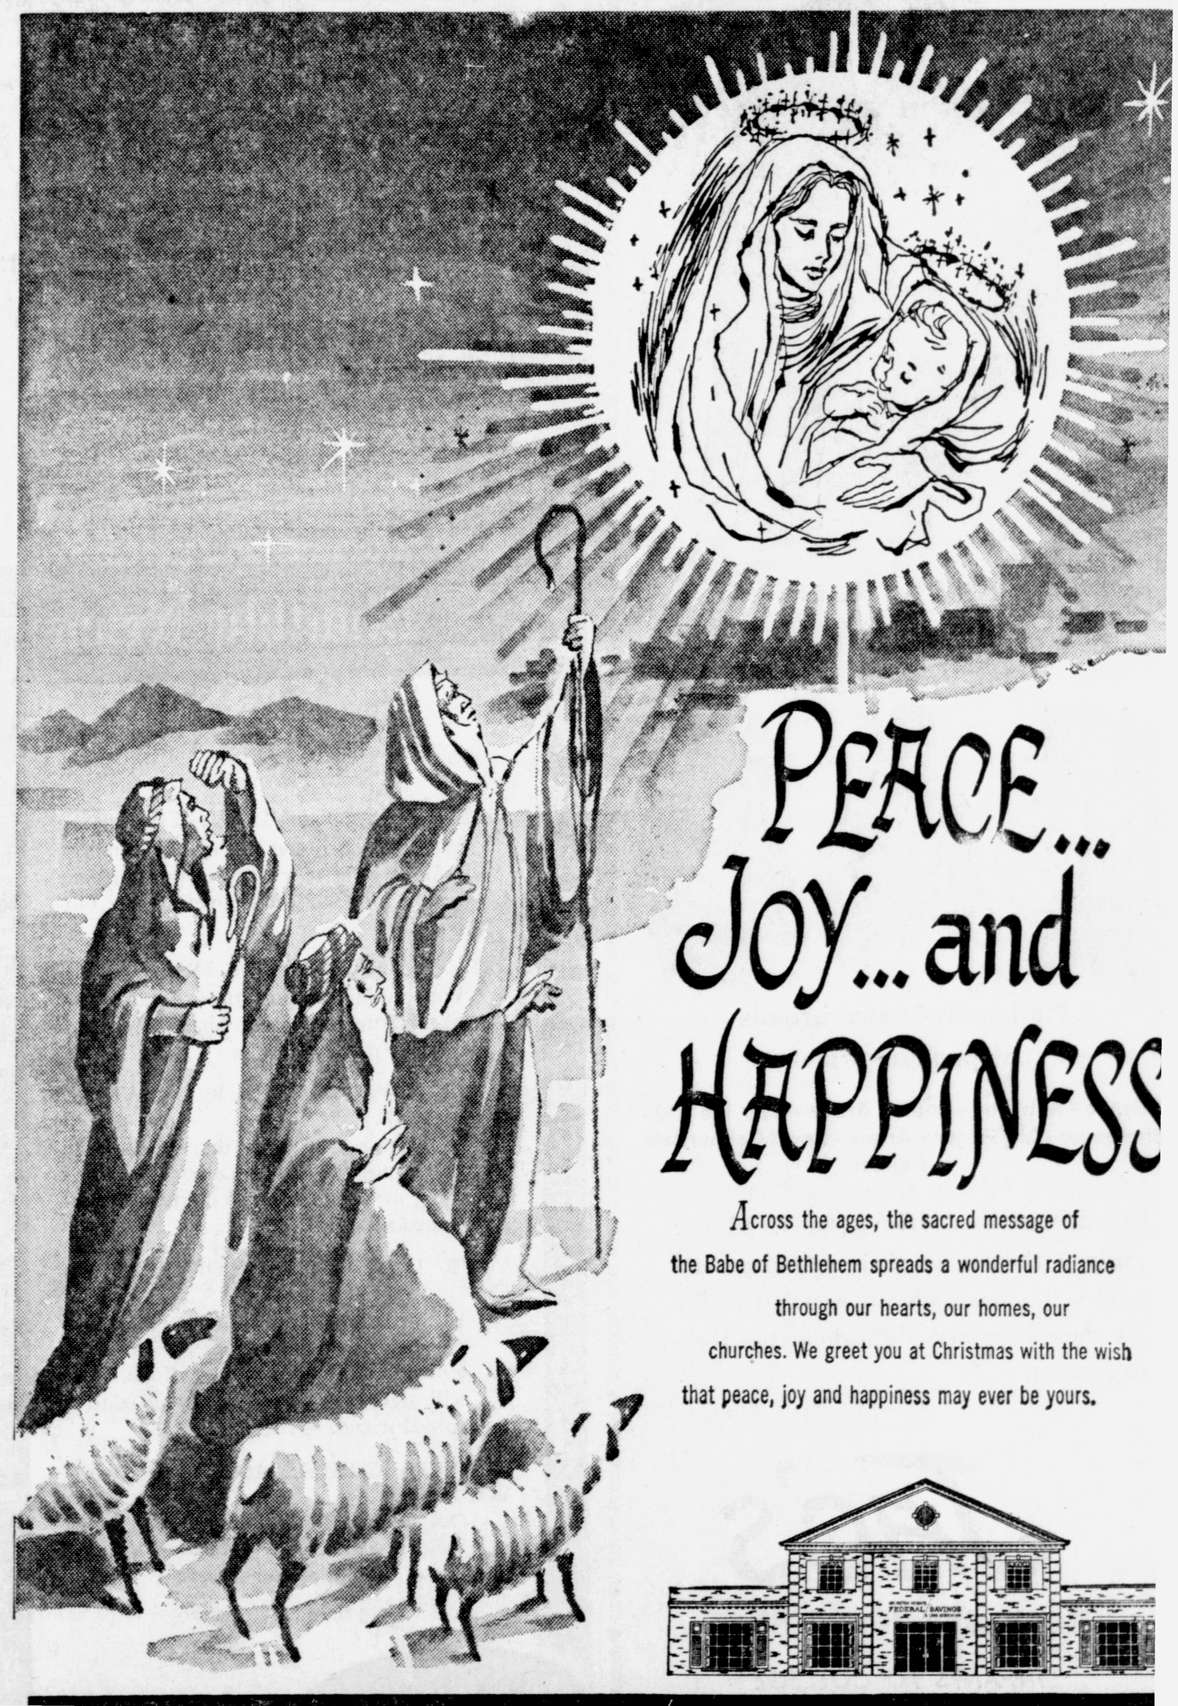

"There will be the trip to Grandma's for Christmas dinner . . . the mad dash downtown for last-minute shopping . . . the seasonal social calls —and of course the tour to see the Christmas decorations.

"All these make up the fun and spirit of Christmas, and no one wants to miss them. But they do add up to a king-sized traffic jam."

LAST CHRISTMAS, the Council said, there were about 68 million motor vehicles on the road over the 4-day holiday weekend. The traffic death toll in that period was 594.

This year—with a 3-day holiday period beginning at 6 p.m. Thursday and ending at midnight Sunday—the Council estimates the toll could run as high as 530 highway deaths and 25,000 disabling injuries unless drivers and pedestrians compensate for the extra traffic with extra care, skill and patience.

A non-holiday weekend of equal length at this time of year could be expected to Bunny and Bill Reinhardt, 1414 N. Illinois, will open their doors wide Christmas eve and entertain friends and neighbors at their annual smorgasbord.

With their families so large, Dee and Don Ryan, 1440 N. Yale, and their children, Michael, Timmy and Danny, must split their attentions over the holidays, visiting Dee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Welinske, Chicago, Christmas eve, and Don's family, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Ryan, Maywood, Christmas day.

Arriving at the home of Grace and George Rogers, 1313 N. Chicago, Christmas morn will be Grace's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Campbell, Chicago. After enjoying an exchange of gifts with their daughter and her family, which includes Patsy and Linda, they all will enjoy a bruncheon, after which they will all go on to enjoy the day's festivities with other members of the family at the home of Grace's cousin, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Humburg, Hinsdale.

CAROLYN AND Bob Parkin, 1511 Clarendon, and their son, Bradley, will be hosts to Bob's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Parkin, Waterloo, Iowa, from Christmas eve through the Christmas weekend. Christmas day the Parkin household will also include Carolyn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ingebrigtsen, Arlington Heights, and many other relatives.

Because his birthday is two days before Christmas, Randy, son of Pat and Elm Lechelt, 1247 N. Race, celebrated his fifth birthday a week ahead of time, same being recognized by Pat treating him and his playmates, among whom were Kathy Lynn Jeffrey, Julie Trees, Kurt Davis, George Wilmot and Dick Lyons, to lunch at the Choo-Choo restaurant, Des Plaines, after which there was a visit to the fire station in Arlington Heights, followed by birthday cake and ice cream back at the Lechelt home. The children also played games, for which prizes were awarded, and each received a favor to take home.

A happy household Christmas day will be that of Dorothy and Bill Henneman, 1200 N. Chicago, who, together with their children, Michael, Mary Kay, Patricia, Diane, Christine and Eileen, will welcome Dorothy's mother, Mrs. Alice Peters, and sister, Miss Shirley Peters, both of Chicago. The following day, Dorothy's other sister and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scheid, Milwaukee, and their six children will arrive to further the holiday festivities.

Frank, son of Patricia and Frank Precilio, 140 N. Race, will celebrate his second birthday December 23 by having some of his playmates, among whom are his sister, Lisa, Andy and Laura Staubitz and Kenny, Bobby and Lori Hermann, in for birthday cake and ice cream.

Pat and Dick Davis, 1255 N. Race, and their boys, Kurt and Glenn, will celebrate Christmas eve with Dick's mother, Mrs. L. Davis, Evanston, while Christmas day will be spent with Pat's mother, Mrs. T. Bujalski, River Grove.

A PRE-HOLIDAY luncheon, with a respite from the traditional rushing about, was enjoyed yesterday by Grace Rogers, Marcy Micek, Pat Coniglio, Jean Henrich and Pat Benderwald, the latter two girls being friends from Des Plaines, at the home of Donna Garland, 1317 N. Chicago.

Many relatives and much fun will be in store Christmas day for Eleanore and John Blomquist, 1248 N. Illinois, and their children, Elaine, John and Bobby, as they will spend same at the home of John's father, John Blomquiest, Chicago.

Marcy and Ted Micek, 1325 N. Chicago, and their children, Pamela, Michael and Wendy, will carry their holiday fun Christmas day into the home of Ted's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Micek, Chicago, where they will have an exchange of gifts with the family and enjoy a turkey dinner.

A visit with her son and his family for the first time in two years will be enjoyed this holiday season by Mrs. Edith Husted, Dayton, Ohio, who will arrive this week at the home of Shirle and Bob Husted, 1610 W. Olive, for an extended sojourn. Delighted, too, will be the Husted children, Deborah, Robert and John. Christmas day another guest in this home will be Shirle's mother, Mrs. John Wilson, Forest Park.

The fifth birthday of Allen, son of Harriette and Fran Moore, 1401 N. Illinois, was celebrated last Saturday, when his mother took him, his sister, Donna, Bobby and Tommy McGuire and their mother, Peggy, into Des Plaines to the Choo-Choo restaurant for lunch, after which they all returned to the Moores' for games, prizes and favors, topped off with birthday cake and ice cream. Delighting the children, especially Allen, was the fact that all decorations, including the cake, were done up in the train theme. That evening his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Armstrong, Evanston, were on hand for a dinner party celebration, with other relatives joining in in wishing him many happy returns over more birthday cake and ice cream.

Adele and Frank Yore, 1260 N. Illinois, attended the annual Christmas party given by Frank's employer, and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Beck, Park Ridge.

CHRISTMAS DAY the Yores, including children, Sheila, Patricia, Michael, Danny and Diane, will welcome grandmothers, Mrs. Sophie Doherty and Mrs. May Yore, both of Chicago, together with other relatives, for the traditional holiday merrymaking.

Arriving last Saturday for the holiday season were Mr. and Mrs. James McNeill, Brooklyn, N. Y., who will gladden the hearts of their daughter and her family, Pat and Bill Ross, 1252 N. Chicago, and grandchildren, Billy and Cynthia.

Lois and Gilbert Martin, 1417 N. Chicago, entertained friends of their daughter, Beth, last Saturday afternoon at a party held upon the occasion of her seventh birthday. Richard Hayes, Linda Brown, Linda Cech, Karen Garland, Scott Gunnison, John Reinhardt and Vicki Schmidt were on hand to admire the Christmas theme and to enjoy several hours of game playing, prizes, favors and birthday cake and ice cream. Later in the day, Beth's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lamont, Chicago, arrived to enjoy a birthday dinner party, at which Beth's brothers, Scott and Gary, and sister, Barbara, were also present.

Last Friday was the 12th birthday of Billy, son of Charmaine and Charles Sayre, 1204 N. Race, and on hand at a family dinner party that evening were his sister, Lauren, and brothers, Thomas and Robert. Charles then took Billy and two of his friends, Bob Weber and Pat Martin, to Marigold Gardens, Chicago, to view the wrestling matches, as per Billy's request.

Sunday, a combination birthday - baptism party was held at the Sayres for Billy's birthday and the baptism of 2-month-old Robert, which took place earlier in the day at the First Presbyterian church, Arlington Heights, with the Rev. Paul Stumpf officiating. On hand for the happy events were the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Forsland, Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kime and son, Larry, Wheeling, and Mrs. Kime, New Hampton, Iowa. (A

Holy Land Scene of Refugee Tragedy

Charities Assist In Arab Dilemma

by TED SMART

The eyes of the world will turn to the Holy Land this week of weeks, and facus on the drama of the Nativity enacted some 2,000 years ago.

But there is another drama going on in the land of Christ's birth. Its principals, some 1 million homeless refugees, whose squalid camps ring the tiny state of Israel.

These are the refuse of the Arab-Israeli conflict of 1948, Palestinian Arabs who were forced to flee their homes in the path of war, and are denied return. They are a people largely without hope.

UNRWA -- the United Nations Relief and Works Agency -- has been delegated the task of keeping these people alive - on a budget of 9 cents per person per day. UNRWA has been successful, but not without the help of outside charities who have provided some clothing and some medical help.

THE REFUGEES have strongly resisted attempts to improve their housing. Living for the most part in tents and cardboard shanties, they look upon permanent housing as part of a conspiracy to perpetuate their exile. Their one longing is to return to their homes in Palestine, now the state of Israel.

The UN agency several years ago began a program of general education and vocational training, but found itself cramped for lack of funds. Still, with the help of sectarian schools and the Arab governments, the agency started on this first, vital step toward self-support.

At $25 annually it educates 126,000 children in its own 381 schools and gives scholarship aid to 55,100 more enrolled in public and private schools.

But the Arab refugee is proud. He wants to return to his own country - his old job, his homeland. He accepts the aid gratefully, but there is bitterness and rancor in his heart for the Israelis who, he feels, have robbed him of all he once possessed.

How the Arab refugees came to leave their homes is so clouded with claims and counterclaims that it is difficult to get at the facts. For purposes of summary of the long and politically-involved story, Henry R. Labouisse, past director of UNRWA, said:

"The political and military story of the last 10 years in the Near East is told in different ways by different people -- perhaps of equally good faith..

" I never felt that it mattered very much whether the Palestine Arabs left their homes because of physical violence, fear, persecution, or just to get out of the way of the fighting armies. It was perhaps a combination of all that. The hard, inescapable fact is that, as a result of the 1948 war between the Arab states and Israel, a mass of innocent people have become destitute and embittered exiles."

UNRWA'S MANDATE is running out. The agency's term will expire in mid-1960. To whom may these people turn?

The World Refugee Year, launched last July 1, was the brainchild of Crossbow, a little British "egghead" magazine. It is the spontaneous, non-governmental attempt to provide the private citizen with the means of coming to the aid of the world's 41 million homeless victims of communism, civil war, and invasion.

Hailed by the pope, the World Council of Churches, President Eisenhower, and other leaders throughout the world, the movement erupted ness of our time. The staring proof that, when it comes to the science of living together, we are as foolish as any of our less mechanically adept ancestors.

"We talk of tolerance, justice and the dignity of mankind, and all over the world we find stagnant pools of humanity, who have been robbed of all these things; who stand behind wire, dragging their uncovered roots, friendless, soilless, waiting for ground in which they may grow again into citizens."

AN ARLINGTON Heights pastor, the Rev. Truman Stehr, 401 E. Euclid, announced this week the start of a fund drive in the northwest suburbs to aid the suffering people in the Middle East.

Rev. Stehr will kick off an area-wide appeal sometime in January in conjunction with the World Refugee Year. The Arlington Heights National bank, said Pastor Stehr, will accept all donations from now on in the account, U.S. Committee for Refugees. Checks may be made out to that account and deposited or sent to Post Office Box 321, he said.

Do not say, "You surely must of known it." Say, "You surely must have known it." must have known it."

Distinguish between Human (pertaining to man) and Hummane (kind; benevolent).

Do not say, "He put in several weeks on the work." It is much better to say, "He spent several weeks."

Egoism and Egotism mean substantially "paying great attention to one's self." Egoism implies the philosophy of self-interest, which is likely to lead to Egotism, a too-high opinion of one's self, or conceit.

Do not say, "In this trick, I shall use both the black and red cards." This would imply that each card is both red and black. Instead, say, "I shall use both the black and the red cards."

Sanitary District Outlines $18.5 Million Sewer Plans

Big sewer and other construction projects costing 18.5 million dollars are programmed in the Metropolitan Sanitary District's 1960 budget of 61.6 million dollars.

The construction fund will hit its peak next year, topping the previous high of 17.9 millions appropriated in 1959. This fund has climbed steadily since 1955 when the district spent 5.3 million dollars on new sewers and other facilities.

Unless policy set this month is changed, the district will appropriate 12 million dollars a year for construction projects in 1961 through 1964.

District trustees also have dropped plans to place a 50 million dollar bond issue for a flood control program before voters next June.

Frank W. Chesrow, district president, said the bond issue plan will be revived after a new comprehensive flood control survey of the metropolitan area is made.

IN LINE with cutting spending and accomplishing other economies, the district voted a tax reduction of $1.33 on each $10,000 of assessed valuation on tax bills going out in 1960.

Chesrow said the tax cut is made possible from interest collected on investment of idle funds during the year, higher collections of delinquent taxes, and saving of interest on bonds paid off in 1959.

The 1960 budget represents a 10 million dollar reduction, or nearly 15 per cent below the 1959 budget.

Many of the construction projects in the budget already are under contract.

In Chicago, such projects include the $280,100 Wellington avenue pumping station under construction on the North side and $1,131,600 worth of work underway at the Calumet sewage treatment works.

For northern suburbs, the budget lists more than two million dollars for new equipment at the sewage treatment works in Skokie. There also are appropriations of $1,000 each to launch a North Shore intercepting sewer project (eventual cost not listed) and an $800,000 program for two big Northfield township intercepting sewer projects. The one with top priority of the two is listed as the $500,000 Harms Road West of Northfield project, the other the $300,000 Golf Road Relief project.

FOR THE northwest suburban area, the budget has $2,452,000 appropriated for interceptor sewer extension projects already underway in or near Niles, Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Elk Grove, Mt. Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine, and Rolling Meadows.

There also is an appropriation of $1,000 to launch a 1.5 million dollar sewer extension program for the Schaumburg Center and Hoffman Estates area.

Not programmed for 1960 but listed under the heading of "future work" are interceptor sewer extension projects costing 1.6 million dollars northwest of Palatine, 1.2 million dollars in Prospect Heights, 1 million dollars south of Schaumburg Center, $550,000 southwest of Schaumburg Center, two 2.6 million dollar projects in Wheeling, and 7.2 million dollars for the Park Ridge, Des Plaines, and Elk Grove areas.

FOR THE CENTRAL or west section of the county, the budget appropriates $6,125,000 for improvements at the sewage treatment works in Stickney. Much of the work already is under contract.

In the same category is a $590,000 appropriation for the intercepting sewer system under construction for Hodgkins.

There also are appropriations of $1,000 each to launch a $500,000 sewer extension program for LaGrange Highlands and a $130,000 Salt Creek intercepting sewer project calling for controls and connections.

Not programmed for 1960 but listed under the heading of "future work" are interceptor sewer extension projects costing three million dollars in Western Springs, two million dollars for relief sewers in Broadview and Bellwood, and 1.3 million dollars for sewer extensions in Berkeley and Hillside.

ALSO ON the long range program is a $900,000 listing for Flag Creek improvements.

For the south and southwest suburban areas of the district, the budget appropriates $2,145,300, most of it for sewer extension projects underway in Markham, Midlothian, Oak Forest, and Sauk Village.

There also are appropriations of $1,000 each to launch a 1.5 million big sewer project for Oak Forest and a $1,000,000 program for temporary facilities in County Club Hills.

Not programmed for 1960 but listed under the heading of "future work" are interceptor sewer extension projects costing $700,000 south of Harvey, two million dollars in Dolton and South Holland, 2.3 million dollars in Glenwood, $950,000 in East Chicago Heights, 1.8 million in Hickory Hills, 2.9 million in Orland Park, 2.3 million in Tinley Park, 2.4 million south of Tinley Park, $600,000 in County Club Hills, 3.1 million dollars in the Worth-Palos area, and $1,250,000 for relief sewers in Oak Lawn.

THE BUDGET sets up appropriations for small sewage treatment plants or additions under contract at Streamwood, Orland Park, East Chicago Heights and Barrington Woods. The budget also provides an initial outlay of $100,000 for a $350,000 sewage treatment plant at Lemont and under "future work" a sewage treatment works in Hanover township to cost $420,000.

Other long range projects still awaiting appropriations include: South Schaumburg pumping station and force main, $500,000; East Markham pumping station and force main, $500,000; Glenwood pumping station and force main, $100,000, and three sewage pumps at the 95th street pumping station in Chicago, $161,400.

The district earmarked 11 million dollars to pay the cost next year of operating its three big sewage treatment plants. This includes 6.5 millions for the West-Southwest plant in Stickney, 2.5 millions for the Calumet treatment works and two millions for the North Side plant in Skokie.

Other items under contract and in the 1960 budget include $163,000 for Wilmette pumping station, $37,000 for controlling works at Lockport, $150,000 for an outlet sewer in Cicero, and $59,000 for Calumet Sag channel watershed projects, including Stony Creek, Oak Lawn cutoff, and Midlothian creek.

"WITH VISIONS of gingerbread . . ." these students from the Clearbrook school for Retarded children, Rolling Meadows, got an advance Christmas treat, Sunday at a party. This was the second Christmas party held for the students. The first was sponsored by the Junior Women's club, Rolling Meadows. The women had devised a special bean-bag game where each child was given a fish-shaped bag with his name on it and taught to throw it through the open mouth of a cat. Ice cream, cholocate milk, and cookies were the treat.

WAITING for ambulance, state and county police and spectators gather around injured following mishap Saturday at Quintens and Countyline rds. Injured was Dee C. Hunter of Barrington. Driver of the other car was LaVonne Kilby, 19, of 735 Countyline rd., Palatine. Kilby was shaken up in the crash, police reported, which did $400 worth of damage to his automobile. A passenger in his car, Charles W. Kilby, 25, of the same address, escaped injury.

CRUMPLED convertible belonging to Dee C. Hunter, 25, of Valley View Farm, Barwas charged by state police with following too closely, was taken to Northwest Community hospital for treatment of in-

Typical Family Finds Christmas Happiness

"It's beautiful," said Millie, and pecked him on the cheek as she held up the filmy black negligee against her, thinking: How ghastly. Wonder if I can return it.

* * *

SANDY HAD relinquished his hold on the sweater and the dog gyrated around the room triumphantly, occasionally pausing to toss his trophy in the air and catch it with his jaws, sniffing and growling suspiciously whenever anyone approached her newly-acquired spoils.

Gosh, groaned Joe inwardly, look at that sweater. Maybe I can return it.

How could he, Millie wondered pensively, crushing the black negligee. I'll have to return it.

Meanwhile, Sandy had corraled the miniature train and was endangering life and limb as he "choo-chooed" and scooted in and out and around and between the other members of his family.

Joe recaptured the sweater, tried to smooth out the tears in it and gave it to Jimmy, who hugged it and said: "My goodness, me, oh my. It smells like the doggie."

It was three ayem. Joe pointed to his watch, winked at his wife, and turned on the tree lights, which winked back at him with myriad eyes of bright greens and reds and blues.

"Oooooh," breathed Cora.

"Wow---eeee," said Jimmy, his eyes glistening.

"Ummmmm," mumbled Sandy.

THE DOG BARKED and dashed around the tree, backing off now and then and growling ominously as he waited for the tree to attack him. But the cat merely waved her tail disdainfully.

"It's beautiful," whispered Millie, her eyes moist, her hands clasped to her chest. Joe could swear that the sparkling little angel at the top of the tree fluttered its wings and winked knowingly at him.

They sat down to enjoy the brilliance of diffused color, Joe on his chair, Millie on the arm, and the little tikes gathered about on the floor near them. No one knew who started the carols at that crazy hour in the morning, but soon everyone was singing. Jimmy cherished his mangled, doggy sweater, holding it to him and hugging it fiercely in his chubby little fists throughout the singing, while Cora clung to her doll and sang directly to its blue eyes.

And then they came to their favorite. "Si-i-lent night," began Millie, her warm, flushed face pressed against his shoulder.

"Ho-o-ly night," almost whispered Jimmy, and then they all fell upon it, infusing it with the warmth of their tenderness and affection, even little Sandy chiming in belatedly, after the family choir had ended and the aftersounds were still echoing soundlessly.

"S'eep i' heav'ly peace," he chirped in his baby prattle, over and over, before he was scooped up by his mother and felt the patter of her kisses.

THE OLD HEIRLOOM of a grandfather clock boomed and waved its pendulum like a baton, Joe turned up the furnace until the house was cozily comfortable and they sang carols and laughed and tickled Sandy and patted Scrappy, who growled and showed the whites of his eyes balefully from the bone he had brought out of somewhere and was chewing noisily.

"Clackety - clackety - clackety clack," muttered the old clock, and time rushed heedlessly on while Sandy's eyes shuttered close, as he lay upon he floor, chewing on his favorite yellow blanket, his posterior pointed due north and rocking sleepily back and forth.

Joe picked him up, blanket and all, and tossed him in the crib, from where snores gradually enveloped the room. [illegible] at six ayem. the other two were incredibly wide awake, and at seven, they all sat down to a hot breakfast of buttery pancakes, pork sausages, steaming hot coffee and milk.

It was after that that Joe found himself nodding, sleeping while leaning against [illegible] fireplace, and woke to the [illegible] bare leg as though it were a [illegible]

"Stop that," he ordered and glanced about to see Millie, half sitting, half lying on the couch, crooning sleepily to herself. The two young ones were still going strong.

THE GRANDfather clock boomed nine ayem, and as Joe glanced at his gaily decorated Christmas tree, he could swear that the little angel perceptibly fluttered its wing this time and winked one eye.

He lifted Millie and staggered with his burden toward their room. From the children's bedroom, wee Sandy's snores were mounting in volume. The clock boomed and waved its pendulum. The cat stretched itself and yawned. Scrappy showed her teeth and growled, then curled up on Joe's chair and went back to sleep.

Christmas, 1959 had come to Suburbia.

Christmas Season Filled with Song

Music and Christmas always have gone hand in hand.

And this year will be no exception.

Church choirs throughout the suburbs are preparing special programs for their congregations, and "The Chipmunk Song" is selling like hot cakes in local record stores.

Contrary to what a lot of people have been saying during the past few years, the emphasis in Christmas music still is on the holy day rather than the holiday, according to many music store people and churchmen.

Record albums that have hit the top of the list in the past few weeks bear this out.

"When it comes to Christmas music, most people still go for the carols," says Mrs. Ham Olsen, of Olsen's Musicland in Palatine.

THE top-selling albums in the Musicland store this year have been the Mormon Tabernacle Choir's "Spirit of Christmas," Werner Muller's mixed choral and orchestra recording of "O Tannenbaum," and several of Fred Waring's special Christmas albums.

For the children David Seville's chipmunks still hold the spotlight, followed by the traditional Gene Autrey rendition of "Rudolph, the Red-nosed Reindeer."

In the popular field Mitch Miller's sing-along series, and RCA's bargain double album of "60 Years of 'Music America Loves Best' " are the hottest.

The teenagers, who buy strictly on what is listed on the top 40 list, have a wonderful choice this season. The latest list shows Frankie Avalon's "Why" leading the way, followed by "Fabian's "This Friendly World."

For the more cultured teenager the list recommends such choice platters as the Nutty Squirrels' "Uh Oh Part 2," the Clovers' "Love Potion 9," and Little Anthony's Shimmy Shimmy Ko-Ko Bop."

New party records cut by Shelley Berman are selling very well, according to Mrs. Olsen.

IN ARLINGTON Heights, Bob Shawhan, owner of The Melody Shop at Campbell and Vail, says the Mormon choir record is his best Christmas seller. Recordings of "The Messiah" also are experiencing a heavy run, he says.

He agreed that "people still like the more conventional type of records."

He listed Bing Crosby's "Merry Christmas" album and Robert Rheims' organ and chimes recording of "Merry Christmas in Carols," along with those mentioned by Mrs. Olsen as high on the favorite list.

In the party record line, Shawhan also included the series of "Pardon My Blooper" platters that have been hits for many years.

In the choir lofts of many of our leading churches, organists are readying programs for their annual Christmas services.

Here again, emphasis is on the traditional rather than the new.

THEODORE LAMS, Mt. Prospect's village president and organist for the Faith Lutheran church in Arlington Heights, says that "nothing can take the place of older music, since so many of the songs and carols are a deep part of Christian tradition."

He and Mrs. Earle Auge, 801 N. Pine, Arlington Heights, who, with her husband, makes up the organist-director team of the Presbyterian church of Arlington Heights, both agreed that modern interpretations and settings for the more traditional music are becoming common.

The Presbyterian choirs, for instance, have used Fred Waring arrangements in his "Song of Christmas" album to prepare a part of their program.

"But we would never consider 'jazzing up' the older songs," Mrs. Auge says.

No matter what the choice, the Mormon choir, Fred Waring, the Chipmunks, or Little Anthony, music is filling the air this Christmas.

And young and old alike will be filled with the season's joy by song. (B8

Brown Is Director Of Rug Institute

Arlington Heights resident Douglas Brown, owner of Mayfair Home Furnishings company, 1136 E. Northwest hwy., Palatine, was installed as director of the Rug Cleaners Institute of Chicago December 12 in the Bismark hotel.

The institute, comprised of the 20 largest rug companies in Chicago, is a trade organization for improving ways of doing business and also for protecting the consumer. One of the main aims of the institute is to keep up with the newest trends in the rug business, especially through mechanical advances.

Brown, who lives at 1323 W. Sigwalt, has been owner of the Palatine concern since its founding in 1943. He moved to Arlington Heights from Chicago in 1944.

A 1936 GRADUATE of DePaul University in Chicago, where he majored in law, Brown is a member of the local Lions club, Elks club, and Chamber of Commerce. He was a candidate for Village trustee last April.

Brown and his wife, Olive, have two children, Lois and Douglas Jr. The famil attends the Presbyterian church in Arlington Heights.

Manager of Mayfair Home Furnishings, Jim Kolze, was recently awarded a trophy for the highest mark in a technical course in Amsterdam, New York, for rug company managers. (AP

Suburban Jews Mark Hanukkah Observance

The night of December 25, the lights in the homes of about 101 families in the northwest suburbs will go out. In their place one small candle will be lit - one small candle marking the beginning of the Jewish holiday Hanukkah.

Each night for the next eight days, the original candle will be lit and another added, until at the end of the week-long celebration eight candles are lighted. This rite is performed in the Jewish home at nightfall in the presence of the entire family.

FOR THE Jewish family th... and gaie... gift giving and gay celebration. It is a time to remember thankfully Judah, the Maccabee, who battled 2,000 years ago against the Syrians and finally was able to rid the temple in Jerusalem of pagan influence.

Once again, the mighty temple, built under the rule of Solomon, was free for worship of God.

The holiday, mentioned in John 10:22 as the feast of dedication, is also known as the feast of lights, because of the ritual. Candles are lit for eight nights because of the miracle which is said to have happened when the temple was taken back from the Syrians.

When the pagans were driven from the temple, only a small jar of holy oil, just enough for one day, was left behind. But this tiny jar of oil burned for eight days and nights until new oil could be made to fill the sacred lamps.

THIS Jewish holiday, though not one of the major Jewish celebrations during the year, has always been filled with gaiety and joyfulness. It is only coincidental that it falls during the month of the Christian's most important holiday, Christmas.

American society, oriented to a Christian way of life, glows and throbs during the Christmas season with lights, evergreen, crammed stores, carols, Christmas pageants in school, church, on radio and television.

By the time a Jewish child is about 5-years-old, he begins to question. "Why can't we have a tree with lights? Is Santa going to come to our house?"

It is then that Jewish parents must reinforce the framework of their child's beliefs and explain differences in religious faiths.

"We are Jewish," children are told. "Santa and the Christmas tree are a special part of Johnny's religion, because he is Protestant. He believes that Jesus, only a great prophet for the children of Israel, is the Son of God. We believe that the Son of God has not yet been given to us, and we are waiting for his appearance."

"Your little friend, Johnny, is celebrating the Christ child's birthday by giving gifts. Santa is a part of that birthday."

SIMPLE answers at first satisfy the Jewish child. Hanukkah candle-lighting and gift exchanging bring the family close. A favorite pastime of the children is a game called dreidel, played with a wooden or metal top. Special prayers of thanksgiving, as well as Hallel (Psalms 113-118) are recited in the synagogue each day of the festival.

But it is important that the Jewish child learn and remember that Hanukkah and Christmas bear no relationship. One is celebrating a battle; the other a birthday.

Many Jews compromise by having a Christmas tree. This may be justified by saying, "It is for our children who see that our neighbors have one."

"We have a tree because our observance of Christmas is like that of Thanksgiving — a secular, national holiday with no religious significance.

This Jew is disregarding the fact that the tree is a basic Christian religious symbol. Early Christian use of the tree was based on a legend that the night Jesus was born all trees of the forest bloomed and bore fruit despite snow and ice that covered them.

MORE thoughtful Christians regard the tree, today, as a symbol of the resurrection and immortality of Christ.

In the long run, Jews are not resentful of Christmas. In the words of a member of the Beth Tikvah congregation — about 101 families that hold synagogue services in the Twinbrook school, Hoffman Estates — "We realize we are a minority. We have our own beautiful holidays and times for gift giving."

The night of December 25, 101 families from Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Elk Grove, Wood Dale, Hoffman Estates, Mt. Prospect, Roselle, Addison, Wheaton, Glen Ellyn, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, and Elmhurst, will sit in darkness. Then one small candle will burn steadily.

The festival of lights is begun. (B8

Half Cent Tax to Net $500,000

The new half cent sales tax in unincorporated areas will net Cook county about $500,000 in 1960.

That's the estimate of Richard R. Hodgman, deputy controller.

The tax has been in effect since August 1 in unincorporated areas, where store owners now collect 3½ cents tax on every dollar purchased.

The 3½ cent tax is in effect in Chicago and most suburbs. Three cents of the sales tax goes to the state and the half cent to the municipality where the purchase is made. Legislation was passed this summer allowing counties to levy a half cent tax, too. (B8

Santa Fills Orders For Suburb Children

Thanks to a battery of cipher clerks and cryptographers, orders are being filled at Santa's North Pole headquarters with a dispatch that amazes even that amazing old elf.

A letter postmarked Arlington Heights, December 16, reads: "d Re xmnl pA. Xu." It is processed along with a million others, and comes out: "A doll and doll dishes for Marcia Ann Longrie, 429 S. Forrest ave."

Time was when Santa read all his own correspondence, filled his own orders. But in this age of specialization, Santa is specializing, too. Besides, he's not as young as he was, his eyes are getting weaker, and his ability to translate is slowing down. Hence, the expert helpers in the mail room.

After the order is translated, it is sent to the supply clerk where the requested items are checked against inventory. There once was an intermediate stage — the bookkeeping department — where behavior records were stored. But since each letter almost always includes the preface, "I have been a good boy (or girl)," this practice has been stopped.

MOST POPULAR toys, Santa finds, are Capé Canaveral launching sets, dolls (and doll paraphernalia), drive-in theaters, rifles, pistols, plastic swords, and assorted articles of mayhem.

There are other items, of course. Randi Sauter would like a "paraket ket and a pear of skates;" Pat McGrath wants a "Sneaky Pete magic show;" and Diane Knowles wishes "a new borne invint." Santa doesn't know about that, Diane. Others are just as odd.

One boy asks for a Ford Skyliner, and another for a dinosaur.

Santa is wordly-wise, but he is still taken in by letters such as that sent by Michael James. It starts out simply, "I love you Santa Claus. I want a book and a cowboy suit." Mike may also expect to find a few extra chocolate bars in his Christmas stocking.

And Kathy and Sharon Geisler of Elk Grove Village may find their letters more receptive because each promised, "I will leave some carrots for your reindeers."

ONE NAMELESS little girl wrote: "Dear Santa, I been very good. I helped my mother to wash the dishes. I helped my mother to put them away. I even helped to dry the dishes. I wook like a dool like a real baby. And a big buggy." The letter then asks hopefully: "Is there anything else you wook like to get me?"

Ronnie and Mary Ann Frasz of Rolling Meadows lay great stress on their goodness, ask "Do you know what I want for Christmas?," and then suggest that Santa "please look around at the North Pole" for enumerated items.

Rob's letter is brief, to the point, and an unabashed attempt at bribery. Santa, the most corruptible of elves, will not overlook Rob's house after reading, "Dear Santa, I'm going to give you a penny form Rob."

Erica Duncan worries that "you and your elves do not catch a cold," and Bobby James of Wheeling writes: "I love you. I want a hat, a car, a cape. I work for you. Dear Santa Claus, thank you for all the Christmases. You are the best Santa Claus I have seen."

ONE enterprising eight-year-old sent 26 letters to Santa, signing them variously, "George," "Ralph," Tom," "Bill," "Jim," etc., and directing that the toys all be sent to the same address. And Boppy Stein's second letter lists two of everything — just in case.

Anxious boys and girls who plan to be away for the holidays send forwarding addresses. Debbie Solheim of Rolling Meadows cautions, "I will be in California visiting my Grandpa so please bring my toys there." And Diane Aldrich says, "I will be at my Grandma B's house in Tulsa, Oklahoma, this Christmas. So please bring it there."

One letter from a boy, 9½, and his brother, 7 months, ominously warns: "We will be waiting for you Christmas Eve night."

Another disgruntled character spoke of his disappointment last year, submits the same list, and cautions, "You'd better make it this time."

AN Elk Grove girl doesn't want any mixups. She writes: "Dear Santa, Will you please bring these presents. A playpen for Susie. Susie is my doll. A stove and refrigerator for Debbie. Pot and pan for Debbie. Play high-heels for Debbie . . . A pair of stockings for Debbie's mother. A pair of stockings for Debbie's father. Thank you. Debbie Svoboda."

Johnny Fox of Wheeling writes: "Don't forget the poor children. Remember Santa about the poor children and we should give them a blanket and some toys. Don't forget the sick people. Don't forget the poor mothers and fathers (blankets). If you have some cookies for the poor and the sick, you might bring them to them. Love, Johnny Fox, Mommy Fox, Daddy Fox, Peggy Fox."

Kids, Santa will do his best. (B8

Recognition Night For 4-H Group

Recognition night, in which members receive achievement awards, was observed at a recent meeting of Country Cousins 4-H, held in the home of Leslie Taylor, Palatine.

The group also discussed its Christmas party planned by Sewing Susies and to which Country Cousins have been invited. Judy Fisher gave a speech on opportunities and new members, Dianne Marshall and Carolyn Swanson, both of Arlington Heights, were received into membership.

Four 4-H Groups Hold Joint Christmas Party

Sewing Susies 4-H club celebrated Christmas World Wide jointly with Clever Clover, Country Cousins and Snappy 4-H clubs at a party December 14 in Pioneer Park auditorium. Elizabeth Gross of the Sewing Susies presided.

Clever Clovers and Sewing Susies told of Christmas customs in other countries. Jane Tagge was pianist.

Mary Jo Herff, Jean Nolting and Jane Tagge of Sewing Susies were "wise men" in a skit; each girl present brought a coin gift to be used for the needy. The money will be divided between CARE and the American Friends Service committee.

JUDY FISHER from the Country Cousins gave the speech on "4-H Club Work" for which she received the county public speaking award last year. Girls from Country Cousins sang a group of Christmas carols with Linda Trimmel at the piano.

The Snappy 4-H club gave a skit on fibers. Suzanne Anderson played the piano for the group songs.

"Adeste Fideles" was sung by a group of girls from Sewing Susies.

Mrs. Frank Henry told the clubs that they were sponsored by the Wheeling Home Bureau unit. Each of the four 4-H clubs will receive an engraved gavel from this Home Bureau unit.

Refreshments of cookies and candies were served, and the meeting was concluded with the singing of "Silent Night." (4-H

Q. When returning home from a date, should a girl thank the boy for the date?

A. She certainly doesn't thank him for "dating her," but she does thank him for a pleasant evening.

Q. Is it all right for a hostess to place the food on the individual dinner plates and have everything ready when her guests sit down, or should she always have the food on platters for passing around?

A. In a home without servants, arranging food on the place plates is a very practical idea, and certainly is not improper.

'Green' Christmas Is Here to Stay: Pastor

Commercialism Reaches Its Saturation Point

by DICK HOFFMANN

What with Christmas office parties often lapsing into debaucheries, overindulgence in holiday spirits generally, and a torrent of nonsense belching forth on every form of communicative system devised in its assault on the purse, it is no wonder mere mention of the Christmas season has furrowed the face of many a critic of contemporary America into a frown.

But are the frowns over the "Christmas Neurosis" justifible? For a time, clergymen of the Christian faith were taking potshots from the altar at the prevailing mood of commercialism the holiday seemed to provoke. The cry for the cathartic crusade demanded to "Put Christ back in Christmas."

It wasn't so much that "Xmas" had become an abbreviated excuse for merry-making; rather the symbolism had changed to a sort of "$mas."

BUT, ACCORDING to one leading cleric in the northwest suburban area, the Rev. Dr. Martin E. Marty, pastor of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Elk Grove Village: "We've reached the saturation point in Christmas commercialism; we can't do much more. The sermons against it have become obvious; we aren't going to pull it back into orbit.

"In other words, 'Green (dollar) Christmas' is here to stay," he thinks.

Have the money changers won out, then? Not necessarily, Rev. Marty says. He noted that many faiths, particularly the Catholics, Episcopalians and Lutherans, are stressing the Advent season - the four weeks preparation in anticipation of Christ's coming.

Furthermore, the "Creche" (manger scene) is not only receiving the blessing of priests but is making more frequent appearances in store windows (either out of a sensitivity developed by merchants over the charge of commercialism or a sense of their own feelings of community obligation).

An example of this trend toward reconciliation is a letter composed by the Rev. John Petersen, pastor of Our Saviour Lutheran church, Arlington Heights, for publication in the Chamber of Commerce bulletin.

Petersen counsels that business contributes to the economic life of a community, and the church teaches the Christian life. "But the two are not separate and distinct," he notes.

He admits that Christmas bazaars have been staged long before the day Santa arrives, and concedes that merchants are probably weary of hearing the commercial Christmas assailed from the pulpit. But he asks that the season be saved from becoming "a hollow pagan holiday."

ACTUALLY, THIS is where the two most significant Christian celebrations - Christmas and Easter - had their origins. The first Christmas was observed in Rome around 336 A.D., when the Emperor Constantine, converted to Christianity, invoked the celebration.

The choice of the date was determined by the already existing pagan festival of the birth of the Sun God. In fact, Dec. 25, the shortest day of the year, was the time for "Natalis Solis Invicti," birth of the unconquerable sun.

(Easter is derived from "Eostre," the Anglo-Saxon word for the Spring Goddess.)

Christmas itself comes from the old English title, "Christ's Mass."

This is one reason Jehovah's Witnesses find celebration of Christmas repugnant; its pagan origins also led Puritans to label Yuletide as "Fooltide," and in Massachusetts in 1639 to observe Christmas meant a fine of five shillings.

WITH BOTH secular and religious roots, the season is one which seems to have evolved into an annual tug-of-war between serious ceremony and celebration with abandon.

The Rev. Frank Cantieri, assistant pastor to the Rev. A. J. Burke, pastor of St. Alphonsus church of Prospect Heights, commented: "We seem to get as involved as children in the material preparation for Christmas."

But he sees a revived interest in the older, traditional carols and hymns, and the observance of Advent, an Old Testament emphasis on the four weeks preparation for the coming of Christ.

"Advent wreaths are more in evidence," he says, in which the holly wreath holds four candles to represent the four weeks. When all are lighted, the symbolism is Christ, the light of the world. "It's a time when the family prays at home, with the father leading the prayers," Rev. Cantieri said.

Rev. Marty also noted that significant is the altar color for Advent - purple for penitence - the same as for the observance of Lent.

"It seems to be an attempt to recover the medieval Christmas," he commented. "To the Christian, what is significant about Christmas is what he makes of it," Marty says simply.

SANTA CLAUS, who for a long time enjoyed a sacrosanct station in American society, has even become the target of barbs recently.

"The arguments against Santa were that you were developing a faith in a child in something that would be shattered later; others saw it as an evasion of the specific Christian language of Christ's divine source of blessing," Marty volunteered. (He himself holds that Santa should not warrant this concern; that the child is not that dismayed at learning the fiction.)

The jolly fellow also has religious origins. His figure is drawn liberally from St. Nicholas, bishop of Myra, known as the patron saint of sailors and children. St. Nicholas, whose niche in history is uncertainly traced to the 5th or 6th century, would give gifts to needy children on Dec. 6. He often is pictured with three children in a tub, and an anchor often accompanies the study. Another parallel with Santa is St. Nicholas' long, white beard.

The festival of Hanukkah, the Jewish celebration which falls on Dec. 16-23, however, is 'no Jewish Christmas,' according to Rabbi Richard Hirsch of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. He is serving at Beth Tikvah in Hoffman Estates until a rabbi can be appointed.

"Hanukkah is a commemoration of the right of freedom of religion," he said, tracing its beginnings back to the overthrow of the Syrians in 165 B.C. to regain the temple at Jerusalem.

IT IS A TIME of gift-giving because it is a happy holiday, he noted. But the Rabbi Roland B. Gittelsohn of Boston writes in Jewish publication: "One of the most pathetic spectacles in American Jewish life at this time of the year is the Jew who justifies his observance of Christmas on the ground that it is a secular, national holiday, with no religious significance."

He further chides: "What would be our reaction if any significant number of Christians were to begin celebrating Yom Kippur, the holiest day in our religious calendar, as a secular occasion - a day devoid of all sacred significance, a day for unbounded hilarity and exaggerated commercialization?" in reprimanding Jews for this type of observance of Christmas rather than their own faith's Hanukkah (or Chanukah).

Criticism sharpened to a sickle-like cutting edge with which he flays "Christmas Ad Absurdum" is presented in an article in the Dec. 19 issue of the Nation by Jerome Beatty, Jr., author of the bestseller, "Show Me the Way to Go Home: The Commuter Story."

Beatty remarks: "Even the Defense Department's public-relations fellows don't want to be left out in the cold. One year they issued a lengthy press report about a strange flying object which had been observed in the early hours of the morning, picked up by the DEW line, other radar installations, Navy picket ships and Army units in Alaska. The dispatch ended with the punch line: 'Santa Claus is arriving on schedule.'

"How much did this bit of nonsense cost the taxpayers? How much it added to the gradual debasement of the entire Christmas legend is something you will have to judge for yourself."

AND LATER: "The news and business magazines are worried about the Yuletide, too. For them, of course, the really jolly carols are played on the cash register. As one business weekly reported last year, 'It looks like a Merry Christmas...Late shoppers turn the tide...Sales get into the Christmas spirit.'"

Beatty, however, indulges in what appears to be lint-picking when he comments on Stan Freberg's record, "Green Christmas," satirical roasting of the Christmas of our day, as he writes: "The paradox is that Freberg, the son of a minister, has coined a lot of cash as a result of the success of the platter, and is himself open to the charge of making money on Christmas. But the royalties go to charity."

It's a pity - applying the same criteria - that Mr. Beatty didn't have advance notice of the full-page advertisement adorning the back of the Nation issue in which his article appears.

It raises the Nation's rather subdued, pedagogic voice to the shout of "Give the Nation for Christmas." (BS

Multiple Services Planned

St. Peter Lutheran church, Arlington Heights, is again planning numerous Christmas services in worship of the Christ Child.

Three special programs, 4:30 p.m., 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m, are planned for Christmas Eve by the children of the day school under the direction of the school's two co-administrators, Mr. L. Rush and Mr. J. Hoffschneider. Over 450 children will participate.

For the first time this year, the choirs of the congregation will present a Christmas Eve midnight candle-light service, beginning at 11:30 p.m.

DURING THIS impressive ceremony, featuring Christmas hymns and carols, all lights will be extinquished while the choir members take their places throughout the sanctuary with lighted candles. Each candle will be lit from the main candle on the altar, symbolic of Christ, the Light of the World. Parents of the congregation's young people in service will also be asked to step forward and light a candle representing their absent kin.

Christmas Day services will take place at 8 a.m. and 10:45 a.m., with a German service at 9:30 a.m. Officiants at all the Christmas services will be the pastor, the Rev. R. O. Bartz, and the Rev. L. C. Bernthal, assistant pastor.

Pre-Holiday Gatherings Spark Christmas Spirit

Sidelights Of Arlington Heights

Dorothy Meyer, CL 3-2298 Elsie Jedd, CL 3-5982

The most delightful of all deadlines draws near and no one has ever been busier. Time is suddenly the rarest of commodities. It's one of the happy miracles of the season, though, that universally everyone has time enough to stop for a moment and wish for the world a happy, blessed Christmas and peace in the new year.

The hospitality that is as much a part of Christmas as the tree, has prompted several pre-holiday gatherings, where guests and hosts alike relaxed awhile midst the hurry-hurry hubbub of the season. A neighborhood open house slowed the hectic pace of residents on the 1000 S. Dunton block for a few hours Friday night, at the Conrad Hoffmans, 1038 S. Dunton.

Co-hosting were the Thomas Boyles, 1042 S. Dunton, who recently welcomed Mrs. Boyle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Murphy of the Bronx, arriving for a holiday stay here.

Saturday night the Jack Guilfoils, 801 S. Chestnut, entertained six local couples at a let's-relax-awhile holiday party.

Twenty five neighborh ood housewives, each with two dozen of her favorite Christmas cookies, were guests yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Claude Chapin, 728 S. Chestnut. Two dozen times 25 is pretty many cookies, but the occasion was a cookie exchange party, one of the tastiest of holiday customs, and so everything came out even. Each cooky artiste went home with the best of someone else and the confections that went with the coffee were the specialities of the hostess.

THIRTY BUSINESS acquaintances and local friends of the Charles Locascios, met and mingled Saturday night at 1105 N. Walnut, where the Locascio hospitality and festive decorations put guests in the holiday mood.

The Mitchell Barnett family is having their second year of combining happy birthday with merry Christmas, as Christine gets ready to celebrate her second Christm as Eve birthday. Christy will be honored at a birthday celebration of the immediate family Thursday evening and share the excitement of the day Christmas, when aunts, uncles and cousins are guests in the Barnett home, 713 S. Evergreen. At a Christmas party Friday night, 1 Chicago friends of the Barnetts concentrated on holiday wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Brown returned home to 509 S. Chestnut a week ago, after two weeks of traveling from New York to Sea Island, Ga., and back up north. During their stay in New York city, Mrs. Brown was able to watch the construction of the "tree" in Rockefeller Center, that was made up of 70 individual trees and decorated with balloon size ornaments. She says, however, that aside from the enormity of that particular holiday display, New York's Christmas decorations are much less impressive than Chicago's.

Sunday, the Browns entertained a party of eight Chicago family members in honor of two of them, who celebrate holiday birthdays.

David Milligan turns 12 Christmas Eve and will celebrate at a family dinner party in his honor in the home of his parents, the William Milligans, 728 S. Vail. Among Dave's well-wishers will be his grandparents, the senior Mrs. Milligan and the Ernest Swansons, his uncle and aunt, and the George Prings, all of Arlington Heights and weather permitting, his uncle Ernie Swanson and the family from Freeport.

THE RICHARD Graczyk family, 718 S. Chestnut, will join other relatives in extending birthday congratulations Christmas Eve to Mrs. Graczyk's grandfather, John Patulski of Chicago, who will be 80. Happy birthday wishes will respectfully wait however and follow the impressive and meaningful "old country" traditions of Christmas Eve, that prescribe each phase of the holiday feast to be observed in the Patulski home.

The innate hospitality of the season was abundantly in evidence Sunday afternoon and evening, at the holiday open house of the Henry Schallers, 316 N. Carlyle, for 70 Chicago and local friends.

The holiday mood cheerily invaded the 800 block of S. Vail over the weekend, when three households held neighborhood pre-Christmas parties. Mrs. Neal Hawkinds, 831 S. Vail, entertained eight members of a bridge group Thursday night, a grab bag gift exchange and party air making a festive occasion of the regularly scheduled get-together. The Hawkins' son, Mike, also brought Christmas closer when he arrived the next night from Fulton, Mo., where he attends Westminster college.

Friday night the husbands of the bridge club members joined the ladies at a holiday party in the Paul Weinrich home, 825 S. Vail. Here too, a homecoming son added to the Christmas spirit as airman second class, Ronald, began a 17-day leave from the air base at Rantoul. An even happier day arrives January 18 when airman second class, Weinrich, becomes civilian, first class, ending four years in the service, that included a 15-month tour of duty in Okinawa.

SATURDAY night, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wist, 837 S. Vail, entertained with a holiday dinner party for 16 and concluded the round of festivities, but only temporarily. After all, the holiday season is just beginning.

Mrs. Richard Kral, recently of 221 S. Gibbons, was the guest of honor last Wednesday afternoon at a farewell luncheon given by Mrs. Joseph J. Connery, 303 S. Gibbons. Eight neighborhood friends wished Mrs. KrKal bon voyage and presented her with a personal gift of remembrance. The Krals are temporarily residing with Mrs. Kral's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kalous, 828 N. Walnut, until their departure January 2 for Tokyo, where Mr. Kral is being transferred to represent Bell and Howell.

Miss Arlene Ford's duties as a nurse will keep her in a Rockford hospital Christmas Day, but nothing foreseeable will keep her from her own birthday party, December 27, in the home of her parents, the Quentin Fords, 1215 E. Euclid, where a family get-together is planned.

Steve Gleckler celebrated his tenth birthday Sunday, sporting a pair of black eyes and a badly bent nose. They were not given him specifically for his birthday, but were the by-product of a collision with a schoolmate Friday afternoon. Steve is not kidding when he says, "I ran into a girl the other day who -" It's birthday time at 1212 N. Dunton today, too, as blue eyed Scott turns 7 and his black-eyed brother gives him best wishes and a few tips about the "weaker" sex.

TWO OTHER N. Dunton street residents celebrating holiday birthdays this week, are Carol Loechl, 1213 N. Dunton, who will be 3 years old Christmas Day and Mrs. Richard Weidner, 1131 N. Dunton, who will be pretty tired by the end of the week. Mrs. Weidner observes a Christmas Eve birthday.

The holiday season is a multiple birthday season to Mrs. Howard Stiefenhoefer, 926 S. Vail, and almost every member of her family. She called her sister, Mrs. W. S. Gildersleeve of Oak Ridge, Tenn., last Thursday, to say happy birthday and at a family get-together Sunday in the Evanston home of their brother, R. D. Doten, received birthday congratulations herself, as did her daughter and the host. Mrs. Stiefenhoefer's birthday was Sunday, today is the day for her daughter, Mrs. Craig Chamberlin of Mt. Prospect and Mr. Doten celebrates a Christmas Eve birthday.

Jean Pagliai was 10-years-old Thursday and her birthday not only survived the hectic holiday rush, but was celebrated twice. To mark the birth date itself, Jean was taken out to dinner by her favorite man, dad, who let the rest of the family come along too. Saturday afternoon Jean was hostess to five neighborhood friends at a birthday treat for her class at school to mark the occasion. Earlier in the week a similar treat made Carol's fellow Brownies glad she had a Christmas time birthday.

Although many holiday arrivals of out of town family members still depend upon the so far good weather, a few family circles are already complete. Mrs. Olga L. Beale of Anderson, Ind. arrived Sunday to spend the holiday weeks with her son and family, the Gerald Smiths, 812 N. Mitchell.

MR. AND MRS. Charles Hardy came in Saturday from Ellison Bay, in Door County, Wis., and will spend about three weeks with their daughter and her family, the James Willners, 832 S. Highland.

Friday the David Gows, 824 S. Dunton, greeted Mrs. Gow's mother, Mrs. Brooke Rimerman of Arlington, Va., who will stay the 2-week holiday season with the family here.

Friday began the influx at the Ed Baker household, 638 S. Dunton, home sweet home to Nancy, Beloit college coed, and Jack, attending De Pauw university in Greencastle, Ind. Their grandmother, Mrs. John A. Brown, will arrive from Sycamore Christmas Eve, as will their aunt and her family, the A. M. Youngs of Toledo. The Youngs' son, Roi, of Santa Monica, is also expected Thursday, to make it a full house and a happy one.

The senior John Frieburgs of Leroy, will be here today and tomorrow with their son and his family, at 1303 E. Eastman, then continue on a holiday trip to Philadelphia for Christmas with a daughter. Friday, members of the junior Mrs. Frieburg's family will be here from Wheaton, Naperville, Western Springs and Mt. Prospect to spend the day.

Tomorrow, the Saunders Reinhard family, 801 S. Walnut, will be watching for the arrival of Mrs. Reinhard's sister, Miss Marjorie Winbigler of Cleveland, and of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Winbigler of Monmouth, who will accompany another daughter, Elizabeth, of Iowa City. They all plan to stay for the long holiday weekend.

THE A. R. McINNES family, 1012 W. Campbell, will have as holiday weekend guests, Mr. McInnes' aunt and cousin, Mrs. Mabel Mitchell and son Earl, arriving Thursday from Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Crews will come by train from Minneapolis Thursday to celebrate the holiday and spend the weekend with their daughter and family, the Gordon Lofquists, 3 E. Algonquin.

It's a rare day that one family member in the east and another in the west, manage to get home for the holidays on the same day and arrive at the same airport. Tomorrow is a rare day for Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Baumann, 416 E. Euclid. Their son Ron, who works in New Jersey and their daughter Barbara, who attends college in Colorado, will land within hours of one another at O'Hare airport.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Stoehr, 441 S. Prindle, enjoyed a company Christmas dinner dance in the Edgewater Beach hotel, on Chicago's colorful lake shore, Saturday night.

A traditional Christmas reunion will bring 40 family members together Friday in the home of the Joe Murans, 1319 N. Dunton. On hand to help greet the Wood Dale, Highland Park, Buffalo Grove and local arrivals will be the Murans' son, Tom, who arrived over the weekend from Drake university in Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Daniel, 346 Derbyshire, entertained at a cocktail party Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kussow, 1203 Woodford, drove to De Pere Friday to join in a large family birthday party, honoring Mrs. Kussow's father, Rudolph Vetter, on his 82nd birthday. David Kussow arrived home Saturday from Southern university, just a day too late to attend his grandfather's birthday party.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nagle, 321 Stratford, were hosts to 12 guests at a pre-Christmas dinner party, December 12. Guests were members of Mr. Nagles' poker club, and their wives.

Paul Bredehoft, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bredehoft, 201 Wilshire, will celebrate his fifth birthday Tuesday, December 2, with a party for five friends.

Among the young Stonegate residents returning to Arlington Heights from colleges, are Miss Sally Moore, daughter of the Chester Moores, 311 S. Windsor dr., home from the Colorado State university in Fort Collins, Miss Linda Bullock, daughter of the T. J. Bullocks, 209 Wilshire, who arrived Friday from the University of Illinois and Greg and Mary Rose, the A. Rose's son and daughter are home from Bradley University and Mary from Pittsburgh.

MR. AND MRS. Eber Greenlee of Columbus, Ind., are spending a week in Arlington Heights visiting their son-in-law and daughter, the Edward F. Cockerhams, 410 S. Lincoln lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Conley, 417 S. Lincoln lane, attended the McDonalds Systems annual Christmas dinner party Monday, in the Prime Rib restaurant in Skokie.

Mrs. Charles H. Oestmann and Mrs. Richard Johnson were co-hostesses at a pre-Christmas luncheon and bridge, December 16, in the Oestmann home, 315 E. Park.

Mrs. Margaret Kline and her great granddaughter, Leslie Spilman, are back home at 641 S. Belmont, after a 6-week visit in Richmond, Va.

Mrs. H. R. Smith and Mrs. F. G. Suhr gave a cocktail party December 15, in the former's home, 614 S. Dryden, for a group of friends and members of the Village Theater of Arlington Heights and the Des Plaines Theater guild.

Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Ruth Boots, will arrive here Tuesday from Muncie, Ind., to stay through the Christmas holidays. During her stay, she will accompany her daughter and family to attend a performance of the "Music Man."

Mrs. Paul Johns of Morton, Pa., arrived here November 21 to be a comfort and help to her daughter, Mrs. John Gustitus, 400 S. Dryden, when her husband suffered a heart attack. Mr. Gustitus is still in Resurrection hospital.

MRS. EVERETT Ballard, 407 E. Rockwell, welcomed home two members of her family Sunday. Mr. Ballard came home from a business trip in San Francisco, and their daughter, Barbara, is home from Indianapolis, where she spent the weekend visiting friends.

Mrs. J. Kemp Blackwell, 518 S. Dryden, entertained a group of friends and neighbors at a luncheon December 17, for a former Scarsdale neighbor, Mrs. Norman Sagerson, who is visiting here from her home in Boulder. Mrs. Sagerson will spend a week visiting friends and relatives in the Arlington Heights area.

Mrs. Dora Mickey will arrive in Arlington Heights December 22, from Clinton, Iowa, for a holiday visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bliss, 814 Lynden ln.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bohl, 522 S. Dryden, are looking forward to the long awaited visit from Mrs. Bohl's mother, Mrs. Anna Strohm, who will arrive from Bloomfield, Neb., for a holiday visit. During her visit, Mrs. Strohm will become acquainted with three new grandchildren, 2½-year-old twins, Edward and Elizabeth, and baby David.

Miss Pam Buttenob, 310 Bristol lane, is home for the Christmas holidays from her duties at Evanston hospital, where she is in nurses training. Also joining the Buttenob family on Christmas Day, will be Mrs. Buttenob's parents, the Walter E. Vettes of Evanston.

HERE FOR the holidays are Mr. and Mrs. Gust Carlson, from Sister Bay, Wis., to spend Christmas with the latter's sister and family, the Roy Baumanns, 421 E. Orchard. On December 26, Mrs. Carlson and Mrs. Baumann will leave for Pasadena, where they will spend two weeks visiting Mrs. Baumann's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Baumann. Dan is attending Fuller seminary.

The Baumann's younger son, Clayton, leaves December 27 with a group of young people for Washington D. C., to attend the 4-day "Youths For Christ Teen" convention.

The Richard E. Downs' four children attended Eastman Kodak company's annual children's Christmas party Saturday, in Chicago. Their grandmother, Mrs. C. A. Downs, arrives from Buffalo, December 23, to stay through the holidays.

Virginia Terrace

The distinction of being the first Terrace baby born in Northwest Community hospital goes to James Bryan, son of Doris and Kenneth Koser, 1327 N. Illinois, who arrived December 15 weighing 8 pounds 4 ounces. His brother, Kenny, and sister, Kathleen, are being taken care of by paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mildred Koser, Milwaukee, while Doris is hospitalized. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Durhan, Galacia, Ill.

Mary and Dan Healy, 1329 N. Chicago, and their children, Danny, Mary Ann, and Michael, plan to spend Christmas eve with Dan's side of the family at the home of his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Burke, Wheeling, and their six girls. Christmas day the Healys will travel to Maywood to be with Mary's mother, Mrs. Edward F. McKee, and her brother, Ed.

A family Christmas party was held Sunday at the home of Jo and Robert Hult, 1108 N. Chicago, with a smorgasbord enjoyed by the Hult children, Jane and Jack, as well as Bob's aunt, Mrs. Ernest Booth, Chicago, aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Booth, Northbrook, and his mother, Mrs. A. J. Hult, Park Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Lackland, Sabetha, Ka., arrived Sunday to spend the Christmas holidays with their daughter and son-in-law, Cathy and Bill Gunnison, 1407 Clarendon, and their grandchildren, Bobby, Scott and Mark.

ARRIVING Christmas day at the home of Ruth and John Griffith, 1326 N. Race, will be Ruth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Raddant, sister, Ann, and grandmother, Mrs. A. L. Baird, all of Beloit. There to welcome them, too, will be the Griffith children, Mike and Julie.

Because her birthday is Christmas eve day, the celebration of same for Adelaide was held Sunday at a family dinner party at their home, 1333 N. Illinois, with husband, John, and children, Jeffrey, Patricia and John, on hand, as well as her parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Fairfield, and her father, Walter Denis, all of Chicago.

Alice and Guy Eisenhuth, 1321 N. Chicago, and their boys, Guy, Wayne and Glenn, plan to spend the Christmas eve with Guy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Eisenhuth Sr. Christmas day they will be with Alice's relatives, the Heinemann family.

Arriving here Christmas eve to be with their daughter and son-in-law, Carol and George Clarkson, 1259 N. Chicago, and granddaughters, Cheri and Melanie, will be Mr. and Mrs. John Fertig, Cincinnati, who plan on staying through the long weekend. To complete the family picture, George's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Clarkson and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Clarkson, all of Chicago, will also be out to enjoy the annual festivities.

Another couple dividing their time between families is Phyllis and Walter Busch, 1420 N. Chicago, and their son, Rowlin. Enjoying their month-old grandson Christmas eve will be Wally's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Busch, Park Ridge, while Christmas day the Busches will be with Phyllis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Webb, also of Park Ridge.

JOYCE AND Robert Anderson, 1234 N. Yale, will open their doors Christmas eve and entertain Joyce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Streich, Mt. Prospect, Bob's mother, Mrs. Ebba Anderson, Schiller Park, and Joyce's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mahaney, Miami, Fla., who are visiting here during the holidays. After a family dinner party, Santa Claus will visit for the benefit of the Anderson children, Kris and Mark, and there will be a general exchange of gifts. Christmas day the Anderson family will be at the home of Joyce's parents.

Marion and Ed Nielsen, 1252 N. Illinois, and their boys, Bradley and Scott, will sit down to the annual turkey dinner Christmas day at the home of Marion's sister, the Carl Hellners, Chicago, where all of Ed and Marion's relations will gather for the festive occasion.

A pre-holiday get-together was held Saturday evening at the home of Betty and Bob Gumz, 1248 N. Chicago. Among those enjoying themselves in the merry-making were Polly and George Herbert, Cathy and Bill Gunnsion and Betty and Ed Cech.

The annual Christmas party given by Kraft Foods, consisting this year of cocktails, dinner and dancing at the Yacht club, Chicago, for their employees, was enjoyed Saturday evening by Jerri and Bill Rix, 1248 N. Chicago.

Christmas day the Rixes, including their children, Jill and David, will entertain Bill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rix, Chicago, Jerri's dad, N. Ellingsen of Niles, and Miss Esther Binfield, Glencoe, for the holiday festivities.

Mrs. Marie Bender, 1421 N. Wilke, will enjoy a long Christmas holiday in the Chicago area, not only spending Christmas day with her granddaughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Messerly, but enjoying visits with many relatives and friends in the vicinity, also.

TURKEY AND all the trimmings will be enjoyed by Mrs. Myrtle Sorensen and Mr. and Mrs. James Sorensen of Rockford at the home of their daughter and sister and her family, the Herbert Trowes, 1240 N. Chicago. There will be gifts for all, but, naturally, the center of attention will be the Trowe children, Bradley, Martha, Margaret and Barbara.

Another arrival in time for Christmas was William Cutler, son of Carolyn and William Schrader, 1342 N. Race, born in Evanston hospital, Evanston, December 5 and weighing 7 pounds 1 ounce,. "Chip," as he has been nicknamed, is the delight of his sister, Lisa, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. T. Miller, Cleveland, and Mrs. E. J. Schrader, St. Paul, Minn.

Member of the Choraliers and the Harmonettes and directors, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wolf and Miss Marjorie Bue, gathered in the John R. Anderson home, 504 S. Lincoln lane, Saturday, for their annual potluck Christmas party.

MR. AND MRS. Douglas Stalker, 635 S. Lincoln lane, will have as their holiday guests, the former's parents, the Donald Stalkers, who will arrive December 23, from Duluth, to stay through the New Year.

It will be a family Christmas for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ross, 341 Bristol lane. Joining them on Christmas Day will be Mr. Ross' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Ross of Ft. Mitchell, Ky., and Mrs. Ross' sister and her family, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Freeman of Arlington Heights and two children.

Recent out of town guest of the Charles E. Skinners, 721 S. Beverly lane, was Stanley Plohr, visiting here from Springfield, Ill. The Skinners will welcome 20 family members and friends for Christmas dinner in their home. (A

Educational Unit Planned by Church

Plans for construction of a $375,000 educational unit at the corner of Vail and Eastman sts. has been announced by Arlington Heights' First Presbyterian church.

To be located west of the church's gymnasium, the building will be 61 feet wide on Vail and 133 feet long on Eastman. The two-story building will have a basement and provide an overall area of about 23,000 square feet of which 16,100 will be available for the Sunday Church School.

The proposed unit will house all of the Sunday School except the Senior High and Adult departments. The present school enrollment is 1500 students. The new unit will permit consolidation of the school, whose classes are presently scattered in the church area.

Members of the building committee are Albert S. Dunham, Carl Bowen, Mrs. Robert Bradle, Mrs. Engwerd M. Mommsen, Charles Pratt, Harold B. Rose, Glenn Rubenking, Byron Sayre, Mrs. Jack Schuler and Charles Tully.

Physical Fitness Classes Planned

Two new park district activities will open soon for those who like to keep fit and trim. Slimnastics for women and physical conditioning for men will be taught at Recreation park as part of the winter recreation program.

Slimnastics will meet on Tuesday evenings at 8 p.m. beginning January 12. Mrs. Donald Paluch, who teaches girls' physical education at South Junior high school, will lead the group. She will teach exercises which can be used to trim the figure and direct games which will provide an enjoyable workout. Although slimnastics is not a reducing course, because little can be accomplished in one meeting a week, registrants will learn exercises which they can combine with dieting and continue at home if they seriously want to reduce.

PHYSICAL conditioning includes instruction in techniques of weight training. The park physical conditioning room is equipped with bar bells, dumbbells, chinning bars, pulley weights, mats, iron boot, and other apparatus useful in strenuous body building and strengthening workouts.

Enrollees in the course will learn to use the equipment and will have a personalized workout program devised to fit their particular needs. Weights can be used to gain weight, add stamina, lose weight, increase strength or improve appearance, and the techniques of training varies according to the purpose. They can also be used to improve physical disabilities by workouts prescribed by a physician or competent physical therapist.

The course will meet on Mondays at 8 p.m. starting January 11. There is no fee for either physical conditioning or slimnastics but enrollees should register by calling the park district at CL 3-0620.

Hasbrook Report

Building Outlook Good For 1960

If you've been reading the papers closely, you probably know that the home-building industry is looking ahead to a bad year in 1960. The experts say that tight money will cause the housing business to drop as much as 20 per cent next year.

Not so at Hasbrook. In fact, we're looking ahead to our best year since we started building in Arlington Heights in 1957. We expect to sell 200 homes in 1960, as against 143 homes this year, and 76 in 1958.

Why is our outlook so good? There are several reasons.

First, savings and loan associations tell us that more deposits are being encouraged by the recent increase in interest rates to 4 per cent. With more mortgage money available, credit requirements will be lower, and more people will be able to buy homes. This promises to hold true for at least the first six months of next year.

Second, our policy of building homes only on order is paying off. We do not speculate. Some builders will build a string of homes and hope to find buyers. When they do, fine. But when they don't, their money is tied up in homes. This can be especially dangerous when money is tight, as it has been recently.

RILEY

We at Hasbrook believe the only sound way to run a home-building business is on a non-speculative basis. This keeps us healthy financially, and we can maintain our activities and our contributions to the village.

Third, based on the success of our new home styles introduced this year, we're planning to bring out even more exciting designs in 1960. In January, we plan to show several new models that will attract buyers.

These are the most important of the reasons that give us good reason to be cheery.

MANY OF OUR Arlington Heights friends know Richard K. Stevens, of 736 N. Kennicott St. For 9½ years, Dick has been with the U.S. Steel Corp, currently serving as industrial relations manager of the U.S. Steel Supply Division in Chicago.

It's our good fortune to have known Dick for several years and to have been impressed with this 33-year-old man's executive ability.

So it is a pleasure for us to announce his appointment as our executive vice president, effective Jan. 1, 1960. Dick will be in complete charge of administrative and operational activities.

I'm sure that Dick's wife, Shirley, and his three boys — Tom, John, and Robert — are as proud of Dick as we are to have him with us.

HOW MANY OF our readers have ever felt the urge to become a home-builder? On the surface, there isn't much to it. You borrow some money, buy a lot, build a home "on spec," sell it, and then pocket a 30 per cent profit.

But don't let appearances fool you. It's much harder than that. And the profits aren't 30 per cent. They're more apt to be somewhere between 5 and 10 per cent.

One of the problems that besets a builder is the possibility of liens. A lien is a claim for payment. For example, if a builder does not pay the contractor who installs the bathroom fixtures, the contractor files a lien. Until this lien is paid, the builder cannot give the buyer of the house a clear title.

Liens can pop up unexpectedly. Let's say in the above example that the builder has paid the contractor for the fixtures. But unknown to the builder, the contractor still owes the fixture manufacturer. The manufacturer, if he cannot collect from the contractor, files a lien on the house. Thus, even though the builder has paid the contractor, he must now satisfy the claim of the manufacturer.

As you can see, if the builder must be responsible for everyone's debts, he can quickly go out of business. To protect himself, the builder pays the title company to search for any possible liens and then issue a guarantee protecting the builder. This, of course, adds to the cost of the house.

One way to combat this problem would be to require that every manufacturer and supplier file a notice with the builder when material is shipped or delivered, stating any possible lien. This would cut the costs of title investigation and remove a source of harrassment to the builder.

"WHAT DOES Hasbrook plan to do after it completes its homes in Arlington Heights?" This is a question that many people ask. Our schedule calls for us to complete the last of our current 532 homes some time in 1961.

We originally began building here because we saw a great need for quality low-to-medium priced homes in the Chicago area. This need still exists as the area's population continues to grow.

Our hope is to begin other subdivisions soon. Land availability and cost will be an important factor in determining our next location. Another factor will be the welcome extended to us by government officials and village residents. A third factor will be financing to buy the land, put in the necessary improvements, such as sewers, streets, and water, and then erect the first model homes.

This much is certain: Our Arlington Heights experience has convinced us that a good home properly priced, properly sold, and properly serviced is a much-needed commodity. We intend to keep supplying that commodity, maintaining the same standards that have made us successful here.

I HOPE THAT all of you are looking forward to as merry a Christmas as we at Hasbrook are. The best of season's greetings to you, and a Happy New Year to all!

Your neighbor,
Albert E. Riley

News Of Prospect Meadows

Santa Claus and his helpers, Tom McIntyre, Roy Schaetzlein, Harold Bethke, Toney Toner, Hank Robotkay, Art Christiansen and Christmas stockings to the Frank Seifert, delivered Christmas stockings to the children of the Meadows.

Thursday evening Carol Schaetzlein, 423 Oriole lane, held a committee meeting for the purpose of filling the Christmas stockings. Those present included Vi Toner, Priscilla Carleu, Joan McCamant, Lynn Coopmans, Lorrie Heinz, Terry Griest and Phyllis Strahan. Saturday evening Carol, Roy and Sherry had dinner at the Homestead restaurant in Chicago and Sunday afternoon Carol's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lucas, Chicago were their dinner guests.

Wednesday evening the Prospect Meadows Mixed Bowling league bowled at Gunnells for turkeys. Carol Wilkins, Gloria Little and Adele Reid, John Wrath, Ray Larson and Bert Ruther won turkeys.

Condolences are extended to Mrs. Myrtle Stickrod, 628 Bunting lane, on the death of her sister, Mrs. Ethel Kurcke, Los Angeles, Cal., December 14.

THE Grandmothers' club met Wednesday at Mrs. Helena Woodruff's, 612 Larkdale, for their annual Christmas party. Those present included Mrs. Orvilla Daley, Mrs. Myrtle Stickrod, Mrs. Anne Liechsenring, Mrs. Edna Vartanian of Palatine and Mrs. Janet Nye of Arlington Heights.

Kay and Paul Rateike's son, Scottie, 400 Larkdale, fell and broke his left arm December 15.

Billy and Jimmy Wilkins, 621 Bob-o-link rd., and Carla and Timmy Doten, 624 Bob-o-link rd., are participating in their Sunday school annual Christmas program Sunday. Carla and Timmy's father is Rev. Frank Doten of the Cumberland Baptist church, Des Plaines.

Jean and Russell Thompson, 616 Bunting lane, attended the formal dinner dance given by the National Perfumers association in the Grand Ball Room of the Conrad Hilton hotel Saturday night.

Jan and Bob Scott, 629 Bunting lane, entertained Joan and Bob Wilson with an evening of bridge Saturday.

Friday evening Tom Heinz, Dick Holleran, John Smith, Jim Griest, Frank Seifert, Hank Robotkay and Bud Redeen put up and decorated a Christmas tree at the end of the 400 block of Oriole lane. After the decorating, a group of girl scouts sang Christmas carols and then had chocolate milk and cookies in the Tom Heinz home. After the girls went home Jane Redeen, Marie Robotkay, Mrs. Frank Seifert, Terry Greist, Irene Smith and Carol and Roy Schaetzlein joined the party and participated in group singing.

FRIDAY EVENING Rita and Chuck Durec's daughter, Cathy, 401 Bob-o-link rd., celebrated her seventh birthday with a slumber party with Joyce and Peggy Wrath and Susie Murdock, Arlington Heights, spending the night.

Sunday evening Jean and Howie Kamps, 433 Bob-o-link rd. and Millie and Gail Webber, 421 Bob-o-link rd., gave a joint cocktail party attended by Pat and John Wrath, Joyce and Bert Ruther, Irma and Glen Elke, Mary Ellen and Tom Messner, Joyce and Skeets Hoglund, Wilma and Bob Canfield and Kay and Jim Wilson.

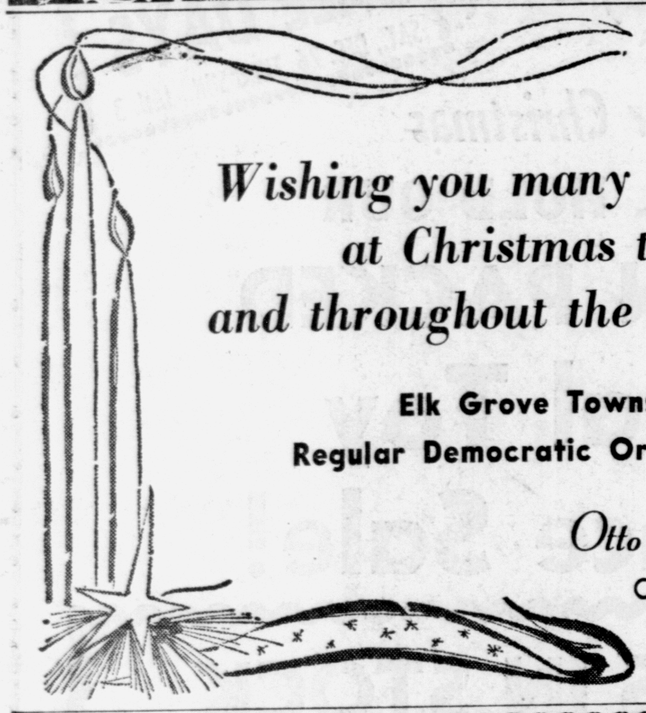

Thursday afternoon Lynn Coopmans, 600 Bob-o-link rd., had a birthday party for Cathy, who was two. Those present included Pam and Susie Dejaeghere and Marguerite, Carol and Cindy Wilson and Joan, Coleen McGivney and Dollie and Cathy's grandmother Mrs. Primo Mucci, Evanston. Sunday Lynn's sister and brother-in-law, Fran and Ray Nasby, Chicago, had dinner and spent the day preparing for the arrival of Lynn and Fran's mother, Mrs. Paul Sweeney, and aunt, Miss Frances Brent, St. Petersburg, Fla. FROM SHERWOOD

Ray Burfeind, son of the Nat. T. Burfeinds, 1130 N. Harvard, is home for the Christmas holidays after visiting in Webster Grove, Mo. Ray is a student at the University of Illinois.

Gaila House and Lee Conner were on hand to meet their sons, Rob and Terry, when they arrived at the station Thursday. Both boys are at St. John's military academy in Delafield, Wis. and hope to have fun over the Christmas vacation which will last for them until January 4.

Things are really buzzing at the home of the J. E. Woods, 1106 Clarendon. Her mother, Mrs. W. Everett Hoyt, arrives Monday from Salem, Mass. Jim Jr. is home from Southern Illinois university at Carbondale and Nancy and Bob arrive Wednesday from Greenville, N.C. Jim's aunt from Chicago will also spend Christmas day with them.

THE HOUSE AT 1319 Watling is coming to life again, that's where the Jim Colvins live, with the arrival of son, Stephen, from Shattuck school and Tim from Amherst. They will be entertaining their friends and the boys' friends with open house for the two weeks they're here.

Kristin Polacek, daughter of the Thomas J. Polaceks, 1220 N. Harvard, is a Christmas eve girl and to celebrate her eighth birthday, she entertained nine neighborhood and school friends Saturday. The girls came for lunch and after watching Kristin open her gifts, they played games the rest of the afternoon. There was another celebration Sunday when her grandparents came to wish her well.

The Herb Corneliuses, 1108 Watling, had guests recently from Milwaukee. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Haworth and their son, Charlie, spent the weekend with them. The two families were former neighbors when they lived in Stonegate and getting together always spells fun for them.

FROM RIDGE PARK

The Howard Tollesons, 1504 Brown, expect this to be an especially nice Christmas because his brother and sister-in-law, Charles and Millie Tolleson of Green Bay, Wis., will be with them.

There was a VIP at the J. T. Turners, 921 N. Salem, to welcome her sister and family, the Russell Freeburgs and their three children when they arrived from Alexandria, Va. Saturday. The VIP, otherwise known as Brett, was one of the reasons the Freeburgs came here for the holidays. They plan to be with the Turners until Christmas eve when they will go downstate to be with Russell's family.

THE CHARLES H. Vetters, 813 N. Patton, are glad to have their son, John, home from Cornell college in Mt. Vernon, Iowa for the holidays. Her mother, Mrs. Mabel Montgomery of Glidden, Iowa, is also with them.

Millie and Bill Warren, 817 N. Harvard, went to the Bears-Lion game last Sunday at Wrigley field with the Robert Swains of Park Ridge. Former Detroiters, Millie and Bill, were rootin' for the Lions but it didn't help them; the Bears won. After the game, the two couples had dinner at Ivanhoe.

Jim Wilmotte, son of the J. Edward Wilmottes, 729 N. Fernandez, came home from Yale with Randy Bolsinger and Hoy McConnell. His brother, Robert, will not be able to make it home for Christmas this year.

Among the college crowd home for the holidays is Bill Reed, who is in his freshman year at Adams State college in Alamosa, Colo. He'll be home till the first of January. Not only does he like Adams; he especially likes the West. Bill Frost is home from Carbondale for the holidays and getting together with his friends who are going to different schools. Sharon Lawder is another who is home from Carbondale and staying busy visiting her friends and catching up on news. (A

THE Carroll Carters spent the weekend with Mr. Carter's sister and family, the Lee Clines, Rock Springs, Wis. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Carter were guests there, too.

Robert Palmer and family celebrated his birthday December 13 with dinner at his folks', Mrs. Edith Palmer and Bea Palmer in Evanston.

George Fowler and son, Robert, spent four days in Cleveland at a demonstration on well drilling machines.

Mrs. Dennis Walsh and Diane Clavey were involved in an automobile accident December 10, when their car skidded on a wet pavement and hit a concrete culvert on Higgins and Wolf rds. Mrs. Walsh was taken to Resurrection hospital, where she remained for a week suffering from a broken nose and severe lacerations on her forehead. Diane's injuries resulted in a sprained ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miller will spend the Christmas holidays with their daughter, Mrs. Richard Horst in Minneapolis.

Miss Patricia Kershner is going home to Ironwood, Mich., to visit her parents, the W. P. Kershners, for the holidays.

THE monthly get-together of the Anything Can Happen club assembled at the home of Margaret Currier, December 16. Main event of the evening was a Christmas grab bag exchange and refreshments. Santa Claus remembered each member with a personalized stocking filled to the brim with goodies. Members Myrt Jevne, Fran Burton, Julia Luczak and Louise Lauing were there to enjoy the evening. Other member, Goldy Baldassari was home convalescing and enjoying her new baby, Cynthia Michelle.

The Henry Hansens had a Christmas party December 19 for the children of Mrs. Hansen's three brothers and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Landorf, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Landorf and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Landorf.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Peter Starus, who suffered a fatal heart attack Wednesday night. (AME

Q. Is it in good taste for me to share my dinner with my five-year-old girl, when dining in restaurants?

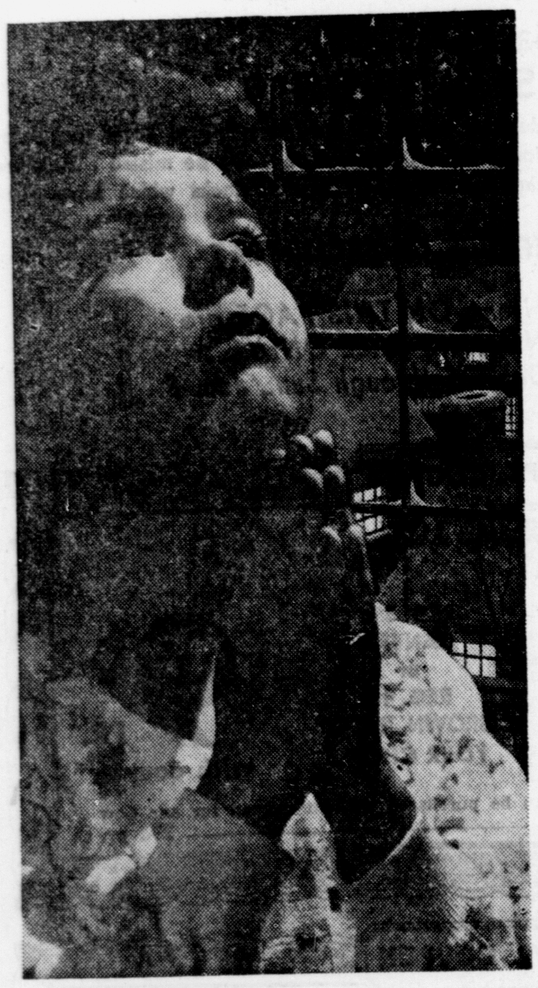

A. Many of today's restaurants feature "children's portions." However, where these are not available, there certainly is no objection to your sharing your food with your little daughter.

Q. Is it really considered proper for a man and his wife to kiss when meeting or leaving in public?

A. There's nothing at all wrong with this, but be sure it's a "public" kind of kiss. Long, tender kissing is better done in private.

Q. Is it really necessary to provide "salad forks," or may the medium-sized regular fork be used?

A. The medium-sized fork not only serves every purpose, but is in very good taste.

A CHRISTMAS PRAYER

May the joyous message of the first Christmas . . . Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men . . . shine brightly in the hearts of all, inspiring each anew with an abiding faith in its glorious promise.

Prospect Journeys To Palatine Tonight

Soph Contest At 7:00

Prospect and Palatine, two frosh-soph quintets which are going in opposite directions in their respective leagues, will tangle tonight, Dec. 22, 7 o'clock on the Pirates' floor.

Coach Ted Wissen's Knights are setting the pace in the Interim association with a 3-0 loop mark and 4-1 overall record, but Carl Van Cleave's Pirates are 1-6 over the campaign and winless against other North Suburban competition.

But the records are misleading for tonight's battle. Prospect has one regular definitely out of action and two on the doubtful list with only Tommy Thomas and Jim Hogarty available among the experienced cagers.

MIKE FRANCEK has been sidelined due to illness and Dennis Mitchell has been hampered by a sprained ankle so it's questionable whether the duo will be able to perform tonight.

Wissen plans to use either Chuck Andrews or Jim Anderson at the forward slot opposite Hogarty with Thomas at the pivot. Either Steve Fossler or Chris Bersted will open at one guard with Mitchell, Doug Spaulding, or Bob Hanson at the other backcourt slot.

Thomas, a 6-1 soph who rimmed 20 of the squad's 30 points against Maine West Saturday evening, has been the offensive leader all season for Prospect.

PALATINE is paced by Andy Merutka, a 5-11 forward who has netted 69 points. But outside of Merutka, the Pirates have been lacking in any other consistent scoring punch.

Only two other boys have scored more than two baskets in one game, 5-11 John Roberts and 6-0 Gary Nagl.

Palatine is only averaging around 30 points per game, but Van Cleave has brought up a 6-5½ freshman in an effort to bolster the attack. Ron Kozlicki was averaging 18 points per game with the plebes and may be in the starting lineup tonight.

Bork Tops League Scoring

GEORGE BORK

Arlington's George Bork, an All-WSC selection as a junior and one of the finest outshooters in the area, vaulted into the conference scoring lead last Friday evening with his 26-point performance against York.

The 6-1 senior is averaging 20.5 for four West Suburban games and holds a two-point lead over runnerup Bill Miller of Downers Grove. Hinsdale's Marty Riessen slipped to 14 points against LaGrange to fall from the scoring leadership.

Bork now has hit 20 or more points in his last three loop games after netting only 11 in the season lidlifter against LaGrange. The other half of Arlington's potent scoring duo, 6-4½ Bob Inman, ranks seventh in the WSC individual battle with 60 points for a 15.0 per game average.

Leading WSC Scorers:

	B	Ft	Pts
Bork (Arlington)	36	9	81
Miller (Downers)	31	17	79
Riessen (Hinsdale)	31	14	76

Arlington In Hardwood Holiday Tourney

KICKIN' IT AROUND

By BOB FRISK

IT'S THE CALM before the storm in high school athletics.

Conference competition terminated last weekend, and now the holiday tournaments move into the spotlight.

But when school resumes in January, the big push starts in again—the push toward post-season honors in basketball, wrestling, and gymnastics, both on a conference and state level.

In basketball it's anybody's guess as to what squad will walk off with top honors. Wrestling is in the same situation. And that brings us to gymnastics.

GAY HUGHES

We're not disclosing any big, dark secret by stating that they're pointing toward one school in gymnastics. And that school—to nobody's surprise—is Arlington high.

Coach Gay Hughes' defending state champions are loaded, and there's no other way to summarize the squad's strength.

The veteran Arlington coach, NCAA Trampoline champion in 1948 and producer of two state champions at AHS, has 72 points returning in boys who tallied in last season's state meet. In addition, he has more depth than usual as the Cards haven't been at full strength yet in a meet but have had no trouble winning.

Two state champs head the Arlington squad, Tom Geocaris on rings and Arnie Harvey on parallel bars. Geocaris scored 26 points in the state meet, adding a second on the horizontal bar and fifth in the all-around to his individual title.

Combine Geocaris and Harvey with Mike Nelson, second on rings in the state; Don Ballou, eighth in the all-around; Dick Wetzel, runnerup on the side horse; and Bill Sayre, fifth in tumbling. Then add some talented individuals like Gary Erwin, Larry Brousseau, Bruce MacCullum, Bob Russell, Bill Flood, et al!

Is it any wonder Arlington has been pegged as the team to beat in gymnastics?

Hughes admits the Cardinals are strong but hastens to add, "Proviso East was favored last season and look what happened. In 1955 when we won the state, New Trier was the favorite. In 1956 we were favored but didn't win."

But the personable AHS coach summed it up perfectly at the outset of the campaign: "Barring injuries, sickness, or prima donnas, we'll be rough!"

Who can argue with him?

THIS 'N THAT:

Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain is making his basketball ability pay off . . . The Philadelphia Warriors' standout drives a white Cadillac convertible, has purchased a 13-room house and recently bought a race horse . . . Little Mendota, Ill. produced twelve collegiate football players last fall, including the Brown brothers at Illinois . . . Hinsdale's Marty Riessen will graduate with 10 varsity letters next June.

Arlington's school record is 13 held by Bill Robinson . . . However, Robinson was able to participate in four varsity sports in the middle 1940's whereas Riessen is limited to three.

One of the country's smallest collegiate football tackles played in the Liberty Bowl Saturday in Philadelphia . . . He's 182-pound Gary Phillips of Alabama . . . Charles Allen, one of the officials in the forthcoming Wheaton Hardwood tournament, was a teammate of George Mikan when the bespectacled standout, voted "the greatest basketball player of the half century," was competing at DePaul . . . Another Wheaton tourney official, Ken Menke, was a member of Illinois' famed Whiz Kids.

Several wrestling coaches are kicking around the merit of dropping the 95 pound weight class as there just aren't enough boys in the upper class levels at that division . . . In addition, some talk is circulating in regard to changing the date for having boys establish their certified weight.

That's it for this short week . . . We would like to take this opportunity to wish everyone a heathy and happy holiday season!

Four Teams To Compete At Wheaton

by BOB FRISK

Three prep conferences will be represented in the fourth annual Wheaton Hardwood Holiday tournament with quintets from the West Suburban, Interim association, and Suburban league.

Slated to get under way Monday evening, Dec. 28, at 7:15, the Wheaton affair will pit together Arlington's Cards from the WSC, East Leyden and Wheaton from the Interim, and Niles from the Suburban loop.

The four schools will engage in a blind draw 45 minutes before game time Monday evening to determine the opening opponents. A 7:15 p.m. battle will kick off the 1959 tourney with the second game at approximately 8:30.

MONDAY evening's two winners will clash Tuesday at 8:30 for the tourney championship with the two losers on the initial night of action meeting at 7:15 Tuesday for the consolation title.

Frank Bohac's Cardinals are the defending tourney champs and have won the crown twice in the three previous engagements. Leyden copped the 1957 championship with Arlington in the runnerup slot.

The 1959 field appears to have more overall balance than in previous tournaments with no definite pre-meet favorite.

EAST LEYDEN would be favored on record alone as the Eagles are unbeaten this season and have dumped both Niles and Wheaton in previous meetings.

Although Wheaton is 1-2 in league play, the Tigers have been displaying some improved basketball and could cause trouble with Jim Jones back in the lineup. Jones is averaging 21.5 in Interim play.

Both Arlington and Niles have been playing some top-flight competition, and this factor could work in their favor come tourney time next Monday.

OVERALL, the meet shapes up as a real dog-fight with any club capable of experiencing a hot night and walking off with team honors.

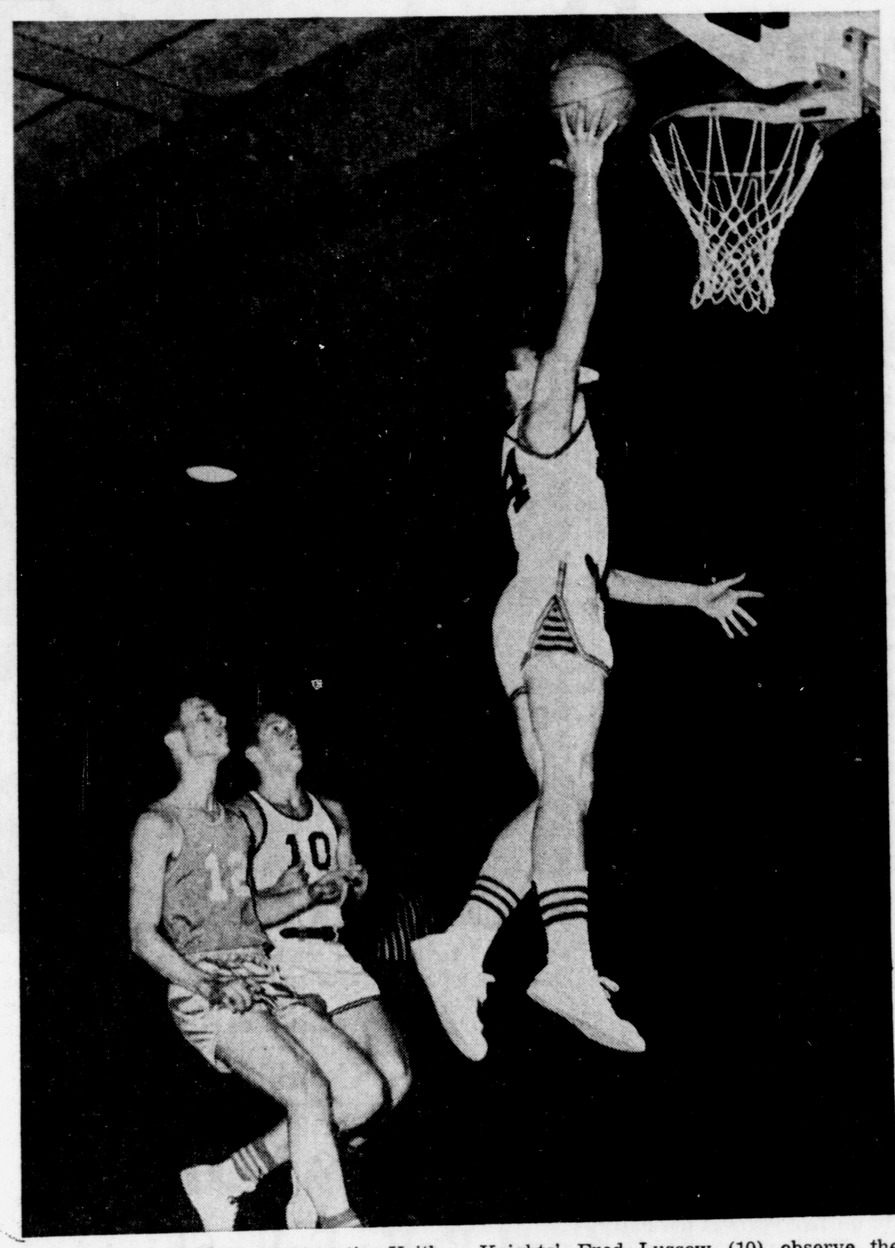

Several talented individuals will be seen in action with two conference scoring leaders among the competitors. Arlington's George Bork is heading the West Suburban loop and East Leyden's Jim Rodger spaces the Interim.

In addition to this pair of standouts, several other boys are expected to be in for their share of headlines, including Arlington's Bob Inman, Wheaton's Jones and Pfund, and Niles' Frank Warda and Bob Kosear.

The four officials working the tournament will be Liz Astroth, Willard Sellergran, Ken Menke, and Charles Allen.

Arrive Early!

It will not be known until 45 minutes before game time Monday, Dec. 28, whether Arlington will play in the first or second contest of the tourney. Fans are urged to arrive early in case the Cards draw the 7:15 p.m. battle. Wheaton high school is located on Roosevelt rd., west of rte. 53.

FOR A 5-9 GUARD, Prospect's Keith Grams is up pretty high in this cage action. Grams netted the two-pointer as Willowbrook's Bill Offill (12) and the Knights' Fred Lussow (10) observe the play. Prospect won the Interim contest, 67-40.

Prospect Maintains Unbeaten Loop Slate

By TOM McSHANE

The Prospect Knights set the stage Friday night for a great first-place battle at East Leyden January 8 with their third Interim association victory of the year over a hapless Willowbrook five.

The Knights for the second week in a row opened up a big first quarter lead, and romped the rest of the way to wallop the winless Warriors, 67-40.

The victory kept Coach Dick Kinneman's boys locked in a tie with the Leyden five for the conference leadership with 3-0 records. The Franklin Park team has a 6-0 season's record compared to Prospect's 5-0.

BOTH TEAMS will play in holiday tournaments before their January meeting, but none of these games will carry the weight of that big one.

The Knights were led in their victory Friday by some superb defensive play by Forward Fred Empkie, and by the shooting of big George Pomey and Guard Fred Lussow.

Empkie throttled Willowbrook's Ron Rau, the team's high scorer and the association's second high man before Friday's action, with a defensive blanket that limited the Warrior star to 8 points in two and a half quarters. Rau fouled out with 3:30 remaining in the third period.

Pomey led the Prospect scoring attack with 17 points, 11 of which came in the third period. Lussow added 14 more and played his usually steady floor game. Bill Zadel rounded out the double-figure scoring with 11 points.

FRED EMPKIE turned in an impressive weekend for Prospect's varsity cagers. The 5-10 junior held Willowbrook's high-scoring Ron Rau to only three field goals and checked Maine West's George Verber with just four second half points in two crucial Prospect victories. In addition, Empkie chipped in with some clutch scoring against Maine.

THE KNIGHT'S big first quarter surge saw them commanding a 14-2 lead with 1:56 remaining in the period.

Zadel started the game with a nifty tip-in. Willowbrook's Rich Janssen, who led the Warriors with 11 points, evened it at 2-2 with a 20-foot jump shot.

That was the closest Willowbrook came.

Pomey hit a jump shot, Keith Grams sank a lay-up, and Lussow dropped in a 10-footer, followed by free throws by Empkie and Zadel, and lay-ups by Zadel and Grams, to give the Knights a 12-point edge.

The first quarter ended with Prospect ahead 18-8. At halftime it was 28-18 in the Knights' favor.

Knights Favored In Tilt

by BOB BUCHANAN

Prospect's unbeaten Knight cagers will tune up for the Fenton holiday tournament tonight, Tuesday, Dec. 22, when they invade Palatine to meet the hapless Pirates.

Opposite records will be on the line tonight. Coach Dick Kinneman's Knights, a competely junior squad, have a 5-0 record and are tied for first place in Interim association play. Palatine has a 1-6 mark and has lost all five North Suburban conference encounters.

Coach Dick Kolze may start only two seniors and one sophomore as the Pirates seek re-entry into the win column after six consecutive defeats.

Prospect, whose height is equal that of Palatine, has won two of its games by close scores. The Knights won their opener over tough St. Charles, 57-56, and Saturday night Guard Fred Lussow's last second basket gave them a 38-3 6triumph over Maine West.

PROSPECT'S starting five is the same one that started for Arlington's sophomore team with but one exception. The exception is 6-3 Forward George Pomey, leading Knight scorer with 56 points, who transferred from Grant where he played varsity ball both as a freshman and sophomore.

The remaining Knights had a 15-3 record for Arlington's sophomores—good for second place in West Suburban conference play. Prospect scoring has been exceptionally well balanced.

Besides Pomey, the two Knight guards, Fred Lussow and Keith Grams, are averaging 10 points a game plus. Center Bill Zadel has 41 points. The fifth starter, Forward Fred Empkie has hit 30 points.

KINNEMAN is using the fifth starter from last year's Arlington Soph team which beat Palatine's sophs, 46-37, as .....No 1 reserve. He is capable Dick Palmer who has amassed 33 points. These six boys have scored 264 of Prospect's 286 points.

Palatine, which has played seven contests, has only one man who has averaged in excess of 10 points a game. He is 6-3 Center Bob Schneble who has scored 91 points, including 28 Friday night at Woodstock and 22 the game before.

Guard Ron Angerer has 68 points and Forward John Seehausen 57. After that, the rest of the Palatine squad is way down with Harvey Foster next with 31 points.

KINNEMAN has kept his lineup intact since the start of the season while Palatine Coach Dick Kolze has been shifting his around to determine the best five.

At this point, it looks like Wayland Campbell, a guard earlier, is in line for a starting forward post. He hit five baskets against Woodstock

Willowbrook Tops PHS Matmen, 25-17

Prospect's varsity wrestlers opened their Interim association competition last Friday and came out on the short end of a 25-17 decision against Willowbrook.

Willowbrook moved off to a fast 6-0 lead with two decisions at 95 and 103, but Prospect's Joe Ortiz captured his fourth straight victory with a 5-0 triumph over Bill Pitts.

SENIOR Henry Rosedale put the Warriors ahead, 9-3, with a 5-0 victory over Jim Liska, but Prospect's Doug Vaughan recovered from a slow start to stop Dennis Helsritch. The latter bout was tied in the third period when Vaughan picked up three points for a near fall.

Willowbrook copped the next two bouts before Mike Fields used two take downs, two reversals, and a predicament in piling up an impressive 9-3 victory at 154.

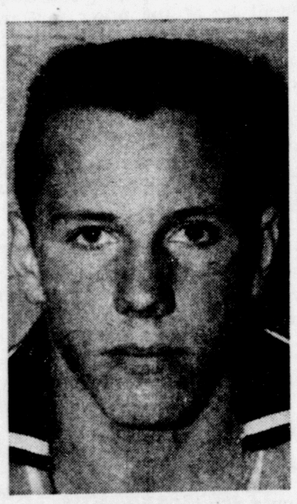

Jim Becker, a letterman at York as a junior and one of the area's top wrestlers at 165, compiled a 12-2 lead on Prospect's Ron Christensen before administering a pin at 5:15.

Larry Fontaine gave Willowbrook five more points with a pin in the identical 5:15 at 180, and Clyde Dilley's Warriors had the victory assured.

Prospect's Darryl Phillips had no trouble with 260-pound Buddy Kane, holding a 6-1 lead before putting on the clinching pin at 3:50.

Summary:

95 pounds — Leppert (W) beat Blakely (P), 5-2.
103 — Howe (W) beat Krause (P), 6-4.
112 — Ortiz (P) beat Pitts (W), 5-0.
120 — Rosedale (W) beat Liska (P), 5-0.
127 — Vaughan (P) beat Helstritch (W), 6-3.
133 — Owen (P) beat Roysdon (W), 11-0.
138 — Hastings (W) beat Pieper (P), 5-1.
145 — Thorsen (W) beat Abbinati (P), 12-4.
154 — Fields (P) beat Adams (W), 9-3.
165 — Becker (W) pinned Christensen (P), 5:15.
180 — Fontaine (W) pinned Zell (P), 5:15.
Heavyweight — Phillips (P) pinned Kane (W), 3:50.

FRED LUSSOW, a 5-9 junior guard at Prospect, delivered the last second basket last Saturday which dumped Maine West, 38-36. Lussow's shot climaxed 46 seconds of ball control by the Knights and gave Prospect its fifth straight victory.

Eight Teams At St. Charles

Prospect, Warriors In Soph Tourney

Prospect and Willowbrook will represent the Interim association in the St. Charles frosh-soph basketball tournament slated to open Monday, Dec. 28.

Ted Wissen's Knights will meet Dundee in the tourney opener Monday at 1:30 p.m. while Fran Hulka's Warriors will meet St. Charles in the 3 p.m. battle Tuesday.

Eight teams are entered in the double elimination tourney which will run through Thursday, Dec. 31.

IN ADDITION to the Prospect lidlifter at 1:30 Monday, Glenbard East and Aurora West will conclude the first day's action with a 3 p.m. battle.

In Tuesday's first round games, Libertyville will meet Elmwood Park at 1:30 with host St. Charles then taking on Willowbrook at 3 p.m.

Monday's losers will meet at 10 a.m., Wednesday, Dec. 30, with Tuesday's losers following at 11:30 in the consolation semi-finals. Monday's winners will clash that Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 with Tuesday's victors meeting at 3:30.

THE CONSOLATION championship will be held at 1:30 Thursday afternoon with the title till at 3 p.m. between the two winners of Wednesday afternoon's games.

The opening game of the 1959 tournament will match a Prospect five which has turned in impressive pre-holiday efforts despite a noticeable lack of experience at the outset of the campaign.

Dundee's frosh-sophs won five of their first six games with victories over a Libertyville team which is also in the St. Charles tourney. The young Cardunals boast other victories over Crystal Lake, McHenry, Palatine, and St. Edwards with a 62-40 loss to highly regarded Glenbard West.

Tourney officials will be Al Miller and Dick Mundt, and St. Charles high school is located on Route 64, west of Route 59.

Opening Contests

Mon., Dec. 28:
Prospect vs. Dundee, 1:30.
Glenbard East vs. Aurora West, 3:00.
Tues., Dec. 29:
Libertyville vs. Elmwood Park, 1:30.
St. Charles vs. Willowbrook, 3:00.

Lancers, Prospect Open Fenton Tourney

COACHES GATHER for the blind draw in the Fenton holiday high school basketball tournament Saturday through Wednesday of next week. Present for the informal meeting were Marty Genauldi, Round Lake basketball coach. Dick Kinneman, Prospect basketball coach, Jerry Carpenter, Lake Park cage mentor, Frank Novatny, Fenton athletic director, Chuck Cole, Fenton basketball chief, and Bill Ebenezer, head of Ela-Vernon's cage program.

Antioch, Knights Go in Unbeaten

by BOB BUCHANAN

The fourth annual Fenton holiday basketball tournament, scheduled to begin Saturday night in the Bensenville gym, is expected to be one of the most evenly matched in the tourney's short history.

Prospect of the Interim association and Antioch of the Northwest conference rule as favorites on the strength of their unbeaten records. Of the two, Dick Kinneman's Prospect team rates slightly higher because of tougher competition.

Larry Leon's Antioch quintet has captured all seven contests and Prospect, which plays at Palatine tonight, is 5-0.

THOUGH EVERY other team in the tournament has a losing record, any one could blossom forth in this small school tournament.

Round Lake seems to be the best upper bracket dark horse and the host Fenton team the lower bracket dark horse.

Probably the widest gap between two teams will be in the tournament's very first game when Prospect plays Lake Park at 7 o'clock Saturday evening.

The Lancers have shown little in losing all but one game even though Coach Jerry Carpenter's forward wall is the tallest in the tournament, averaging 6-2½.

PROSPECT, which doesn't have a returning letterman because of its entry into varsity competition this year, picked one up when 6-3 Forward George Pomey transferred from Grant.

When it comes to returning players, Antioch and Round Lake stand out. The Sequoits have all five regulars back from last year and Marty Genualdi's Round Lake five has four starters returning. Fenton, Lake Park and Glenbrook have two each and Ela-Vernon and Elmwood Park one each.

In height, all teams in the tournament are almost equal. Round Lake is the tallest team at 6-0½ and Elmwood Park the smallest at 5-11. Taking into consideration the forward wall—the two forwards and the center—Lake Park is the tallest at 6-2½ and Elmwood Park the smallest at 5-11½.

INDIVIDUALLY, Center Ron Holder of Glenbrook at 6-5 is the tallest player and Elmwood Park Guard Frank Caliendo at 5-6 the shortest.

Dick Erlenbaugh's three-game tournament scoring record of 56 points for Immaculate Conception last year when the Fenton holiday affair was expanded to eight teams will probably fall by the wayside.

Erlenbaugh, whose IC team along with Notre Dame, did not return to the tourney, averaged just under 19 points a game. Two players, Larry Dahlman of Antioch and John Hunsaker of Ela-Vernon are likely to break that mark.

DAHLMAN, fourth in Lake county scoring as a junior, is leading this year with 186 points in seven games for a 26.5 average. Hunsaker, a forward for Coach Bill Ebenezer, has 177 points in eight games for a 22.1 average.

Also expected to be high among the scorers are Greg Sletteland of Glenbrook, Mike Wake of Round Lake, and Bob Pfister of Elmwood Park.

COACH JIM SMITH, who has had balanced scoring from three members of the defending tournament champion Elmwood Park team, has only 11 points at the most per game from the rest of the squad. Pfister, Caliendo and Guard Tom Bednarz have carried practically the entire Tiger load.

Besides the Lake Park-Prospect game, Round Lake will play Glenbrook, which has been able to beat only Wheaton in eight outings. Holder and Sleutteland have been most of the offense for Coach Howie Helfrich's Spartans.

PALATINE AND THE TEAMS assigned to the Palatine district wrestling tourney February 12-13 will get a break this year. Winners and runners up will be advanced along with Elgin district survivors to the DeKalb sectional. This means that they will meet competition outside the big suburbs where it will be much less competitive. Barrington also has a district in wrestling and with Evanston survivors advance to a sectional at Waukegan. Hinsdale and Oak Lawn districts feed into a sectional at Proviso East. The state tournament will this year be held at the University of Illinois on February 26-27 after two years in a row at Arlington Heights.

The North Suburban Conference has a new commissioner to assign athletic officials, with the hiring of Art Serfling, who is a guidance and counseling teacher at Prospect high school. Serfling is well known in the Northwest Suburban area. He is an outstanding official in football and basketball and has had many assignments in the North Suburban. Serfling was a highly successful coach at Lake Forest High School for many years. He has been on the staff at Arlington for the past six years but has retained his residence in Libertyville. Serfling's father was a noted official before him. With a man of Art's integrity and conscientious application to his responsibilities we feel that the assignment situation in the North Suburban is in excellent hands.

Small Crowds at Palatine Mat Meet

A MUCH SMALLER crowd of spectators than in previous years saw one of the best meets in the five years of the Palatine Invitational wrestling tourney. Matches were close and quality of competition excellent. Sportsmanship of coaches and wrestlers was the best ever. Under J. E. Stutzman's direction the meet was run in a flawless manner. Five years ago Palatine was the inaugural winner. The next two years Glenbrook took the trophy followed last year by DeKalb. Palatine has always been a top contender with coach John Ellis at the helm. A feature of Palatine's performance was George McCreery winning the 138 pound championship, an unusual accomplishment for a freshman. Probably the top wrestlers in the meet were Chuck Conley of Palatine who went to the state semi-finals last year and Jim Cosby of North Chicago who was winner of third in the state in the heavyweight class. Our congratulations to Coaches Bob Therry of North Chicago and John Ellis of Palatine on their championships.

Twenty Years Ago

ARLINGTON CAME THROUGH with a 29-27 victory over Zion. Lake Forest stopped Niles 45-36 and Crystal Lake tops the Northeast Conference with a 4-0 record on a 55-23 win over Woodstock. Palatine stayed on top in the Northwest with a 29-21 victory at Barrington and the lights also beat the Bronchos 28-17. Palatine trailed 13-12 midway in the third period but Hollinger and Snyder started hitting and the Pirates pulled away to maintain their unbeaten status. Wauconda, one of Palatine's leading rivals for the Northwest crown, lost in overtime to Antioch 22-20.

Ten Years Ago

PALATINE DRAWS WEST CHICAGO in the Mooseheart Invitational holiday tourney playing on Wednesday, December 28. Eddie Prouty with 80 points tops Northwest scorers as school closes for the holidays with Hacker of Northbrook a point behind at 79, Anderson of Bensenville 78, Roake of Barrington 75, and Klein of Palatine 73. Crystal Lake took the McHenry County tourney by whipping Hebron 61-32. Hebron's only previous defeat was by 34-32 to Barrington. Raywood of Crystal Lake scored 65 points in three tourney games. Arlington retained the "Sleigh bells" by beating Palatine 44-25. Little Gordon Busse racked up 17 points. Palatine frosh-sophs won 34-30. Arlington beat Niles 39-34 with balanced scoring of Evans and Carter eight apiece and seven for Busse, Larsen, and Brown.

Bork, Inman Combine For 45

York's Dukes Stop Arlington, 69-63

Card Rally Falls Short

By BOB FRISK

A 6-5, 210-pounder came off the York bench to tally nine points in the final three minutes last Friday evening, checking a torrid second half rally by the Arlington Cardinals and enabling the host Dukes to record a 69-63 victory.

Jim Bolin, a letterman for three years at York, sat out over three and a half periods Friday, but when he was summoned to action in the fourth quarter, he immediately began a one-man battle against Frank Bohac's aroused Cards.

With the score deadlocked 59-59, Bolin dumped in a free throw to give the Dukes a one-point lead with 3:01 remaining. Bolin's tip put the hosts on top, 62-59, before George Bork canned one of his specialties.

IT WAS MR. Bolin again and the York quintet held a 64-61 lead. Chuck Adams momentarily interrupted Bolin's heroics with a free throw of his own, but when the Cards failed to score, the Dukes' handyman was at it again, netting two straight free throws to set the margin at 67-61.

Carl Massa sliced the gap with a two-pointer, but it was too late now. To add a finishing touch on his relief performance, Bolin rimmed the final basket of the contest, giving Dick Haseltine's squad a tight, 69-63 triumph.

Both clubs jumped off to a fast first quarter although York had the best of things, holding a 20-14 lead going into the second stanza.

ARLINGTON couldn't close the gap and fell behind at one time, 38-24, but a pair of free throws by Bob Inman sent the Cards in at intermission with a 38-37 margin to overcome. And they almost pulled the game out with an explosive second half.

Bork erupted in the third quarter with ten points and with Massa and Inman tallying the other markers, the visitors pulled to within four at 52-48. Bork and Inman sparked to spurt which tied the count at 59-all with 3:01 remaining. Then Bolin came off the bench and York walked off with its third conference victory.

BORK enjoyed one of his best nights with a 26-point effort, collecting 18 in the final half. Inman added 19 as Arlington's productive scoring duo combined for 45 of the club's points.

Adams paced York with 21 with the 6-0 guard netting 11 of the Dukes' 20 first quarter points.

Freshman 'B' Cagers Triumph

With three boys scoring in the double figures, Arlington's freshman "B" basketball squad routed St. Charles Saturday morning, 63-23.

John Weidner paced Bob Baker's winners with 23 points on 11 baskets and a single free throw. Kendall Layden added 14 on seven baskets and Gary Spencer chipped in with 10.

SENDING HOME TWO points for Prospect high school, Keith Grams (24) connects on a layup in last Friday's 67-40 victory over Willowbrook. In frantic pursuit of the Knights' guard is Dick Janssen (10).

Prospect, Palatine

and played a good defensive game.

Either Seehausen or Foster will be at the other forward spot. Seehausen is the better marksman but Foster has more floor savvy and he showed it when Palatine rallied from nine points down against Woodstock in the final three minutes to nearly tie the game. Woodstock won, 60-56.

PLAYERS ON both squads have had their ups and downs lately. Palatine's Schneble and Prospect's Pomey have shifted into high gear in the last two weeks.

Meanwhile, Seehausen and Angerer of Palatine and Grams and Lussow of Prospect have tapered off at the hoop lately.

Prospect has relied mainly on a stout defense while beating St. Charles, Glenbrook, Proviso West, Willowbrook and Maine West. The Knights have given up only 45 points a game.

Palatine's weak point has been its defense which has allowed its opponents just a shade under 70 points a game while losing to Arlington, Zion-Benton, Barrington, Crystal Lake, Dundee, and Woodstock. The Pirates' only win was by one point over Ela-Vernon in the opener.

York Sophs Impressive In Victory

A strong York frosh-soph quintet handed Arlington its third conference loss last Friday evening with an impressive 64-43 decision.

The Barons were never in serious trouble as they moved off to a 32-18 halftime lead. Arlington's Cards had closed the gap at 24-16 before the hosts turned on the steam.

Atight defensive effort limited Arlington's Gary Brodnan, the squad's high scorer for the season, to only one point in the loss. Forward Ross Retterer continued to exhibit some improved scoring for the Cards, netting 11 to take top honors.

Beverly Lanes Captures Paddock Tourney Berth

It'll be Beverly Lanes in the Paddock tournament for the Paddock Classic league, instead of James Stavros!

That was the big news in bowling circles Saturday night as the four teams still rating a chance at the Paddock tournament competed in three different houses.

Tommy Thomas' Casablanca came through with three wins at Des Plaines to keep its hopes alive, and move into a tie for second place, one game out of first.

PENTANE GAS garnered two wins at Barrington Ten Pin, but lost the crucial test that would have put those keglers into a tie for tourney spot, 1002-985. Pentane is now tied for second, a half game out of first, with final position night of the league slated for this Saturday, Dec. 26, at Beverly.

Beverly Lanes held the trump cards, though, as the five pretenders to the throne came through to unseat James Stavros, which had been leading ever since the season started. The triple defeat dropped the Wheeling squad to fourth place.

THREE MEN from Beverly hit over 200 the first game to whip Stavros, 987-937. Buck Perkins, of Woodstock, did his darndest for the Jeffery Lanes keglers, coming through with a 245, but Beverly won, 944-939, a five pin margin.

Final encounter was a slow affair with tournament-berth pressure having its effect. Beverly finally won, 877-873. Perkins was the only one to hit the honor roll with 648.

PENTANE GAS came through with a 1073-971 decision over Martinetti's, plus a 1043-1021 victory. Host Barrington won the singleton, 1002-985. High scores were a dime a dozen in the dog-eat-dog affair. Don Bacon of Crystal Lake shot 234 and 670, Ed Duff of Niles hit 247 and 659, Ward Siewert of Palatine bowled 222 and 626, Ed Dudek 236 and 616, and Al Valentino of Rolling Meadows 616. Casper Dewitz missed with 595.

Casablanca set its sights and came through with a triple win over Connie's Snack Shop, shooting 940, 991 and 951. High men were Lee Adams of Mt. Prospect, 220 and 630, Marv Perry of Arlington Heights 234 and 621, and Don Christensen of Arlington Heights 614.

ALL SIX TEAMS will roll at Beverly this Saturday night, Dec. 26, starting at 6:30 with Martinetti's opposing Connie's-Des Plaines, Beverly meeting Casablanca, and Pentane Gas going against Martinetti's. It will be the final night of play for the first half of the Paddock Classic traveling league.

Standings:

Beverly Lanes	29	22
Pentane Gas	28	23
Casablanca	28	23
James Stavros	27	24
Martinetti's	21	30

Frosh-Soph Gymnasts Win, 71-61

Picking up their second straight victory, Prospect's frosh-soph gymnastics' unit topped Willowbrook last Friday, 71-61.

Dan Simonsen collected firsts on the parallel bar and rings to pace the Knights with Dave Leekley and Swanson gaining the other top slots.

Summary:

Trampoline — Won by Minser (W), 60; 2nd, Holmes (P), 58; 3rd, Shaw (P), 4th, Hoos (P), 56; 5th, Stein (W), 50; 6th, Calby (W), 43.

Side Horse — Won by Swanson (P), 50; 2nd, Schalz (W), 49; 3rd, Wilson (W), 48; 4th, Eaton (P), 47; 5th, Matiza (P), 42; 6th, Sillbrat (W), 40.

Horizontal Bar — Won by Jasko (W), 56; 2nd, VanDer Voort (P), 54; 3rd, Simonsen (P), 52; 4th, Scarza (W), 50; 5th, Milliser (W), 48; 6th, Llebenow (P), 45.

Parallel Bar — Won by Simonsen (P), 66; 2nd, Burgener (W), 63; 3rd, Poterachy (P), 60; 4th, Misner (W), 59; 5th, Holdiman (P), 54; 6th, Scorza (W), 46.

Rings — Won by Simonsen (P), 51; 2nd, Minser (W), 50; 3rd, Burgener (W), 47; 4th, Flood (P), 45; 5th, Llebenow (P), 41; 6th, Scorza (W), 40.

Tumbling — Won by Leekley (P), 59; 2nd, Minser (W), 55; 3rd, Stein (W), 53; 4th, Stevens (P), 51; 5th, Beck (P), 50; 6th, Vondrach (W), 48. SP

Prospect's Soph Cagers Win, 35-23

Prospect high school's frosh-soph basketball team slipped and slopped its way through four quarters Friday night to whip an even more slippery, sloppy Willowbrook quintet, 35-23.

The little Knights, playing without the services of two of their starting five, looked their worst in the win, their third in a row without defeat in league play.

The missing starters were Mike Francek, out with virus pneumonia, and Dennis Mitchell, who suffered a severely sprained ankle during the week.

BOTH BOYS were sorely missed, and Coach Ted Wissen had to depend on steady performances by Tommy Thomas and Jim Hogarty to carry the team through.

Hogarty played a good floor game, countering 11 points, and came through with some fine defensive work, while Thomas worked the nets for 15 points, most of which came in the fourth period, which saw the Knights outscore the little Warriors, 15-7.

Dave Jones led the Warriors with seven points.

The halftime score was 12-7 Prospect.

Willowbrook Frosh Rout Prospect

Willowbrook's freshman Warriors recovered from a slow first period Saturday morning to rout Prospect's Knights, 50-28.

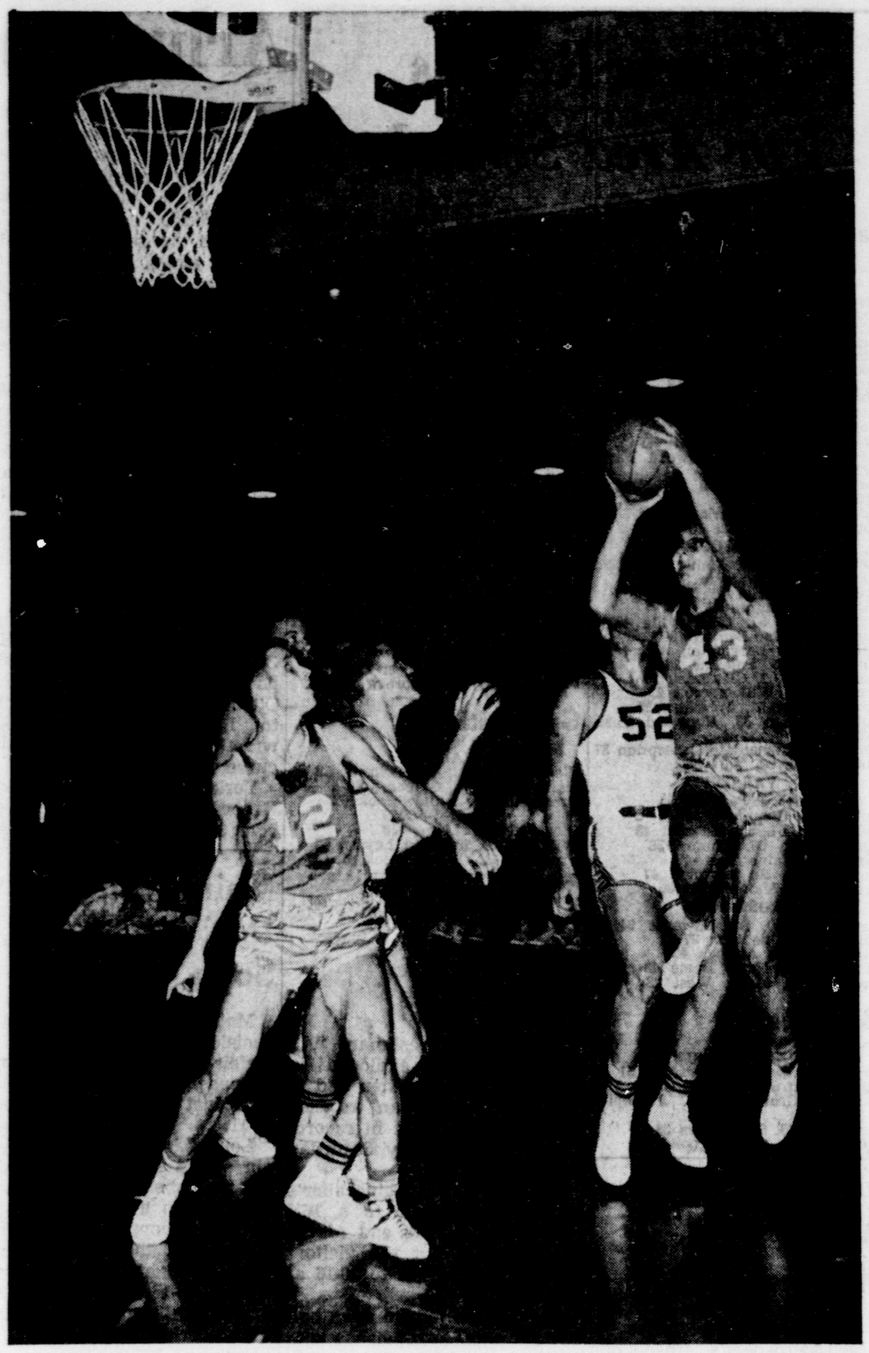

The host's cagers trailed 11-9 after one period but moved out to a 28-18 halftime lead and then gradually increased that margin throughout the final two quarters.

Ken Groh paced Larry Wyllie's Knights with 12 points while Bob Gerrard added eight. Bill Borneman was high for Willowbrook with 22 markers followed by Harlon Krafft's nine.

MOVING IN FOR a shot is Willowbrook's 6-5 Jim Hastings (43). Prospect's Bill Zadel (52) trails Hastings with the Warriors' Bill Offill (12) attempting to get position on the Knights' Bob Glaser under the boards. Prospect won the battle last Friday, 67-40.

Tournament Facts Are The Same!

A printer's nightmare appeared in the men's entry blank for the Paddock tournament this year, but the facts are still the same, sir!

First place teams as of Dec. 19 of all local men's leagues are eligible with Dec. 19 averages to be used in computing handicaps, in spite of what the men's entry blanks may say.

And for the women it will be first place teams as of Dec. 26 of all local women's leagues with Dec. 26 averages to be used in computing handicaps. Deadline for entries is a week later in each case.

LAST YEAR first place money was $192, second $128 for the men. Top women keglers took home $108 for first and $72 for second. Here are the finishes of both meets of last January:

Salk School, Oak St. Cagers Split Pair

Oak st. of Palatine split a doubleheader at Salk school in Rolling Meadows Wednesday, Dec. 16.

Oak st. edged Salk, 28-27, in the eighth grade game after Salk took the opener, 35-15.

Greg Godbout's free throw with 20 seconds remaining broke the deadlock between the two schools in the eighth grade game. Oak st.'s pressing defense and 13 for 40 from the field offset Salk's height.

Burmeister was the key in Salk's 35-15 seventh grade win. He tossed in 25 points and together with Gebauer controlled the boards for the Rolling Meadows team.

Race Tightens Up

The Christmas and New Year's layoff in league play in the North Suburban conference will only give the six schools in the running more time to think how tight the race really is.

After last Friday's play, including a pair of upsets, Barrington and Zion-Benton are tied for the lead and Crystal Lake, Dundee and McHenry are just one game out.

Libertyville, after upsetting Barrington and Crystal Lake on successive weekends, probably is rated the best sixth place team the North Suburban conference has seen in a decade.

The biggest upset was Dundee's 57-48 win over Zion-Benton. It proved that John Paul, in his first year of coaching the Cardunals, has a team that can compete for the league title. It wasn't a last minute rally but a continued effort, including holding the Zee-Bees' league-leading scorer John Nelson to nine points. Dick Calbow, by dunking 19 points, proved himself to be the pace setter for Dundee.

Ken Greene's Libertyville team, not knowing when to quit, rallied from one point down with eight minutes to go to hand Crystal Lake a 71-64 setback. Mike Hill's 28 points paced the Wildcat attack which blossomed forth with 23 points in the final period.

Barrington, still minus Guard Dick Esh, moved into a first place tie with Zion by edging defending champion McHenry, 75-52, behind a balanced attack which saw four Bronchos score 11 or more points. Junior Guard John Douglas hit his season's high of 20 Friday.

Prospect F-S Gymnasts Rout Proviso West

Coach Jack Murray's Prospect frosh-soph gymnasts rolled over Proviso West Dec. 11 in their first meet of the season, 85-47.

The young Knights won all six events with six different boys gaining the individual honors. In addition, Murray's aggregation picked up four seconds and three thirds in crushing the Panthers.

Fox Hunting Enjoys Tremendous Growth

In answer to a great number of requests concerning fox hunting, this column will run a two part series on the sport. This week will serve to background the hunt, and next week I will give you a first hand description after I ride with the Wayne-DuPage Hunt Club.

Several important changes have come about through the years. Modes of dress have become less formal, the forward seat has been instituted, and the kill has become less important . . . but the sport goes on. Always known as the "sport of aristocrats," fox hunting has established itself firmly throughout America.

Starting in the Southern colonies, it has grown with the United States spreading across the continent wherever there are people who revel in the thrill of the chase.

IN AMERICA the Virginia colonists were the first to carry on the "mother country" hunting tradition. The sport eventually became common in all Southern states by the time of the Civil War. Pennsylvania is credited with having the first official hunt club in the United States! the Glouscester Hunting Club, established in 1766.

Fox hunting was born in England and was a sport of the upper classes since the late seventeenth century.

The fox is pursued by a pack of trained hounds ranging from twenty-five to forty couples. These hounds are sent into a covert (wood) where a fox is known to have his den. Because of their speed and agility the fox would ordinarily elude the hounds were it not for the strong scent they leave behind. Once a hound crosses the scent he signals the pack and the chase is on.

AFTER THE hounds break cover, the horsemen follow on the chase. The fox will usually head downwind and try to find an "earth," or hole where he can take cover. In England these "earths" are occasionally stopped up, thus baffling the fox and making for an open kill.

In America a "kill" is exceptional on the average hunt. "Earths" are never stopped up or closed and it is rare that an attempt is made to dig out a fox who has taken refuge.

Where foxes are not found, or where it is not desirable to hunt them, "drag hunting" becomes a favorite substitute. A course is mapped out and a rider is sent over it dragging a bag of anisseed or a red herring. The hounds immediately pick up the scent and follow it as they would a fox.

Until recently, foxes were open game for any sportsman who wanted to kill one. Lately, with the growth of fox hunting, legal statutes have been issued prohibiting the killing of foxes during certain months.

Dons Host Tourney

Eight schools will participate in the Notre Dame high school invitational holiday basketball tournament slated for Dec. 26 and Dec 28-30.

In addition to the host Notre Dame five, Warren, Grant, Immaculate Conception of Elmhurst, Taft of Chicago, Sullivan of Chicago, St. Thomas of Rockford, and McHenry.

Initial games on Saturday will get under way at 6:45 p.m., 8:15 p.m., and 9:15 p.m. The same trio of times will hold forth for Monday with 7 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. contests on Tuesday. In Wednesday's finale the 7 and 8:30 times will be in force.

Trophies will be awarded for the first through third places with the fourth place unit receiving the game ball.

There will be no advanced sale of tickets with adequate seating capacity. Tickets will be $1 for adults and $.50 for students with idenification cards.

Prospect Gymnasts Triumph

Thanks to some impressive scoring on the horizontal bar, rings, and Trampoline, Prospect high school's varsity gymnasts edged Willowbrook last Friday, 69½-62.

Coach Rick Farris' Knights copped four individual first places but could only outscore the Warriors in three events.

Dave Price and Warren VanDerVoort finished 1-2 for Prospect on the horizontal bar with Allen gaining a third place tie.

THE KNIGHTS swept the rings event, thanks to Warren Bischoff, Dan Malloy, and Bill Palmer, and Jim Gardner gained the first and third slots on the Tramp with Bill Covalson picking up a fourth.

Prospect's other first was by Bischoff, the meet's only double winner, on the parallel bar.

Summary:

Trampoline — Won by Gardner (P), 131; 2nd, Snyder (W), 127; 3rd, Strobel (P), 123; 4th, Covalson (P), 112; 5th, Gilberto (W), 90; 6th, Steier (W), 88.

Prospect's "B" Cagers Win, 30-24

Prospect high school's freshman "B" cagers stopped Willowbrook Saturday morning, 30-24, with Glenn Pasvogel and Ed Bloom tallying ten points each for the victors.

The Prospect "B" unit held a 14-6 lead at halftime in the game on the Warriors' court.

Knights Edge Maine West On Last Second Basket

by PETE SWANSON

With one second remaining on the scoreboard clock, Fred Lussow fired from deep in the corner and Prospect had its fifth straight victory, a 38-36 come - from - behind decision over Maine West Saturday night in the PHS gymnasium.

Lussow's shot climaxed 46 seconds of ball control by the Knights as they played for one last shot after Maine's George Verber had converted two free throws to tie the score at 36-36.

The Knights of Dick Kinneman had to come from as far as nine points behind to gain the decision. Gaston Freeman's Warriors built up a 22-13 lead late in the first half and held a 30-21 lead midway through the third quarter before the hosts began to find their shooting eyes.

PROSPECT'S comeback came as a result of better shooting and improved defensive play. In the first half the Knights, forced to shoot from outside by Maine's 1-2-2 zone, could hit on only five of 22 shots, but in the final two quarters they found the basket 10 times in 20 tries to finish with a .357 mark.

Instrumental in the surge was forward Fred Empkie, who scored all nine of his points in the second half to lead PHS. The 5-10 forward hit on three fourth quarter shots in as many attempts.

Empkie also stood out defensively as he held Maine's Verber to one basket and four points the second half. An all-West Suburban Conference performer a year ago, Verber hit his first six shots to tally 12 points the first half.

IN THAT first half the Knights' switching man-to-man defense was being caught between switches as Verber shook himself free of screens to drive in for several layups. After the intermission Prospect moved more quickly on defense, holding the visitors to 14 points the last two periods and forcing them to shoot from the outside.

After the Warriors had upped their lead from 22-16 at the half to 30-21 in the third quarter, the Knights made their move, scoring 13 straight points while holding the visitors scoreless the next seven - and-one-half minutes. Basets by Bill Zadel and Keith Grams, plus a free toss by Empkie pulled the Knights within four as the fourth quarter began.

LUSSOW AND Empkie found the nets from 25 feet to give PHS a 30-30 tie with 6:18 left, and a 20-footer by Empkie and Palmer's tip-in gave Prospect a 34-30 lead with less than five minutes left.

Maine's Bill Wegner and Empkie traded baskets before Doug Schmidt hit to cut the Knights' lead to 36-34.

Prospect began to stall with 1:40 left, but Wegner swiped a pass and drove in for a layup. He missed, but Verber grabbed the rebound, drew a foul and tied the count with the free tosses.

Prospect played the waiting game again and Lussow did the rest.

Arlington Wrestlers Bow

Arlington's varsity matmen, down 20-3 after seven bouts, fought another uphill battle last Friday evening before bowing to a visiting York squad, 23-15.

It was the second straight meet in which Bob Emmons' wrestlers had staged a strong comeback that fell short. The Cards were down 27-0 against Palatine but rallied before bowing, 29-18.

In last Friday's meet the Cardinal grapplers fell behind, 11-0, after three bouts before George Shartle won his third match of the season at 120. Shartle countered on a take down in the first period and reverse in the second, picking up one point riding time for a 5-1 victory.

YORK TOOK the 127-pound weight class when Tom R. Clark bowed, 7-0, and the 133-pound division when Tim O'Gorman lost a tight match to Bruce Strom, All-WSC wrestler last season who is currently unbeaten.

York copped 138 but Jerry Greer turned in an impressive 3-0 Arlington victory at 145, topping a previously unbeaten Duke competitor.

Terry Harris, Rich Edelblute, and Denny Schneck put together successive victories at the next three weights, but Bob Hacker dropped a 3-0 heavyweight decision to York's Rog Moos.

Schneck's victory at 180 was his fourth straight of the campaign as the Arlington senior countered on take downs in the first and second periods and on a reversal in the finale.

95 pounds — Riley (Y) beat Fitzpatrick (A), 8-7.
103 — Paulson (Y) pinned Bond (A), 1:02.

Thomas Sparks Prospect Sophs To 30-28 Victory

A tight zone defense and the hot shooting of Tommy Thomas combined to give Prospect's frosh-sophs a 30-28 victory in the final minute over Maine West Saturday night at Prospect.

The young Knights threw up a 2-2-1 zone that forced the visitors to shoot from outside. This paid off handsomely as the Warriors, who gained 15 more shots due to their rebounding supremacy, could hit only 11 baskets in 48 tries.

TED WISSEN'S team made the same number of baskets but required only 33 shots.

It was at the free throw line that Prospect won out. The young Knights converted eight of 13, while the visitors hit just six of 15.

After holding Maine to just one point in the second quarter and running their lead to 26-17 after three stanzas, Prospect had to win the game all over again. A zone press by the Warriors hampered the hosts, who went six and one-half minutes before scoring in the final quarter.

RESERVES Don Wardlow and Doug Karkow sparked the Maine rally, with Karkow sinking two free throws to give the visitors a 28-27 lead with just over a minute left.

Thomas, who counted nine of Prospect's 11 baskets and finished with 20 points, hit with a minute to play to put PHS on top, 29-38.

The 6-2 center added a free throw with 21 seconds left on a technical foul called when the Warriors took one more than the allotted number of timeouts.

Prospect Matmen Bow to Maine West

Dropping their second meet of the weekend by the identical score of 25-17, Prospect high school's varsity mat squad bowed to Maine West last Saturday afternoon.

The visiting Knights were in the match until the final bout when Maine's Bill Spyrison dumped Prospect's Darryl Phillips, 7-2, in one of the feature battles of the afternoon.

Neither boy scored in the first period of the heavyweight bout, but Spyrison countered on a take down and Phillips on an escape in the second. Spyrison gained a pair of take downs and an escape in the third period to pick up an easy 7-2 triumph.

IN THE other meet highlight, Maine West's Tim Byram, state champ at 95 last year, handed Prospect's Joe Ortiz his first loss of the season at 112, 5-1. Byram held Ortiz scoreless until the third period when the Prospect junior countered on an escape.

Tom Krause gained Prospect's first victory of the afternoon with a pin in 2:35 of the 103 battle, and Jim Liska stopped his 120 opponent, 11-6, with seven points in the second period.

Ken Pieper scored two points in each period on a take down and two reversals to decision Maine's Chuck Novak, 6-5, at 138, and Ron Christensen and Dick Zell put together back-to-back conquests at 165 and 180 for Prospect's final points.

Prospect Soph Matmen Edge Willowbrook

Three straight victories enabled Prospect's frosh-soph wrestlers to overcome an eight point deficit on the way to a 23-22 decision over Willowbrook last Friday.

Trailing 19-11 after 145, Hal Henson's Knights then copped the next three bouts with Aukamp and Peters registering pins and Siech adding an 8-5 decision.

Picking up the other victories for Prospect were Gary Jernberg at 120 on a fall at 3:20, Rog DeNapoli at 112, and Art Elman at 133.

Arlington JVs Whip St. Charles

Norm Patberg's Arlington JVs presented a balanced scoring attack Saturday morning as they rolled over St. Charles, 45-34.

The Cards' junior-varsity cagers jumped off to a 13-4 lead in the first period and led 19-11 at halftime.

Skip Witt collected 12 markers to pace the Arlington quintet and Frank Hermes added 10. Grant Wallhoff picked up eight points and Jim Clabaugh five with Bob Bohac and John Rush both netting four.

West Leyden Matmen Stop AHS Plebes

West Leyden's strength at 180 and heavyweight turned a close meet into a 33-21 decision for the hosts Saturday morning over Arlington's frosh wrestlers.

Chuck Harrington's Cardinals only trailed 23-21 going into the final two bouts, but West Leyden picked up a quick pin in 43 seconds of the 180 battle, and then Arlington's John Gladish had to give way because of wrenched back muscles in the heavyweight class.

Gladish was battling a West Leyden grappler about 90 pounds heavier in that final bout.

95 pounds — W. Leyden won on forfeit.
103 — Bangiorno (WL) pinned Colvin (A), 1:36.
112 — Stanfa (WL) pinned Ryan (A), :40.
120 — Witt (A) pinned Hermes (WL), 1:56.
127 — Snodgrass (A) pinned Agness (WL), :40.
133 — Gruenes (A) beat Popp (WL), 4-0.
138 — Hansen (WL) pinned Keller (A), :44.
145 — Little (WL) beat Hoban (A), 3-2.
154 — Wright (A) pinned Cortesi (WL), 1:28.
165 — Prather (A) beat Hamman (WL), 9-6.
180 — Wojonowski (WL) pinned Floger (A), :43.
eHavyweight — Walborn (WL) won by default.

Cards' Frosh Cagers Edge St. Charles

Arlington's freshman "A" basketball unit exploded in the first quarter, then had to hold on against an aroused St. Charles quintet in recording a 40-36 victory Saturday morning.

Coach Rog Steingraber's plebes moved off to a 16-6 advantage at the end of the first period, but the visitors closed the margin to 20-16 at halftime.

Both clubs played even ball for the final two periods with Arlington gaining the tight triumph.

Prospect JVs Triumph, 68-27

With Tom Polzin, Ken Anderson, and Wayne Carroll setting the pace, Prospect's junior-varsity basketball team crushed Willowbrook Saturday morning, 68-27.

Polzin rimmed 20 points to spark the victory for Bob Hoese's Knights with Anderson and Carroll both collecting 14.

Prospect held a 34-9 lead at halftime and increased that margin to 51-14 before Willowbrook displayed its first consistent scoring attack.

Arlington Soph Mat Unit Wins

Trailing 13-0 after three bouts, Arlington's frosh-soph wrestling team fought back and recorded an impressive 28-23 victory over York last Friday evening.

Coach Julius Fliehler's frosh-sophs started their rush at 120 when Ken Adams pinned his opponent in 1:01. Successive victories by Byron Duff, Jim Valenti, and Roy Woodruff brought the count to 18-13 with both Valenti and Woodruff recording pins.

A draw and two victories later, Arlington held a 28-15 margin with York picking up the 180 and heavyweight decisions.

Fastest victory of the evening was a pin by the Cards' Woodruff in 48 seconds of the 138-pound bout.

What Does It Take To Capture Tourney?

Ten pins over average, per man, per game . . . that's all it usually takes to win the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap bowling tournaments.

The men's event Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 9 and 10, at Beverly Lanes, Arlington Heights, will include first place teams of over 80 men's leagues as of Dec. 19.

The women's tournament Sunday, Jan. 17, at Gunnell's Lanes, Mt. Prospect, will pit first place teams of over 50 women's leagues as of Saturday, Dec. 26.

WINNING THE tournaments has been the goal of hundreds of teams and thousands of bowlers but it takes "just a little above average" kegling to make the winners circle. Any team that can have each bowler hit just ten pins over average each game can usually start counting its money.

That adage holds true in both men's and women's tournaments. Some teams with low averages often feel they have to be hotter'n a pistol in order to take home first place money, but it doesn't work out that way. Handicaps tend to even the odds in the big meet, making it possible for any team to win the title.

MEN'S HANDICAPS will be 70 per cent of the difference between a team's average and 1,000. Women's handicaps will be 70 per cent of the difference between a team's average and 875. Thus, a man's team that averages 780 will receive a handicap of 462 pins. A women's team that averages 655 will also receive a handicap of 462 pins.

Winning totals have ranged from 2899 to 3054 in the eight years of the tourney. For the women the gross has varied from 2508 to 2603. Here's a record of past winners with year and gross indicated:

Men's Tourney

52-Haseman Truckers	2979
53-Black's Memorial	3036
54-Len & Sev's IGA	2899
55-Haseman Truckers	3041
56-Haseman Truckers	2999
57-Schimming Oil	3032
58-McIntyre Lumber	3034
59-Arl. Furn. Mart	3054

Women's Tourney

53-Emerald Shop	2534
54-Reid's Apparel	2603
55-Riviera	2508
56-Lange Pharmacy	2533
57-Busse Motors	2600
58-Lohr Drug Store	2637
59Arl. Mkt. Walgreen	2510

DEADLINE for entries in the men's tourney is Dec. 26. For the women it is Jan. 2. Time reservations for the various squads should be made as early as possible, with a call to Marian Phillips at CLearbrook 3-1520, the Paddock office, the quickest way to secure the time desired.

Squad times for the men's event are Sunday at 1:00, 3:25, 5:50 and 8:15, Saturday at 1:30 and 3:55. For the women it will be Sunday at 12:30, 3:10, 5:50 and 8:30.

Greyhound Van Lines Outline Expansion Plans for 1960

BEFORE AND AFTER: Both are shown here as President Henry P. Bruner (right) and Vice President Shelby B. Hood point out their company's change of name to Greyhound Van Lines, Inc. The subsidiary of The Greyhound Corporation was formerly known as Greyvan Lines. This year Greyhound Van Lines is celebrating 30 years in the moving and storage business. Agent for northwest suburbs is Piepenbrink Movers, Inc., of Mt. Prospect.

Greyvan lines, Inc. has officially announced the change of the company name to Greyhound Van Lines, Inc. The company also will be the nationwide long distance household goods moving subsidiary of the Greyhound corp.

Edwin Piepenbrink, president of Piepenbrink Movers, Inc., 311 E. Foundry rd., Mt. Prospect, authorized agent of Greyhound Van Lines, Inc., recently attended the company's nationwide sales meeting in Chicago.

THE MEETING afforded an opportunity to outline the firm's 1960 expansion program, which includes increased agency outlets and palletized warehousing. An improved van operator training program and a new sales training program was also announced. Service to foreign countries is being stepped up along with the availability of Greyhound Package Express through many of the van line offices. An IBM system to speed paper work handling, market analysis and forecasts has been installed in the Chicago general office. A new communications and control system along with specially designed vans for electronic moves are also being readied.

As part of the 1960 program, Greyhound announced many new innovations that will be effective immediately or in the near future. Included is improved teletype communications and vehicle control system, special designed equipment for electronic and other specialized moves, such as trade shows and displays.

An expanded agency program is planned even though Greyhound is the only mover operating its own company offices and warehouses in 53 major cities.

THE NORTHWEST suburban agency operated by Piepenbrink has also been expanding to meet rapidly-expanding business volume.

In use shortly will be a new 1200 cubic foot moving van which brings to four the total number of trucks in Piepenbrink's fleet.

Richard Gunderson of Park Ridge has been appointed new sales manager of the local firm. He will direct sales, supervise estimates, and solve local and long distance moving problems.

Piepenbrink Movers, Inc., formerly known as Piepenbrink Delivery Service, has served this area since 1949. In addition to local and long distance moving, the firm offers daily freight service to and from Chicago, one-piece or truckload moving and hauling, and storage facilities either local or with Greyhound.

Helpless Dependency Is Caused by Some Hospitals

A social anthropologist who has studied the environment of large mental hospitals last night questioned certain of their procedures as "untherapuetic." Dr. Leonard Borman, chief of anthropology service at the Downey (Ill.) VA hospital, told an audience at Forest hospital, Des Plaines, that he had observed ways in which hospital society and culture appears to place mental patients in a role of helpless dependency, makes it natural for them to become withdrawn and uncommunicative and deprives them of a sense of identity.

Dr. Borman, third speaker at Forest hospital's annual scientific program, said that large mental hospitals need to find ways to counteract these influences, with specific programs that make it possible for patients to exercise spontaneous initials in doing things for themselves, each other and other people, and to have a voice that will be heard and listened to within the hospital.

"The model of the psychiatric hospital," Dr. Borman said, "is a carry-over of the general and surgical hospital. The patient's role is a helpless dependent one. All the qualities of responsibility, decision-making, initiative, having a voice in the affairs, are lacking. For instance a broken leg or an appendicitis operation this extreme dependency may serve an important function in the course of a patient's rehabilitation or recovery. As it applies to the mentally ill, the purpose served by such extreme dependency can be seriously questioned.

The total control exercised over a patient's life makes withdrawal natural, Dr. Borman pointed out. "A patient," he said, "has little voice in matters which affect him. When he does speak up, make a demand, a complaint, or suggestion, these are often considered as expressions of a diseased mind. In a hospital society which does not encourage patients to speak their minds they will naturally, many inevitably, take the only course open, and that is to withdraw into themselves."

REGARDING the sense of personal identity, Dr. Borman pointed out the importance of personal possessions. "All of us," he said, "have personal possessions which, in a sense, are extensions of our personalities, of our selves. They indicate something about our way of life, our aspirations or things we cherish. If you strip away these outward material possessions you obviously are affecting young people in important and serious ways."

Dr. Borman said that prevailing "mood" was another cultural influence on patients. "One of the striking qualities in the mood of large mental hospitals," he said, "is the atmosphere of hopelessness and despair. If you say and act as if patients are hopelessly sick, that they don't have a ghost of a chance of leaving the hospital you may, in this very process, bring about our prediction." (B8

Special type savings windows

At expanded St. Paul, you'll have three drive-in teller windows for service behind the wheel of your car. You may come as you are—no need to dress up to do business with us. Our drive-in windows will prove helpful to you in bad weather and ideal for mothers with small babies.

A special savings window for youngsters will be installed in our main lobby. It will be scaled down in size, easy for your children to reach and save in their own way.

A full block of service

The expanded St. Paul building will cover a block on North Avenue between Normandy and Rutherford Avenues. You may enter through our new center foyer on North Avenue, or at our doorway on the Normandy Avenue side. And nearby, of course, is parking space for 175 cars.

You're invited to come

Please remember, there's business as usual at St. Paul all during construction—no interruption to services or inconvenience to you. You're invited to save with us and to watch our building progress. For your convenience, we have large wire mesh openings in our fence so you can see what's going on. Please stop by soon. Meanwhile, watch for the next building report in your local newspaper.

It's your building . . . watch it grow!

ROGER BABSON

Paddock Publications will publish Roger W. Babson's business and financial forecast for 1960 next week.

His 1960 forecast will contain outstanding predictions on such topics as general business, commodity prices, taxes, trade, labor, inflation, farm outlook, stock market, real estate, and politics.

This feature is offered each year to readers of Paddock Publications in the belief that it is of inestimable value. Babson—a pioneer in the field of business and financial statistics—enjoys an unusual record of accuracy in his annual forecasts. His score for 1959 was 84 per cent accurate; in 1958 it was 86 per cent accurate; in 20 years it has never been less than 76 per cent accurate.

AMERICAN business has no more inspiring personality than Roger W. Babson, internationally - known business commentator and investment adviser. An outstanding feature of his philosophy has been his lifelong insistence on the importance of both religion and advertising in business.

Born and reared in an old-fashioned atmosphere of hard work and hustle on a farm in Gloucester, Babson went to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Upon graduating, he turned instinctively to financial and business activities in which his father was engaged.

His exertions, however, undermined his health; he contracted tuberculosis and he was sent West "as good as dead"! It was while he was convalescing from this dread malady that he worked out some of the possibilities and problems of business forecasting. His weekly releases are used by over 400 newspapers and his financial reports by 20,000 corporations and estates. His research work is carried on by a large staff of experts.

BABSON founded Babson Institute for Men; and, in cooperation with the late Mrs. Babson, developed Webber College for Women—both nationally-known educational institutions. Here young men and women may concentrate on the fundamentals of honest and efficient business administration. Later, he founded a Midwest Institute of Business Administration, located in Eureka, Kan., the center of the United States. He has been active also in the establishment of other mediums of service to the public, such as the Gravity Research Foundation, located at New Boston, New Hampshire.

Babson has probably done more than any other man to create among his millions of newspaper readers an interest in simple business problems, and to instill a broader vision in businessmen, enabling them to meet the ups-and-downs of the business cycle. (BB

Hints To Home Owners

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

The decorating of our homes at Christmas time is a tradition which has grown up through the ages and had its beginning even before the first Christmas.

The custom of kissing under the mistletoe seems to stem from the ancient Greek marriage rites which used mistletoe, or possibly as a result of a centuries old rule in some countries that enemies became reconciled at the New Year. They would meet under the mistletoe and swear friendship for the coming year.

IN MANY LANDS, holly was thought to protect the occupants of a home in which it was placed from witches, thunder and lightning. Evergreen boughs were a symbol of immortality. It is quite natural that these materials be formed into wreaths, which are themselves a symbol of victory, and be placed at windows and doors for the Christmas season.

The use of flowers seems to stem from the legend relating how the plants, trees, and shrubs all burst into bloom on the first Christmas eve in Bethlehem.

THE USE OF the Christmas tree is thought to have originated as a symbol of the Tree of Paradise in the Garden of Eden. The custom seems to have come to this country during the Revolution when home-sick Hessian soldiers erected trees to remind them of their homeland. The popularity of the custom has grown up mostly since the mid 1850's when the first Christmas tree was set up in the White House by President Franklin Pearce.

The Christmas ornaments we use in America have come to us from all parts of the world. Each new nationality group that migrated to this country brought with it some customs of its own.

The earliest decorations were simple and were made of the common berries and fruits of the area. Apples, oranges, nuts, and strings of popcorn or cranberries still make up some of our most effective Christmas decorations.

Greetings of the season from all of us to all of you!

Reflection Needed As Part of Life

By LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

You have often heard people say they never look back, only ahead; that they never grieve over what has happened, is past and over. And you remember of course, the many trite sayings like "that's water under the bridge"?

Yet reflecting on things we say and do is necessary if we are to correct our errors, and become better, more efficient, and kinder people.

When a person habitually loses his temper, it is a serious thing that he should bring under control. "Flying off the handle" makes enemies, and shows to the world what little self control you have; and given the right conditions may get you into great trouble, or even into prison. If you take time to reflect on your temper and means of controlling it, then put your thoughts into action, you can bring it under control. There is no such thing as an uncontrollable temper in a normal person. When you have reached a stage where you can no longer control yourself, you need to be locked up.

IF IN MOMENTS of reflection, you see that you are not eating the foods that keep you well, you should learn what to eat, and train yourself to eat and like those foods. It can be done. You should take time to reflect on your posture, and if it is careless and unhealthful, change your way of sitting, walking, or standing. You should look back and check on the way you use your time, on your family relationships, the example you set your children, and change them if they need to be changed. Your example, the principles you hold, even your very mannerisms and habits of speech, are pretty much the same that your children will have when they are grown.

Reflection and change is the order of life, and if we are going to become better persons as we grow older, we have to bring them about in our lives. If you have not already developed the good habit of reflecting and evaluating your life day by day, then do it now; but that alone is not enough, and can lead to psychological trouble. You must act upon and change the things that are wrong, substituting the habits and concepts that are right; and if you need help, you will find the guidance you need in Christ's teaching, and throughout the New Testament.

Feb. 15 Is State License Deadline

Monday, Feb. 15, is the deadline for displaying 1960 motor vehicle license plates, Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier announced today.

A possibility that the steel strike might require a later deadline did not materialize, and for the fifth consecutive year the mid-February date for displaying current plates will be observed, Carpentier said.

He emphasized that February 15 is not an application deadline but the date by which motorists must display 1960 plates on their cars, or be subject to arrest.

MAILED APPLICATIONS must be received by the Springfield office of the Automobile division by February 1, if plates are to be returned prior to the deadline. Two weeks are normally required for processing of applications and delivery of plates during this period.

"The deadline is still nine weeks away, but we feel it is time to notify motorists of its approach. This is an obligation every motorist owes to the state. We wish to make certain that no one suffers a penalty because he did not know when that obligation had to be met," Carpentier said. (BB

Awarded Coveted Marine Trophy

An honor student at Illinois Institute of Technology in the department of architecture was recently awarded a coveted trophy for "notable leadership" in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserves.

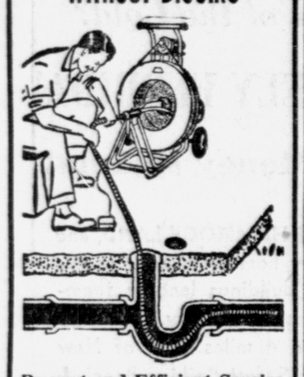

U. S. Senator Paul Douglas presented the Commandant's Trophy to Duane D. Anderson, 21, in brief ceremonies on the Illinois Tech campus. Anderson was selected for the annual award from a group of nearly 2,000 Marine Corps Reserves during a 6-week platoon leaders class at Quantico, Va.

A REPLICA of the trophy was presented to Dr. John T. Rettaliata, president of IIT, by Sen. Douglas. The trophy, a rotating award, will be in possession of Illinois Tech for one year.

General Randolph Mc C. Pate, commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps, cited Anderson for his "ability to accept and discharge the responsibilities of leadership . . . your selection reflects credit not only on yourself, but also on your alma mater." Anderson, a junior at IIT, is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Julian G. Anderson, 10 S. Mt. Prospect rd., Mt. Prospect. He is a corporal in the USMCR.

Linda Rogers Married by Same Pastor Who Married Parents

In a ceremony performed by Rev. Frank Coats, who also married the bride's parents, Miss Linda Lou Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren B. Rogers, 314 N. Russell, Mt. Prospect, was married to Donald E. Modesitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Modesitt, Spruce st., Des Plaines. The service was performed at 4 p.m., October 10 in First Methodist church, Des Plaines.

Gladioli and white mums decorated the church for the candlelight, double ring service, during which Mrs. Lois Lundvall served as soloist.

The ceremony was followed by a reception for 60 guests in the Oxford room of the Georgian hotel, Evanston, after which Mr. Modesitt took his bride on a week's wedding trip to Wisconsin. The newlyweds are now at home in Elgin.

A PRINCESS gown of white, re-embroidered alencon lace was chosen by the bride. It was fashioned with round yoke embroidered in seed pearls and crystalettes with floor-length skirt and chapel train. A shoulder-length, tulle veil cascaded from a tiara of lace, crystalettes and seed pearls and she carried a white prayerbook with a spray of orchids and stephanotis. She was given in marriage by her father.

The bridegroom's sister, Janet Modesitt, was maid of honor and the bride's own younger sister, 7-year-old Carol Sue Rogers, was flower girl. Both wore street-length blue peau de soie princess gowns with a draped back bow and carried nosegays of pink carnations and white mums tied with pink streamers.

Dale Harris of Cincinnati was best man and the bridegroom's brother, Kenneth Modesitt, and the bride's cousin, William Rogers of Evanston, were ushers. Candlelighters and junior ushers were the bride's brothers, Fred, 11, and Warren, 12.

MRS. ROGERS chose a lace dress of Schiaparelli pink with matching hat of roses and a corsage of white mums and stephanotis. Mrs. Modesitt chose a gray nylon sheer over pink taffeta with pink hat and gloves and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride was graduated from Arlington high school and attended Millikin and Northwestern universities. Her bridegroom received his bachelor of science degree in civil engineering from the Missouri School of Mines. He is now with the Illinois State Highway department, Elgin division office. Dorothy Balch, Clive Douquet Married in Park Ridge Church

Five-foot spiral candelabras entwined with flowers, along with altar bouquets formed the background October 17 in the Presbyterian Church of Park Ridge for the wedding of Miss Dorothy Balch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Balch, 623 S. Pine, Arlington Heights, and Clive Douquet of Chicago, son of Mrs. Irene Douquet of South Wales, Great Britain.

Dr. John Bellinghan officiated at the service during which Jack Lee sang "Ich Lieber Dich," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." He was accompanied by Mrs. Nettinga at the organ.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a satin brocade gown with chapel train, three-quarter sleeves, scooped neckline and small satin bow at the waist. She also wore a pearl crown to hold her fingertip veil and carried amazon lilies with ivy and stephanotis. Her only jewelry was a pair of cultured pearl earrings.

MISS ARLENE Steinmann of Hermosa Beach, Cal. was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Beverly Kost and Josephine Duro, both of Arlington Heights. All wore identical gowns of emerald green chiffon over taffeta sheaths, matching satin shoes, and headbands and carried bouquets of bird of paradise with ivy, wheat and miniature oranges.

The bride's mother chose a gold lame sheath and cocoa accessories with a beige cymbidium corsage. The bridegroom's sister, who received in the absence of their mother, chose a honey-colored fitted wool suit with mink collar, matching accessories and a green cymbidium orchid.

James Head of Skokie was the best man and John Alden of Melrose Park and Lawrence Price of Oal. Park were ushers.

A RECEPTION for 150 guests was held in the Pantry in Park Ridge after which the couple honeymooned at the Edgewater Beach hotel and the Wagon Wheel lodge for one week before taking up residence at 3101 N. Sheridan rd., Chicago.

The bride was graduated from Arlington high school and Stephens college and also attended Syracuse university. She is now in the executive training program at the Fair store in Chicago. Her bridegroom studied at the University of Illinois and is sales manager for Wolverine Express, Inc., Chicago.

PEO Members Hold Yule Party Dec. 15

Red tablecloths, Christmas favors and holiday decorations added to the enjoyment of the 3-course luncheon when members of chapter HN of the PEO Sisterhood met December 15 for a Christmas party in the home of Mrs. W. L. Johnson, 1308 Watling rd., Arlington Heights.

A gift exchange and Christmas story, read by Mrs. W. M. Runyon, completed the program.

Mrs. L. P. Swanson is president of the chapter and Mrs. Victor Beisler is vice president and program for the year.

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Our Happiest Christmas

Dear Peg:

Christmas being such a joyous time, it's difficult to say that any one Christmas is happier than another. However, I can say that this Christmas is sure to be one of the happiest our family has ever had—what with a brand new 3 month old baby girl and our own wonderful new home—what could make a family's Christmas happier? It has been such fun to decorate the house for the first time. We have a long wide mantle over the fireplace and adjoining bookcases in the middle of which we have the manger and figures, banked with snow-flocked evergreens that also cover the top of the mantle. On each end of the mantle is a group of five candles in varying sizes and shades of blue (our living room is mainly white and gray with shades of blue, lavender and green).

On top of the piano are the tiny figures of angels and Christmas elves either playing musical instruments or singing, which Mother has sent to the children for the past few years. We are always fortunate to have a lovely Christmas flower arrangement sent to Megan from her Grandpa and Grandma McArdle for her birthday and which lasts through Christmas. This year it is a delicate Madonna holding white carnations, purple Japanese iris and evergreen.

Our living room is spacious and I'm afraid we went all out this year to get a tree suitable for the size of the room—in other words, a full, nine foot, majestic scotch pine stands in one corner of the room, from which it can be seen through four windows, from the outside.

As you enter our house, you step into an open entrance hall with a wide stairway leading to the second floor whose banister is perfect for wrapping with evergreens—we are fortunate to have an abundance of old and large evergreens around the house, or I could certainly never be so lavish in decorating with it.

On the dining room table is my Grandmother's glass compote filled with brightly colored ornaments and on the credenza an arrangement of carnations and evergreen. Oh, yes, I almost forgot—of course five big red, jeweled stockings hang from the mantle above the fireplace, each with its own name so that Santa won't get mixed up (remember? I made four of them two years ago in the hospital after having Joseph on Dec. 13, and this year adding Deirdre's, bringing the total up to five).

These are indeed happy days for everyone but I think especially for mothers, don't you?

Have a very merry Christmas with your family and friends, dear, and may the New Year bring you all the blessings of peace and joy.

My love,
Patty

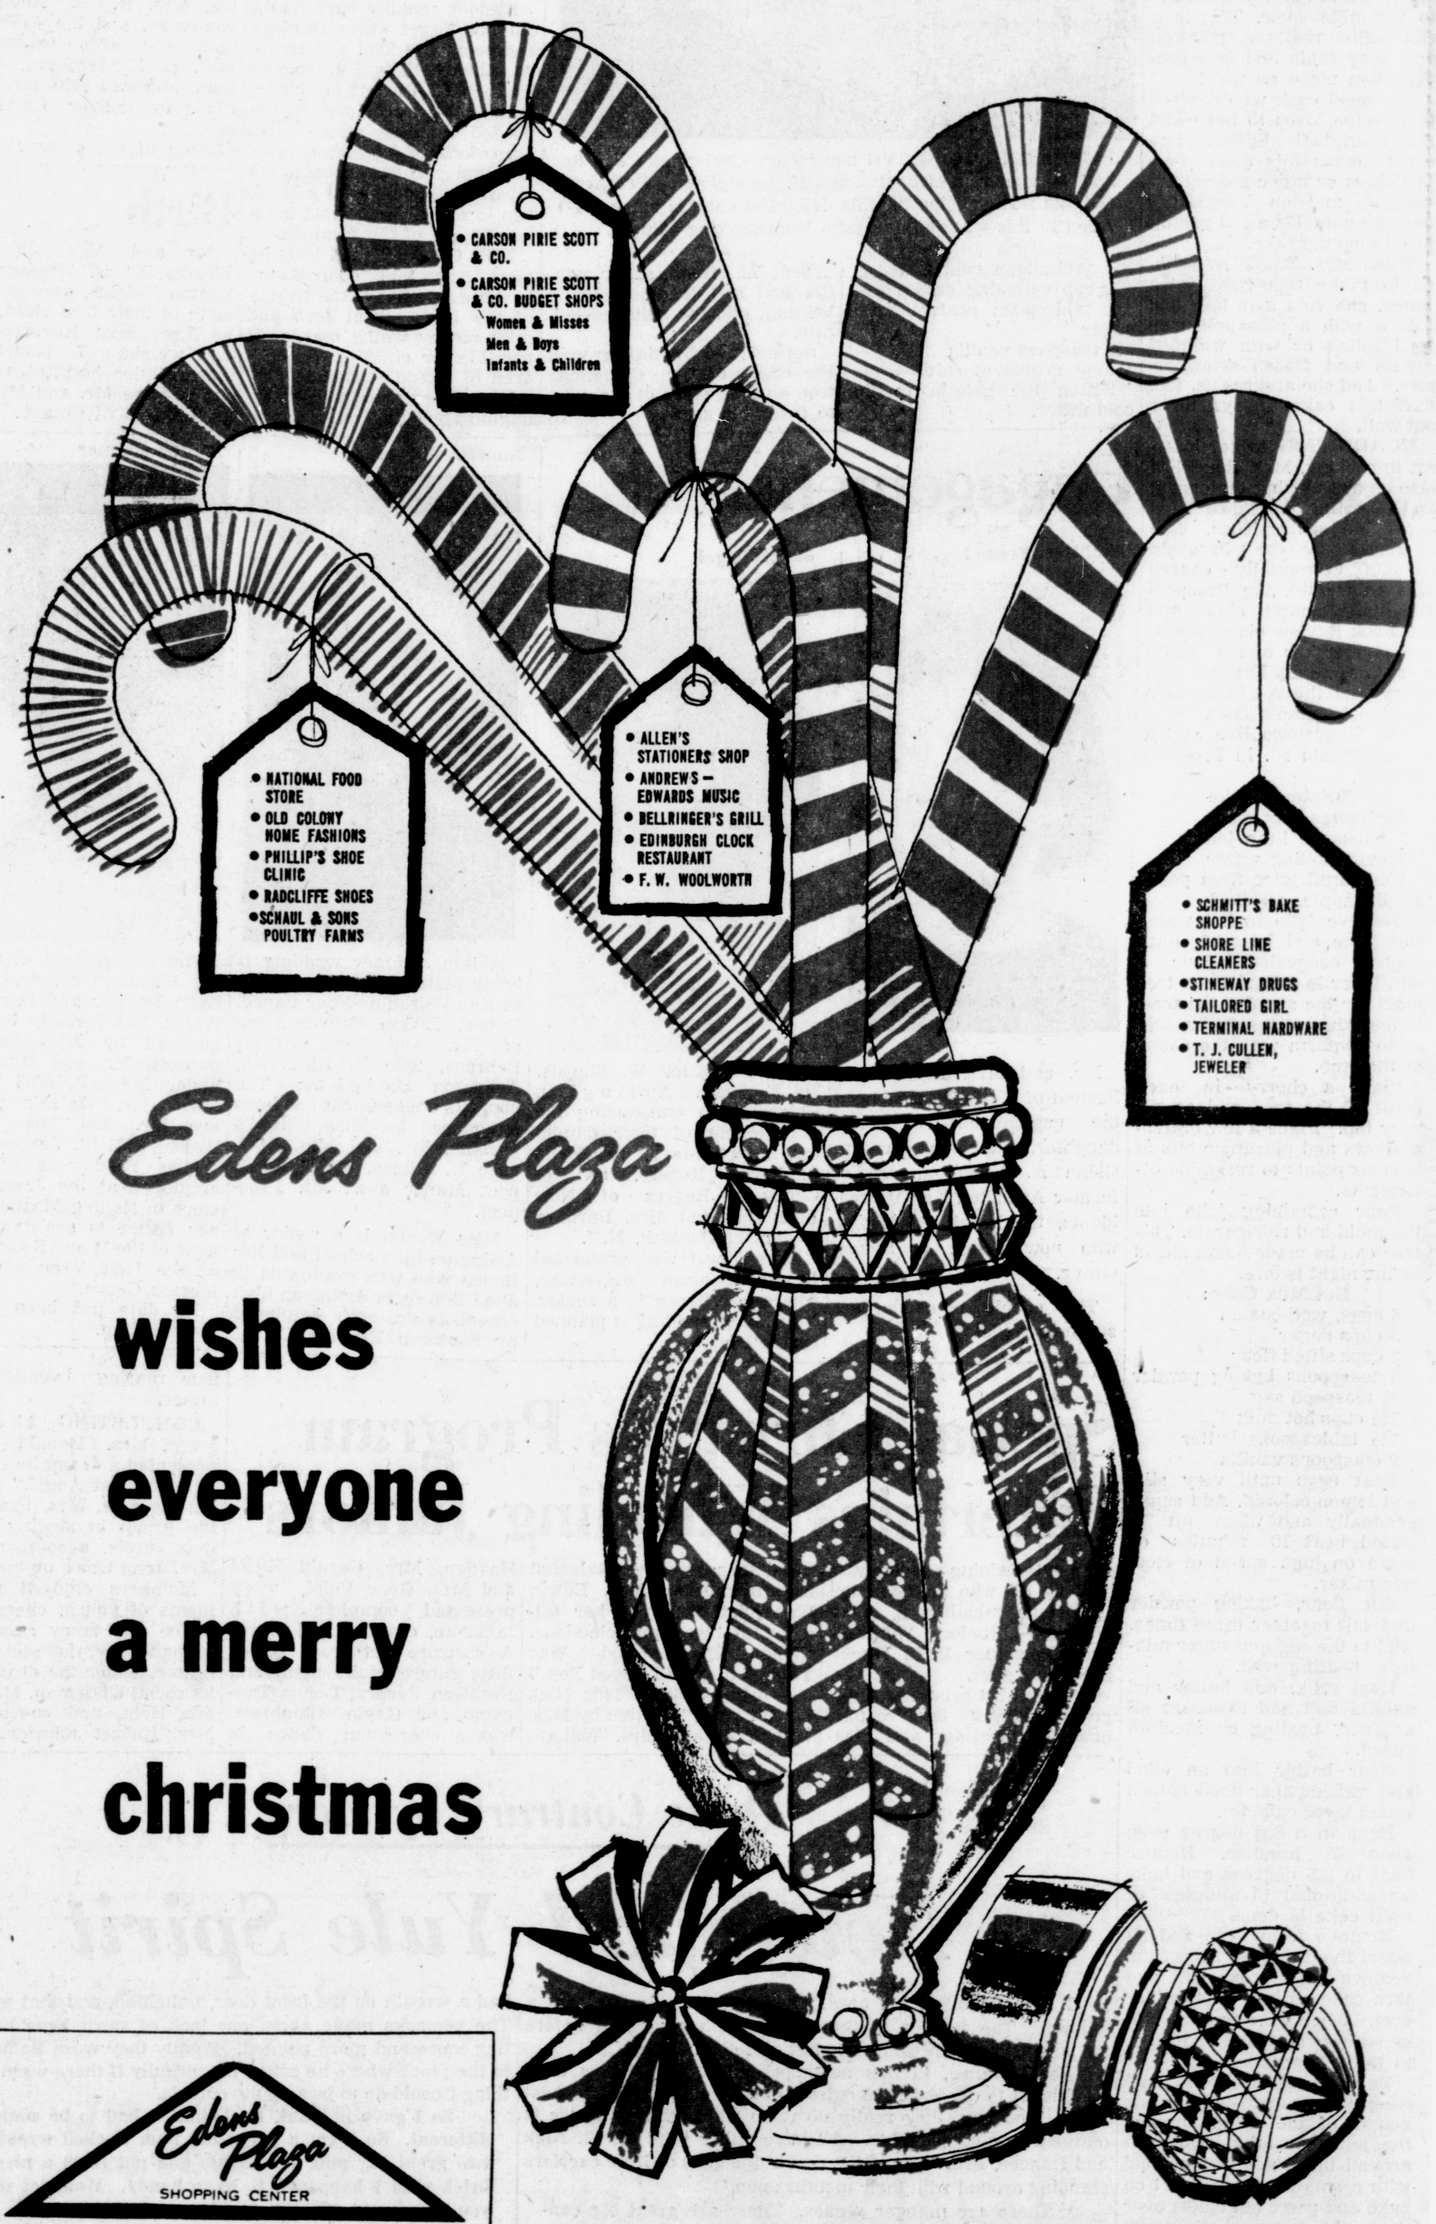

FILLING CHRISTMAS baskets with boxed and canned goods donated by members of Wheeling Junior Womans club at their December 15 meeting are Mrs. William Farr, president of the club, Mrs. Gerald Kiffel, philanthropy chairman, and Mrs. Donald Koelling. These items, plus used clothing and donations from other organizations in Wheeling, helped fill 20 baskets. PTA, chamber of commerce, Jaycees, Junior Women, Meadowbrook women, MPOA and other individuals pooled resources and energies at Wheeling school gym December 19 to fill the baskets and distribute them to needy families in the Wheeling area. Festive Christmas Cake Perfect for Holiday Parties

A festive Christmas Cake, perfect for holiday entertaining, is our feature of the day.

The recipe for this delicious cake, which has a colorful gelatin Christmas tree shimmering on top, has been shared with us by Mrs. Rudolph H. Bandelow of Prospect Heights.

For the base of the cake she uses a 6-egg hot milk cake made in a 12-inch round tin, although a chiffon cake may also be used.

The night before or hours ahead she prepares lime gelatin in a Christmas tree mold. Strips of pears are used for the branches and stem of the tree, and cherries, marshmallows and pineapple bits are placed at various points for ornaments.

WHEN THE JELLO is set it is unmolded on the cooled cake. Fluffy whipped cream is spread around the edges of the tree and sides of the cake to resemble snow. This is a cake which really sparkles on a holiday table and is a conversation piece as well!

The good cook who devised this recipe loves to bake and make original things. She often makes this cake for birthdays or other special occasions, and on Valentine's day she unmolds a red gelatin heart atop the cake.

When Mrs. Bandelow wishes to make this cake extra fancy, she cuts it in half and fills it with a pineapple custard filling or with whipped cream and frozen strawberries. And she assures us, too, that this cake always turns out well.

IN ADDITION to her interest in cooking, Mrs. Bandelow also enjoys playing the organ, and creating her own hats and table centerpieces. She is active in the Prospect Heights Community church Woman's guild, the Prospect Heights Woman's club and the Book Review club. She is also a member of the Northwest Community hospital auxiliary and the Arlington Heights Woman's club.

The Bandelows live at 302 E. McDonald rd. in Prospect Heights.

PREPARING TO SERVE her festive Christmas Cake to holiday guests is Mrs. Rudolph H. Bandelow of Prospect Heights. The recipe for this delightful cake is being featured in this week's Successful Homemaking column. (S

Christmas Cake

Christmas Tree:

2 packages lime jelllo
2 cups boiling water
1 cup fruit juice from pears or pineapple, strained

Dissolve jello in hot water and juice and let set until slightly congealed. Pour a thin layer in a Christmas tree mold for the stem of the tree. Place other strips as branches to conform with the shape of the tree.

Place a cherry in each point of the tree and at the very top. Place a few marshmallows and pineapple bits at various points to resemble ornaments.

Pour remaining jello into the mold and refrigerate. This tree can be made hours ahead or the night before.

Hot Milk Cake:

6 eggs, well-beaten
3 cups sugar
3 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1½ cups hot milk
1½ tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons vanilla

Beat eggs until very stiff and lemon-colored. Add sugar gradually and when all is added beat 10 minutes or more on high speed of electric mixer.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together three times. Add to the egg and sugar mixture, beating well.

Heat milk, add butter and vanilla and add to batter all at once, beating on medium speed.

Pour batter into an oiled and waxed-paper lined 12-inch round layer cake tin.

Bake in a 350 degree oven about 45 minutes. Reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake an additional 15 minutes or until cake is done.

Remove from oven and let stand five minutes. Invert tin, remove cake from pan and turn cake upright at once. Let cool. When cake is cool, cover with a tea towel and place in the refrigerator.

Be sure the cake is cold when you unmold jello on the center of the cake. Unmold the jello carefully. Loosen it around the edges of the mold with a small knife. Invert on cake and place hot cloths over the mold, being cautious not to get the mold too hot or the jello will melt.

Frosting:

1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water
1 cup whipping cream
1 tablespoon confectioner's sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
Few grains of salt

Soften the gelatin in the cold water.

Beat the cream, sugar, vanilla and salt together. While beating, add the softened gelatin.

Spread the frosting around the edges of the Christmas tree and the sides of the cake to resemble snow. (S

Junior Women Help Needy Area Families

LITTLE TODD PICKETT and David Witzing help Mrs. John Bolus, left, and their mothers, Mrs. Philip Pickett and Mrs. John Witzig wrap gifts for the 16 children of two Spanish-American families "adopted" three years ago by the American Citizenship and International Relations committee of Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club. This committee, along with others of the club, is financially independent of the Juniors.

The American citizenship and international relations committee of the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club recently obtained and wrapped gifts for the 16 children of two Spanish-American families which the committee "adopted" three years ago.

Besides making sure Santa did not forget these children and providing food and treats on other holidays, of which Mrs. P. G. Pickett is chairman, also provides much needed clothing which has been donated by members of the Junior club. A complete layette was delivered a week ago to await the newest addition to one of the families.

THE COMMITTEE feels its most important contribution to these families is the paying of the book rental fees and milk money which makes it possible for eight of the children to attend school.

Upon learning of a local Arlington Heights family, where Santa would not be visiting four children this year, three other committees joined with the American citizenship committee to help this family get ready for Christmas.

The orphanage committee, Mrs. R. S. Davis, chairman; the veterans service committee, Mrs. R. B. Anderson, chairman, and the American home and garden committee, Mrs. R. K. Jernberg, chairman, obtained gifts for Santa Claus to deliver Christmas eve.

Each of the committees is financially independent of the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club. They earn money for their service projects and contributions, and give time and energy to benefit the various organizations of their choice. (S

Birth

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Woods, 501 N. Windsor, Arlington Heights, announce the birth of their first child, Karen Lee, born November 29 and weighing 7 pounds in Resurrection hospital. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gariti of Chiago. (*

Engagements

Kathleen Freund

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard A. Freund of McHenry announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Ann, to Glenn R. Moehling, son of former Arlington Heights residents, the Ralph Moehlings, who now reside in Spring Grove.

The couple plans a late summer wedding.

Janet Siegel

The Frederick W. Siegels, 316 E. Park, Arlington Heights, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Janet Mary, to Curtis Challover Rogers, son of Curtis C. Rogers of New York City and Mrs. Barbara Rogers of Dunkirk, N.Y.

Miss Siegel was graduated from Denison university, where her fiance is a senior.

An April wedding is planned by the couple.

Annetta Wilson

A late summer wedding is being planned by Miss Annetta Rae Wilson and her fiance, Robert Edwin Behrens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Behrens, 2330 E. Hintz rd., Arlington Heights. The couple's engagement has been announced by Miss Wilson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Wilson, 320 N. Prospect Manor ave., Mt. Prospect.

Miss Wilson is a senior at Arlington high school and her fiance who was graduated in June 1956 from Arlington high school, is presently employed by Southern Express Co.

Sharon Palmer

The engagement of a Rolling Meadows couple, Sharon Lynn Palmer and Barry Lee Walsh, has recently been announced by Miss Palmer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, 3003 Thrush lane. Mr. Walsh's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Walsh, 3204 St. James.

Miss Palmer is presently employed at the Jewel Food store in Rolling Meadows and her fiance is assistant manager of the R and S shoe store of the Golf View center in Morton Grove.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Special Christmas Program Entertains Wheeling Juniors

An entertaining evening was held by all who attended the Christmas meeting of the Wheeling Junior Woman's club December 15 in Wheeling school gym.

A special Christmas program followed the regular business meeting, and featured four acts from talented club members. Mrs. Edwin Wahlquist displayed her talent with two song selections. "When The World Was Young" and "If I Loved You."

A beatnik skit, "This Nick Wasn't Beat," written by Mrs. Joseph Stiller, Mrs. William Hayden, Mrs. Gerald Kiffel and Mrs. Gene Volpi, was presented complete with make-up, costume and props. A surprise act from three little future club members, Kathleen Pecora, Donna Tancamo and Gayle Chinblom, was a charleston dance in true roaring twenties costumes.

COMPLETING the program, Mrs. Donald Frantz presented a dramatic reading, "The Littlest Angel." Following the acts, Mrs. Frantz led the group in singing Christmas carols, accompanied by Mrs. John Howe on the piano.

Members enjoyed refreshments of punch, cheese dips, coffee and fancy sandwiches prepared by the social committee, under the direction of its social chairman, Mrs. Gordon Hein, and co-chairman, Mrs. Robert Johnson. (S

Newfound Yule Spirit

I hate to follow the herd. I want to be a leader. Not a follower. The trouble is that everyone has arrived before me and there is nothing left but to follow along.

For instance, in this neighborhood it has always been traditional to decorate the outside of the houses at Christmastime. And boy, they really do it up right. Every house is outlined in colored lights. All have either good old St. Nick and Dancer, Prancer and the rest of the girls or little carolers standing around with their mouths open.

There are manger scenes. There are great big candles. One house has its front door made up to look like a huge package. Another has a HiFi speaker hidden in a box tied up with ribbor from which carols peal out to the countryside whether you like it or not.

I have withstood the trend for three years. Our house had a wreath on the front door, unlighted, and that was that. The remarks made about our lack of spirit have been getting more and more pointed. Finally they wore Father down to the place where he asked me pitifully if there wasn't something I could do to jazz up the outside.

So I gave in. But, I felt that it had to be something different. So I got a great big pink flocked wreath and two great big pink floodlights and put it on a nice pink brick wall I happened to have handy. Well, let me tell you it is pretty effective.

Our house stands out bathed in pink from top to bottom. Father and I were pretty proud of ourselves. I felt mighty clever until one of our urgers came over the other night and said it looked very nice. Sort of like a mausoleum. Which was not exactly what I had in mind. (Soc

Give them Fun for Life
Give them a Hammond Organ

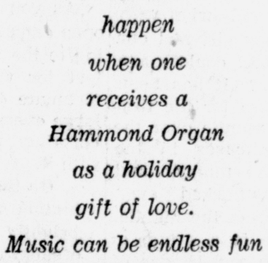

Wonderful things happen when one receives a Hammond Organ as a holiday gift of love.

Music can be endless fun with a Hammond Organ. It's like having a whole orchestra at your fingertips. You can play any piece with dozens of different instrumental or solo effects— like the harp, clarinet, flute, marimba, trumpet and others. The magic of Hammond's "tone bars" does it for you— with the flick of a finger.

The best part is that anyone can play simple tunes on a Hammond Organ during his first lesson. Rich sustained tones and modern teaching methods have you playing complete songs while learning.

Surprise your family for the coming years with a musical instrument they can all play and enjoy. Make this the happiest holiday ever with your Hammond Organ.

December 6 was the sixth birthday of Susie, daughter of Jean and Ray Collins, 1604 Fremont. Present at her party December 4 were her sister, Gayle, Garry Gillis, David Timson, Steven and David Dzikl, Stephanie Stein, Patty Townsend, Lynn Czerney, Mary Barbara and Mark Rice, John and Lynn Keefer and Barbara Smith. Sister Jeanann helped her mother with the games and serving the cake and ice cream.

Carol Beth, 7, daughter of Carol and Richard Mooney, 204 Illinois dr., had a tonsillectomy December 10 in St. Francis hospital, Evanston. Here to help keep an eye on the other children while mother accompanied Carol to the hospital are Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Porter, grandparents from Barberton, Ohio; they will remain until the first of the year so that they can also celebrate Mr. Porter's January birthday.

Sympathy is extended to Gloria Kuehn, 116 S. Reuter, on the death of her husband, Irving, December 14.

Theresa Parson, 24 Illinois dr., entertained her bridge club the evening of December 14. This was their Christmas party and after playing cards the nine ladies exchanged gifts.

Betty and Ralph Hawks, 1610 Fremont, recently returned from an 8-day visit to New York City, where Ralph attended a chemical convention. While there, they went sightseeing and attended several plays including "Flower Drum Song."

"ITS A BOY!" reads the sign in the window of 211 Illinois dr. home of Marg and Don Sowers. His name is Donald Milner and he weighed 8 pounds 9 ounces when born December 15 in West Suburban hospital, Oak Park. Sister, Joan, 2, is staying with her paternal grandparents.

Two girls due for a big treat Christmas eve besides a visit from Santa Claus are Lisa, 4, daughter of Dot and John Venning, 1607 Johanna terr. and Maurita, 5, daughter of Dolores and Larry Smith, 1611 Johanna terr. They are appearing on the filmed Christmas eve dedication service of Lutheran General hospital which will be shown on WBKB from 10 to 11 p.m. Christmas eve. Both mothers have promised to wake the girls so they can see themselves on TV.

Joey, son of Dee and Al Perry, 207 S. Illinois dr., celebrated his sixth birthday December 18. Present for the evening were his godfather, Gene Tilman, and his wife and their children, Tommy, Jerry and Craig, from Arlington Heights. Sunday Joey's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Armand J. Doyle and his aunt, Miss Jacqueline Doyle of Chicago, were invited for dinner and a buffet supper party which was also attended by another aunt, Mrs. Russell Bartner, and cousin, Bart, from Deerfield.

Phyllis and Jim Fitzpatrick's daughter, Judy, celebrated her fourth birthday December 18 with a family dinner prepared by Phyllis. Enjoying the festivities were her sister and brothers, Jack and Jim, 6, David, 5, and Janie, 10 months. The Fitzpatricks live at 501 N. Yale. (A

IT'S A LUCKY mother that'll soon be getting this pin and needle holder made by Cindy Kort, a first grader at Ridge school in Arlington Heights. All children in class made this Christmas gift for parents.

JANETTE MILLY, 15 months, 1523 Fernandez, Arlington Heights, doesn't seem too impressed by Mrs. Santa Claus at Wilson school Christmas party. Looking on are Marc Kauppinen, 1720 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights and Holly Weiber, 903 S. Ioka, Mt. Prospect.

BOARD OF LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS, VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILLINOIS.

Advertisement for Bids

The Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Arlington Heights, Illinois, will receive sealed proposals for the construction of a sanitary sewer in Forrest Avenue, beginning at a manhole 350 feet north of the north line of Hawthorne Street to a point 208 feet north of the north line of Frederick Street, until 7:30 p.m. (Central Standard Time) on the 7th day of January, 1960, at the office of the Village Clerk at the Village Hall, Arlington Heights, Illinois.

All proposals received will be publicly opened and read aloud in the Village Hall at Arlington Heights, Illinois at 8:00 p.m. (Central Standard Time) on January 7, 1960.

The contract documents, including plans and specifications, are on file and available for inspection at the office of the Village Clerk of the Village of Arlington Heights at the Village Hall.

Copies of documents, including plans and specifications, required for review or bidding purposes may be obtained only from the Village Clerk by depositing $3.00 with the Village Clerk for each set of documents so obtained.

The full amount of the deposit for one set of documents and one-half of the deposit for any additional sets of documents will be refunded to each bidder who submits a formal proposal to the Board of Local Improvements and who also returns the plans (and specifications on additional sets) in good condition to the Village Clerk within ten (10) days after his bid security has been returned to him.

A certified check or cashier's check drawn on a solvent bank in the State of Illinois, payable without condition to the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Arlington Heights, Illinois, in an amount not less than ten per cent (10%) of the bid shall be submitted with each proposal.

No bid shall be withdrawn after the opening of proposals without the consent of the Board of Local Improvements for a period of thirty (30) days after the scheduled time of closing bids.

The Village of Arlington Heights reserves the right to reject any or all proposals and to waive any informalities in bidding.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a satisfactory performance bond in the sum of the full amount of the contract.

In general, the improvement on which proposals are requested will require the following construction:

Approximately 1,240 lineal feet of 8-inch vitrified clay pipe sewer, house sewer services, and related construction.

Plans and specifications for this project were prepared by Consoer, Townsend and Associates, Consulting Engineers, 360 East Grand Avenue, Chicago 11, Illinois.

Dated at Arlington Heights, Illinois this 17th day of December, 1959.

Gloomy Group Is Ungrateful

We have in our midst, it appears, a few crepe-hanging Christmas complainers who wouldn't know a good deal if it hit them head-on with the impact of a 707. This gloomy group might well represent the personified epitome of arrogant ingratitude.

I wonder if their perpetual sorrowful and sour outlook results from their having been weaned on a pickle?

I SUGGEST the more intelligent alternative of adopting an inquisitive wait-and-see attitude, as opposed to prematurely barging in like the proverbial bull in a china shop with a barrel-full of blustering and half-thought-out, if that, criticisms.

With just a little bit of reading between the lines, it seems that the real complaint is that we aren't getting something for nothing for it has been urged that Centex Construction Company, other private industry, and/or the County of Cook should pay our recreational way.

In the adult male, and in the adult female, lies an instinctive and innate yet usually inert yen to get this something for nothing: inate because of the God given freedom to choose the easier way out and inert, because the God granted desire to earn our earthly receipts is usually more powerful. However, in some of the people most all of the time the respective strengths of these two urges are reversed, and to them we should point out that which even a city slicker knows, to milk a cow more than twice a day can only adversely affect the quality and the quantity of the "milk" as well as the attitude of the "cow" in the long run.

And to those who are invariably the first to jump up and down crying down with this or that, we should say, "down, boy." I suggest we tilt our extended right arm slightly so as to convert our hand of asserted paupership into the hand of friendship, and let the gratuities appreciatively fall where they may.

I FOR ONE am for paying for what I get, if I can afford it and if I can't I'd prefer going without, if the only other alternative is the active solicitation of its donation. To those who insist that we can not afford the Swimming Pool offer, I insist that your argument is ill-conceived for the very design behind the offer is to postpone payment until we can in fact afford it. And while the details are being worked out, why not follow the advice of our good friend (whether we know it or not) Alfred Lord Tennyson, and "cleave to the sunnier side of doubt." Certainly, I do not advocate that we allow our intellect be unwillingly tugged along by our fancy or whim, but just as certainly, we should not allow it to be pushed aside by our prejudices.

You needn't even be an accountant to figure out that the compound accumulation of several years of the going rate of interest on a six figured sum ain't hay, and this is precisely what the offer amounts to. I wonder how long the offer to let us live for free in the future will remain open, so long as our self-appointed and self-styled speakers insist on thinking in the past, or not at all.

If the members of this group can see beyond the tips of their noses, surely they can't see the forest for the trees, for they begrudge the donor's possible profit without acknowledging that a good deal more could be reaped if this money were to be expended less unselfishly. And the obvious conclusion completely escapes them, that to spend money knowingly on the least profitable of several alternatives is an economic misadventure and is in effect if not in fact an outright loss.

It is my considered opinion that we should gratefully and graciously accept this offer, if it turns out to be in detail what it now appears to be. The local young democrats, who are to be thanked for their thoughtfulness in trying to get the county to build a pool in this locale should now urge that it be built nearby some community not so fortunate as ours and they would then, in addition to our thanks, command our respect if not our votes.

IF CENTEX Construction company were to hire a "Hollywood Press Agent," the resulting implications might be sufficient grounds for complaint, but there are apparently those who would complain because no such agent has in fact been hired. Centex can not be intelligently criticized for making wise business decisions, and our direct or collateral benefit therefrom simply points up a target for our collective appreciation. If anyone needs a press agent, it is Elk Grove Village, to overcome the mental image outsiders must by now be getting of us and which might be likened to, caricaturistically speaking, a sour-faced professional beggar on the way to work in his chauffeur-driven gold-plated air-conditioned late-model Cadillac, the point being of course that we need charity like some few of us need a bigger hole in the head.

My search for some semblance of legitimate support of the negative stand so regularly taken by this by now hoarse chorus of chronic complainers has gone utterly fruitless, the conclusion being that seven thousand odd Elk Grove Villagers, less the few odd ones that is, can not be wrong.

I suggest, accordingly, that those who constantly complain merely because they must complain about something, gripe instead about the weather. The Provider thereof doesn't possess that human frailty of judging a group by its most vociferous members and as a result, you are apt to do far less harm, if no more good.

It might be beneficial for you to recall the morale boosting motto of the G.I., "you never had it so good," which meant more than any thing else, "things could be one heck of a lot worse."

PTA Fair Was Success

I want to thank you for the excellent coverage your publications and Mr. W. O. Wallace of Bensenville gave our Christmas Bazaar and Fun Fair.

We were able to realize enough money to cover our year's budget for the PTA and we feel that this was largely due to your cooperation.

In behalf of the entire PTA may I express our appreciation of your encouragement and interest in our behalf.

Retarded Child Needs Our Help

As president of the Illinois Council for Mentally Retarded Children, I would like to thank you for your support during the recent National Retarded Children's Week campaign.

What all of us who are working for retarded children want most is acceptance and understanding of the problem of mental retardation. It is indeed encouraging to get support such as yours which plays a vital part in telling the folks in the community the facts about mental retardation.

OUR THEME is "Retarded Children Can Be Helped." It has replaced the old idea of the hidden ones. More and more, we are gaining public recognition of the fact that the mentally retarded — if given special help — have a capacity for achievement far greater than had ever been thought possible.

On behalf of the 150,000 retarded children and adults in Illinois, may I express our appreciation for your help in getting our message to the public, and to the public for its response.

Readers Find Paper Helpful

We take this opportunity to thank you for the 'free' issues of the Arlington Heights paper, through the "Welcome Wagon."

We would like to say how much we have enjoyed and benefited by reading same.

We found it was almost a 'must' in moving to a new community and it has helped us in many ways.

Again we say, thank you.

Her Face Is Red...

Is my face red!

After writing last week about the rudeness of drivers license officials — and laying the blame on Arlington Heights — I was informed the state of Illinois shoulders full responsibility. Local authorities, unfortunately, can do nothing to correct the bad habits of these "state-run" officials.

Sorry I goofed, Arlington Heights.

Leroy Moellenkamp Takes Marlene Novy as Bride

When Miss Marlene Joan Novy beame the bride of Leroy A. Moellenkamp November 7 she carried the same hanky carried 51 years ago when her grandmother, Mrs. Frank J. Pinnow of Crystal Lake was married. Miss Novy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Novy of Barrington and Mr. Moellenkamp is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Moellenkamp, 801 E. Millers rd., Mt. Prospect.

The service was double ring and took place at 6:30 p.m. in St. Paul United Church of Christ, Barrington, with Rev. John A. Gerber offiiating. Organist was Mrs. Ruth Olsen and soloist was Mrs. Alice Voras. Mrs. Voras' selections were "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because."

White ribbons marked the front pews and pink carnations and baskets of white daisy mums decorated the church.

THE BRIDE'S gown was of imported chantilly lace with scoop neckline, long sleeves and full skirt that trailed into a chapel train. Her silk illusion veil was held in place with a half hat of lace and embroidered seed pearls and her flowers were a cascade of pink-throated cymbidium orchids, white carnations and ivy. Mr. Novy gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's three sisters as well as the bridegroom's sister were members of the bridal party. Her twin, Mrs. Donald Snetsinger of Lake Zurich, was matron of honor while Miss Sally Novy was one of the bridesmaids and 5-year-old Barbara JoAnn Novy was flower girl. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Wilfred Nise of Des Plaines, and Miss Phyllis Mueller of Prairie View were the other bridesmaids.

THE ATTENDANTS wore silk organza gowns of romance blue fashioned with waltz-length skirts. They also wore matching headpieces, gloves and shoes and carried cascades of pink carnations. The matron of honor's bouquet also included white carnations. The little flower girl wore a white nylon dotted swiss dress with romance blue cummerbund and belt. She carried a basket of petals.

Six-year-old David Landwehr of Des Plaines was ring bearer.

The bridegroom's brother, Clifford Moellenkamp of Mt. Prospect, was best man and ushers were Donald Snetsinger of Lake Zurich, Arnold Grimm of Des Plaines and Emil Novy Jr. of Barrington.

A reception with buffet for 450 guests was held in East Dundee Fireman's hall where both Mrs. Novy and Mrs. Moellenkamp received in dresses of light blue lace. Mrs. Novy complemented her dress with a corsage of pink carnations and garnet roses while Mrs. Moellenkamp had white carnations and garnets.

MR. MOELLENKAMP took his bride on a 2-week wedding trip to Florida and the couple is now at home at 350 W. Lance dr., Des Plaines.

The bride was graduated from Barrington high school and is now employed as a stenographer at Universal Oil Products, Des Plaines. Mr. Moellenkamp was graduated from Arlington high school and is employed as a lab technician at Universal.

The Way We See It

Hollow Words Echo To Barbed-Wire Land

There is a new star in the East over Bethlehem, a steel ball that races through the heavens with a message of destruction.

There is a refugee camp, Sh'tilah, to the north of Nazareth where a child shivers in the mud. The rain seeps into his tent, and the floor lacks the straw warmth of a manger.

There is a slaughter of innocents more terrible than the sword of Herod. There is death from hunger and disease.

The Pharisees of the world have once more corrupted the message of Yeshua ben Joseph, the carpenter's son from Galilee. Their policies call for death in the name of peace.

Across the sands of Sinai there is a troubled, barbed-wire peace.

There is a church in distant Illinois where this week a child will hear of the angels' song sung to the shepherds in the hills of Judea.

The child will carry the message of Christmas in his soul until at maturity it is snatched away by the world of his fathers. And he in turn, with a hunger to return to youth, will pause and retell the tale of Christmas to his sons each year.

This year more than a million refugees huddle in squalor and misery in camps that circle the Holy Land, the meager grants of food and clothing from the United Nations Relief Organization their sole bond with the rest of humanity. They are a people who have largely abondoned hope.

These, the modern Samaritans, the children of Nazareth, are the rubble of war, the castoffs of peace. They are the descendents of those who drank the wine at Cana; ate the fish and bread on the shores of Galilee, and strew the road to Jerusalem with palm fronds.

These are the forgotten people among whose ancestors the Prince of Peace walked the earth.

Here, near the birthplace of civilization, man has come a very little way. This season the words of peace on earth, good will to men, will echo hollowly across the barbed-wire hills of the unholy Holy Land.

Educational Opportunity Is Cornerstone of U.S.

"Johnny Mustang obviously will never be a scientist. Although he's only six, we can establish that he would be best qualified to apply himself to the mop and broom. He will become a street sweeper and will be trained accordingly."

Thus it was. And as for Walter Meeke, he hadn't "the temperament for the business world or science, but the quality of obedience is already ingrained in him at the age of seven. Let us place him in a class where his soldier-like abilities can be developed, and he will, for the rest of his life, remain in the army."

For highly trained and efficient classes of people, some geared for vocational, others for menial or government employment, almost at birth, this would appear to be a most skillful method of educating a people—for autocracy.

Irving F. Pearson, executive secretary of the Illinois Education association, reports "efficient" and "economical" practices of education in foreign countries he has visited.

Pearson has heard people of these countries say to him: "Could I but fly back with you to America and serve you in your home. I've kept company with a fine lady for many years; but here there is no opportunity to improve upon my status. Like my father, and his father before him, I'm consigned here to the level of occupation in which I'm engaged."

Or: "Sir, there's little opportunity here for young people. I see little, if any, opportunity to lift myself out of my class."

And again: "I wish my children would have the opportunities that yours evidently have enjoyed, but I can't cut across into the educational opportunities to which they should be entitled."

Opportunity to the limit is this nation's answer. But we are cutting ourselves off at the source by physical needs which are becoming more and more pressing. We need buildings, teachers, greater bonding power for school districts, a speedup in assessment of new properties for taxation purposes and revenue.

Above all, we need more help for education, the very basis of our democracy—before we start seeking the "efficient" and "economical" methods of autocracies.

Trailer Issue Is Rooted In Economics of Housing

An upsurge of trailer parks throughout Illinois since World War II has provoked uneasiness among village boards trying to cope with sanitation, blight and the weight of many all-too-human problems.

Education for the young ones living in these parks, which blossomed like mushrooms in some areas, throws the burden of upkeep upon others living in the school district.

It has been pointed out that assessments levied against trailer camps is unrealistic when computed against the cost of the increase in school enrollments forced upon the district by these parks.

There are many reasons for the prosperity enjoyed by mobile home manufacturers. One is economic. Cost of houses does not shrink, and like other living costs, appear to be virtually out of reach for modest income groups. Unless reasonably-priced housing in large quantities takes up the slack, a trailer park furnishes one means of finding a roof over one's head.

In times of war, somehow, this nation finds the wherewithal to furnish the muscle, build ships, tanks, planes, even A-bombs.

When peace strikes us, this nation again falls into an apathy of "do nothing" about our basic living needs. This need represents an arresting challenge for both private enterprise and government to seek an answer to man's perpetual need of a roof over his head.

Does It Shine for Them Too?

Christmas Shopping Is Annual Headache

by WILLIAM DULANEY

Thank goodness, it's over! Not Christmas, but Christmas shopping.

With the Yule spirit wafting through the air and swirling ribbons and wrapping paper about our feet, there comes a problem that looms larger each year. What to give whom?

It wasn't too complicated when there was just the immediate family, a friend or two, and maybe a favorite cousin. With marriage, however, comes new responsibilities and an expanded gift list. Added are wife, children, in-laws and wife's friends. In other words, the list more than doubles with matrimony.

Brothers and sisters grow up, marry and have children; the list grows. Then you find out that mother is no longer taking care of Aunt Eugenia for you, nor for that matter the myriad other uncles and aunts and cousins and step-nieces and nephews twice removed, and the little old lady who used to live next door, but still "remembers" you.

SO ONE DAY, this Christmas to be specific, you add them up and find you've got a 43-name gift list. The next question is what to give them. You've got a feeling that a few will make the break this year and just send a card. But can you take the chance? Perhaps it is more blessed to give than to receive, but they'll be hurt and you embarrassed.

The budget won't stand anything too expensive, so you shop for something imaginative, something that shows you shopped just for them, something like a mink-trimmed golf tee for Aunt Eugenia. If you really get stuck, you can always send money. But that's vulgar, of course, unless you send enough of it.

A strategem learned through experience is to always have more gifts on hand than you intend to give. They don't necessarily have to be bought and can be held in reserve from year to year. They are brought into play when you receive an unexpected present.

SAY, FOR instance, a casual friend drops off one of these "sneak" gifts the day before Christmas. What to do? Give your wife the high sign while you employ delaying tactics. She excuses herself, grabs tissue paper and reaches in the closet for that lovely towel set, still wrapped in cellophane, that you received last Christmas from your Great Aunt who received it the Christmas before that from her niece who received it as a wedding present. A rustle of paper, once around with the ribbon, a scrawl of the pen, and a "Merry Christmas to you, too!"

If time allows, it's best to employ this tactic on persons living out of the country, for there is a recorded instance of a young matron receiving a piece of costume jewelry for Christmas that she had given as a birthday present four years before.

While most wives handle the shopping chores, it's the man who catches it when mailing time rolls around. First you've got to have boxes, and what grocery stores do with the tops to their cartons will forever remain a mystery.

THEN THERE'S the matter of wrapping and tying. It's rumored that one thick-fingered, excitable gentleman became entangled in twine and paper and mailed himself to his parents a couple of Christmases ago.

For those who escape this fate, there awaits a severe case of rope burns with which to enter the battle of the post office, providing you can find a place to park. And finally, as the smoke clears, our hearty survivor finds himself at the head of the line with a box whose circumference is two inches over the allotted limit.

Merry Christmas!

Pastor Writes Sharp Analysis of Religion

by CHARLES HAYES

"The place where the American future is being shaped—whether or not we like the prospect—seems an excellent place for churches to be active."

So declares Martin E. Marty in assessing the churches' mission to suburbia.

"With an impressive zeal, the churches have converged with packaged heaven on the suburbs," he explains. "This zeal combines creative vision for the future with a retreat from past failures in the city and an almost pathetic hope for better successes."

Writing in his latest book, The New Shape of American Religion (Harper, $3.50), Dr. Marty says this mission to the suburbs has often failed to be a mission.

"American churches are indeed vulnerable for the adaptation to, and identification with, the nonreligious values of suburbs which . . . are made to look Christian. The Christian mission exists to save people from something for something. The suburban church tends to baptize existing values and to sanction existing complacency. According to standard criticisms, suburbanites like their gospel — unlike their martinis — diluted, and the peddlers of dilution are legion. A two-dollar tour around the suburbs is sufficient for anyone out to gather documentation for such charges," writes Marty.

AS A suburbanite himself, the Elk Grove Village pastor is quick to point out that there are positive values in suburban life. But he also sees some danger signals.

"Critics of suburbia, having gazed at tree-lined streets and bright lamps in picture windows, find themselves entertaining the notion that this could be the Heavenly City surrounding the earthly city," observes Marty. "But as they learn of the frustrations, anxieties, neuroses, and meaningless existences lived beyond the welcome mats of suburban homes, they too fall victim to disillusion."

The suburbs have built walls of insulation around themselves as a protection from a vision of the world's greater needs, according to Marty. "Most of the suburban churches that have been featured as models in our journals are notably short on theology, notably long on adaptation to alien values."

TOO MANY churches have embraced the philosophy of non-theological country clubbery. In attempting to become all things to all men theologically, they often end up becoming little to any of them.

"When preaching is pitched to the patent needs and wants of the majority of the people," warns Marty, "vital religious differences must be glossed over and the erosion of theological distinctions follows, to no one's profit. The resource of judgment and hope is spread so thin that in time of crisis the people are left with generalities."

Dr. Marty sees in the suburban dilemma an illustration of the further erosion of American Protestantism.

He urges a culture ethic for American Protestantism. He discusses the resources and strategy for reshaping Protestantism in a new cultural situation as well as the spirit of a revitalized Protestant witness.

A RELIGIONIZED America has been on a well-publicized religious "kick" for the past decade. But Marty thinks that as a nation we've reached a point of near-saturation so far as religious interest goes. He adds that the current revival, which lacks depth in many of its aspects, reached its peak in 1957 with Billy Graham at Madison Square Garden; the rest has been repetition.

To describe America's new religious complex, Marty coins the phrase "religion-in-general." This is a secular, national, natural, humanistic, religion of democracy which "swirls around the churches and something flourishes in them." This is an attitude toward religion which, elevated to ultimacy, has become a religion itself.

The God of religion-in-general has become humanized, understandable and manageable, comforting. He's a packaged American jolly good fellow.

Marty sees in this generalized national religion a serious threat to the substance of Protestant faith and the impetus for what he describes as "post-Protestant times."

DECLARING that we already possess the institutions we need to undertake the religious task set before America today, the young pastor sees in the personal possibilities of the Christian parish the most hopeful front for helping shape post-Protestant America into a newly Christian America.

"If Christianity is a faith it is a faith in someone and something," stresses Marty. "It is not just a mood or a spirit of a climate or an atmosphere.

"Whatever criticism I have made in this book has been directed not at the fates nor at chance and change, but at an America that is known and loved and deserving of criticism, and at Protestant Christianity for its failure to live up to its own potential."

This is a brilliant and incisive analysis of one of our major social institutions. Thoughtful suburbanites of all faiths should regard The New Shape of American Religion as required reading.

Gargoyles and Ornaments

Pay Homage To Chosen Few

by MARTIN E. MARTY

If you have ever seen a European cathedral from the Gothic era (a picture will do), you are familiar with gargoyles. They are the grotesquely carved distortions of animals or devils or even human faces that serve as water spouts on the roof of ornate structures.

Not long ago men at Washington Cathedral, the Protestant Episcopal building atop Mt. St. Albans in our nation's capitol, announced its need for gargoyles. "Anyone one with a little imagination may find an opportunity for artistic expression . . . ." Amateur sculptors are invited to prepare clay models from which cathedral craftsmen will make stone figures. Thirty models are needed.

SINCE A gargoyle was to remind passers-by of the evil spirits and dangers in the world around so that they would take refuge in the sanctuary within, Dean Francis Sayre suggested we might find models from grotesques in our day. The response to this contest without prizes has been significant. Crocodile and dinosaur-shaped models are coming in; not a few bear human visages. Immortalize your friends!

Now it nears the end of the year and is Christmas week. I could think of all kinds of gargoyles I'd like to see represented: Fabian, Governor Faubus, Charles Hayes on days when he presses me for deadlines, Jack Paar on his blue nights, Zsa Zsa Gabor, and Jack Barry would do for a start. But this should all be forgotten at Christmas time. Can't we, instead of gargoyles, think of ornaments for our Christmas trees, symbolic representations of the quiet ones who don't often enough go recognized during the year? I'd need a tall tree for all my ornaments.

HERE ARE a few:

The people who never get their name in print because the ways of service they have found are so quiet, so unobtrusive;

The medical doctors who still let themselves be roused out of bed, sometimes for trivial reasons, without grumbling (ever have your phone ring at one a.m., an hour after you went to sleep?);

The parents of the boys who deliver the paper early in the morning, because of all the bad-weather days when they have to get up, too;

The people who proofread magazines and newspapers;

The milkman, the breadman;

The schoolteachers who are not tyrannized by parental pressures, educational fads, or strict schedules, but who still begin and end with something to teach and someone to teach;

The ministers across the land who refuse to let their churches become big promotions and, at the risk of their popularity, really help their people by trying to make the humbleness of Christmas' Infant characterize their churches' place in the world;

The people who wrap and deliver packages;

The innocents who were taken in this year by advertising deception or quick-talkers;

Those who keep the manger scene alive in their family circles year 'round through family worship;

The reader of this column, my wife;

All wounded professional football players;

Children who are neglected by parents, by-passed by society; who never have a chance;

Oh, there are many, many more. Let the light of Christmas glance across these ornaments and let them, for a moment, crowd out and overshadow the gargoyles of the rest of the year.

Twinkle in Santa's Eye Is Not a Matter of Theatrics

The twinkle in Santa's eye at the Arlington Market, Foundry rd. and Dryden, Arlington Heights, is not a matter of theatrics; it's a permanent fixture.

For the market's Santa Claus (who has been filling orders since a week after Thanksgiving) is Rudolph R. Born, 1021 E. Olive, Arlington Heights, a school crossing guard whose cheery disposition puts him on a first-name acquaintanceship with most of the school children he guides across streets.

Rudy also needs no padding, filling out his red holiday uniform at a hefty 155 pounds although he's of short stature; his rosy cheeks are a product of being exposed to the elements in 10 years as crossing guard and before that as a milkman.

This is Born's second season as Santa at the Arlington Market; but he can draw on a decade of experience in dealing with children, i.e., at the St. James school crossing on State rd., and the Wilshire ln. - Euclid ave. crossing for the Dryden school.

AND HE's becoming something of a student of human behavior in taking Christmas requests.

"One little boy - oh, about four - was in with his daddy and all he wanted for Christmas was to have his mommy out of the hospital. His dad told me he could do everything, was self-sufficient," Born said.

"Then, the next child up, a six-year-old, almost wrecked our toy display; his father just couldn't handle him."

But the majority of children don't press unusual demands, Born added. "Oh, of course, some of these two-year-olds will come up with a list that long," he illustrated by stretching his arms in a grand circumference.

The boys are expressing a preference for atomic toys this year, reflecting our technology-oriented society; girls, however, still display the instinctual maternalism of their kind, ordering tiny-tear dolls.

TRAINS, naturally, are still a popular item for chimney deliveries, Santa says. "I asked one little boy if he or his daddy were ordering the train," he chuckled.

The youngster informed Santa in wounded and emphatic terms: "No, it will be mine. Daddy won't have anything to do with it."

"One thing the kids don't ask for anymore are athletic toys, you know, boxing gloves, footballs, basketballs, things that used to be so popular," said this witness to the times.

Occupational obstacles remain the same for the Jolly Gent. There's beard-pulling, always a favorite for the curious or rambunctious youngster. "Then, some of them want to kiss me, but I discourage that," said Mr. Claus.

"There's different types," Born continued. "Some of them are afraid of me. I tell their mothers not to force them on me. If an older brother or sister is around I'll ask them the younger one's name and pretty soon they'll be there on my lap," he counselled with the confidence of a student of psychology.

BORN, who has two granddaughters in college and another one attending the Dryden school, had to keep alighting from his car to steer youngsters across busy Euclid as he related his experiences.

"Well, Mike, who chased you out of bed this morning," he greeted one member of the younger book-carrying set.

"The other boy wanted to know why I didn't call him 'Mike,' too," Born said upon returning. "I asked, 'Why, is your name Mike.'

" 'Sure,' he replied, there are six Mikes in our room.' "

"Well, honey, you'll be late this morning," the crossing guard said to another little girl hurrying along.

A housewife jumped from a car to hand Born two envelopes addressed to "Mr. Policeman."

"My kids wanted you to have these, Mr. Born," she said. Christmas cards, they were enscribed: "To a very nice policeman."

"If you want these kids, confidence you have to go along with them," he commented, his ruddy face breaking into a grin as he studied the cards.

Born, who at 71 says he's in perfect health, observed: "Yes, when I retired as a milkman I was just going to take it easy. But you can't do that; I was sick the first year of my retirement."

THE BUSY Born has also been chaperon for St. James school youngsters on class trips to Springfield and Washington, D. C.

He's still a little dismayed about one experience he had taking Christmas orders.

"This little boy and girl came up, they weren't with their parents, and the little girl said all she wanted was that her mother could get out of the hospital and that her daddy have enough money to pay his bills 'cause he doesn't have much.'

"Well, the little boy, her older brother, said: Don't worry, you'll get something from Santa.' " He added bravely to Born: "But I don't want nothing."

"I wished I'd have gotten their names so I could have done something, but there was a long line and they got away," he lamented, "That's one request I'd really have liked to have filled." (B8

SANTA at the Arlington Market, Rudolph R. Born, 1021 E. Olive, Arlington Heights, serves as a school crossing guard when not filling orders for Christmas. Seated on his lap is Jill Allen, 1, 411 Chatham pl., Arlington Heights, while standing by his side is Scott Christiansen, 3, of 1704 Walnut, Arlington Heights.

Religious Books Are Available

Numerous books on prayer, religious faith, personal living, and a wide range of other inspirational subjects are available at the Arlington Heights Memorial library according to Mrs. Charles Stadelman, librarian.

A recent survey of 12,000,000 United States families showed that these are the subjects churchgoers want to hear more about in sermons.

Alexander Lake's "Your Prayers Are Always Answered" contains a storehouse of personal testimony about the effectiveness of prayer.

THE BOOK contains the testimonies and experiences of people in all walks of life who confirm the value of prayer in managing their affairs and solving human problems.

People who are not too sure how to pray can find help in "The Prayers of Peter Marshall," edited by Catherine Marshall, and "The Perfect Prayer" by Harry Rimmer.

Ways in which religious faith can be increased are discussed in such recent titles as Smiley Blanton's "Faith is the Answer," and Daniel A. Poling's "Faith is Power for You."

"MAN'S FIRST Love" by Ralph Sockman is among the inspirational books in demand at the library.

Norman Vincent Peale's new best seller, "The Amazing Results of Positive Thinking," set forth the experiences of many men and women who have followed the author's philosophy of confidence outlined in his previous book, "The Power of Positive Thinking." (Acm

CHRISTMAS

As brightly as the Star of Bethlehem shone in the heavens of long ago to mark the place of our Saviour's birth, the spirit of that first Christmas shines in our hearts today . . . dispelling our fears, dispersing the darkest shadows of despair . . . fortifying our faith . . . restoring our dearest hopes, sustaining our finest aspirations . . . inspiring us with a deep and abiding love for one another. And now, as we prepare to celebrate another Christmas, let us rejoice anew in the Divine Miracle with which it all began. Let us find in the blessed message of "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men" the true significance of the Day which has for so long meant so much to so many. Let us fill our lives with the shining wonder and glory of this promise, so that it may brighten all the days of our years, and make us forever deeply grateful for Christmas.

Convention Delegates Return from Training

Members of the Arlington Heights Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses have returned from their recent 3-day training program held in Steinmetz high school, Chicago. Mr. Narve, presiding minister of the local group said, "The event has helped us to be better equipped to carry out our missionary work here at home."

Mr. Narve said the program included talks, discussion groups, and practical demonstrations. Saturday afternoon, Andrew K. Wagner, district supervisor, spoke on dedication and baptism. "Christian baptism is a symbol of dedication to God based on faith in the shed blood of Christ, which ransoms from sin," Mr. Narve quoted Wagner as saying. A baptism of 43 new ministers followed. Fred Hoffman of Arlington Heights was among those baptized.

WITNESSES and interested persons heard Mr. Wagner deliver the principal talk "When Is God's Will To Be Done On Earth." Mr. Wagner opened his talk by saying, "Living on this earth is becoming more dangerous for mankind, not only physically but also morally and spiritually. There is need for "God's will to be done on earth."

"The divine will for our generation, as stated in Matthew 24:14," he continued, "is now being done. The good news of God's established Kingdom is being preached in all the world for a witness to all nations."

"The witnesses look forward to contacting their neighbors with the information learned," said Mr. Narve.

WHAT KIND OF A NEW YEAR?

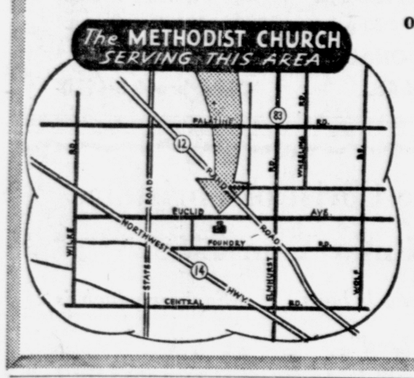

Looking back on the dying year, we now know we made a lot of mistakes. The sickness of our bodies came from breaking health laws. Our conflicts brought us a new set of enemies, and these are expensive. Our follies brought us disgust. The disciples of our Lord found a Way that gave them a richer experience of life. Why not share it?

Square Dance Club News

By DOROTHY MEYER
CL 3-2298

Bucks and Does

Nine graduating couples of Frank Walker's beginners class were special guests last Saturday night at the Bucks and Does dance in the Christmas decorated Higgins school, Elk Grove, where a total of 11 squares got into the holiday mood. The John Corcorans, Jim Wismans, Bing Millers, Gene Millers, Waldo Hogys, Lee McClanahans, Dave Cochrans, Hugh Stacys and J. P. Ingrums are now officially full-fledged square dancers and glad of it.

December 26, the Bucks and Does Gala Holiday dance will begin at 8:30 with Frank Walker calling. Christmas deocrations, refreshments and door prizes, will make a festive night of this regularly scheduled dance.

A New Years Eve dance in Higgins school the following Saturday night, is a special addition to the club's regular schedule and is being planned as a purely good time New Years Eve whoop-de-do. Hats, favors and pot-luck refreshments will add to the fun. Dancing begins at 9 p.m., with Bob Kim calling. Everybody's welcome.

Palatine

A real festive party mood prevailed in Paddock school last Saturday night, at the Palatine club's pre-Christmas dance, where many couples added to the holiday air with special costumes. Jingle bells fastened all around the widely swinging hemline of one skirt left no one in doubt that the holiday season had arrived.

Club officers remind everyone that the regular fourth Saturday dance will be as per schedule December 26, with Don Finfrock calling, and they suggest it will be a fine chance to relax after the hustle and bustle of Christmas Day.

There's still time, too, to get reservations for the New Years Eve party dance, December 31, in Paddock school. Call Jim Belt, FL 9-1430.

Public Assistance Cost $18 Million in October

Public assistance cost the taxpayers of Illinois $18,094,204 in October. Cook county's share of this cost was $11,977,005, Peter W. Cahill, executive secretary of the Illinois Public Aid Commission, reported to Gov. William G. Stratton.

The caseloads of the five public aid programs in October dropped by 1,073 persons to a total of 374,952 as compared to September's load of 376,025 persons. October 1959 was higher by 32,306 persons than October 1958 with a 342,646 persons. September cost was $18,000,667 and October 1958 was $16,231,217. Nine and eight-tenths million dollars of the October 1959 cost were from state funds.

AID TO Dependent Children rose at a slowing rate for the third successive month. October's caseloads carried 146,742 persons at a cost of $5,640,600, an average of $38.44. The major share went to Cook county, which received $4,283,356 for 105,040 dependent children. In September the cost was $5,625,796 for 146,461 persons, an average of $38.41. In October 1958, 134,460 persons received assistance, an average of $37.90, at a total cost of $5,093,965.

A drop of 975 persons in General Assistance brought the total to 130,696 persons in October 1959 and the cost to $5,483,581. September's cost was $5,414,392 for 131,671 persons. October 1958's cost was $3,877,764 for 105,576 persons. The October 1959 average per person was $41.96; September, $41.12; October 1958, $36.73.

Old Age Assistance dropped to 76,553 persons in October 1959 from the September rolls of 76,949 and the 81,409 person count of October 1958. October 1959's cost was $5,317,678, average $69.46; September cost $5,321,425, average $69.16; October 1958 cost $5,486,982, average $67.82.

BLIND Assistance in October increased by seven persons for a total of 3,084. Cost was $243,106, average $78.83. In September 3,077 persons cost $241,787, average $78.58; October 1958, 3,235 persons cost $255,863, average $79.21.

Disability Assistance to 17,877 persons in October 1959 came to $1,409,239, average $78.83. In September 17,867 persons received an average of $78.20 at a cost of $1,397,267. In October 1958, 18,269 recipients cost $1,516,643, average $83.37.

READING CHRISTMAS stories to children of Alpha Delta Pi Countryside alumnae while their mothers plan for an active-alumnae tea, is Mrs. Clayton Lyons of Arlington Heights. The holiday tea, to be held from 2 to 4 p. m. Wednesday, Dec. 30, in the home of Mrs. William Maloney, Prospect Heights, is for local ADPi college members and their mothers and alumnae. Any Alpha Delta Pi college pledges, actives or alumnae in the area planning to attend, should call Mrs. Maloney at CLearbrook 5-0845. Children in the photo are Paul Wickstrom, Nancy Brown, Jane Lyons, Michael Anderson and Russell Maloney.

'WAY BACK WHEN'

40 years ago—Dec. 27, 1929

Arlington Heights: A Plymouth sedan for the use of the night police of Arlington Heights was finally decided upon at last Monday night's special meeting of the village board. The car is a practically new demonstrator, carrying a new car guarantee, and was bought for $495. The motion to purchase it was made by Mr. Goedke, seconded by Mr. Meyer, and carried unanimously by the five members present, Mr. George Klehm being absent.

A letter was read from the village fire department, requesting boots and gloves. Mr. Byrd moved, and Mr. Goedke seconded, that they be purchased, and the motion was carried. The clerk was instructed to write the company from which the fire hose was purchased, for a price on 450 feet of it, and also to inquire if they would accept a time warrant in payment.

ADVERTISEMENT: It is not too late to make that reservation for Jan. 7 trip to the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Southern Texas; including deluxe Pullman sleepers, Standard dining cars, private touring autos, hotels, meals, etc. One week of enjoyment. See Houston, San Antonio, Rio Grande Valley, Old Mexico. Inspect the Citrus Groves and vegetable gardens, bathe in the warm waters of the Gulf. Travel over 4000 miles by train, boat and auto. Total expense for round trip, $49.50 a person, or $75.00 married couple, including every possible expense. Tours leave Jan. 7 and 21, Feb. 4. Take a summer vacation in January—it's great. Ask those who have done it. For reservation and further information, see C. M. Behrens & Co., Arlington Heights.

Wheeling: No ice famine for Wheeling and vicinity the coming year. All our ice houses are filled with clear river ice, 14 inches thick.

PALATINE: The Palatine hospital will be opened to the public New Years afternoon and evening when everybody is invited to come and inspect this new institution. An "open house" will be held and the general public, likewise physicians of neighboring towns, are invited. While this institution is called "Palatine hospital" it is Palatine in name only as it was erected and fitted up for the surrounding territory and physicians as well. It is as complete as many of the city hospitals and is capable of handling the great majority of surgical cases. A very large sum of money has been spent in fitting it up and it will be found very complete and a surprise to all those who have not already inspected it. Since the completion of the building proper, nearly a score of workmen have been giving it the "extras" that add to the appearance and convenience of the institution. Dr. C. A. Starck states that this hospital will be a strictly public institution and conducted as such. He likewise invites all people who are interested in "Home Health and Hygiene" to visit this hospital New Years Day. To be of the greatest value to Northwest Cook county this hospital should be open to each and every citizen, each and every doctor—and it will be.

Elk Grove Echoes: A grand celebration was held at the wedding of William Buchholz Sunday evening, Dec. 21. Those present at the charivari and who enjoyed a grand supper were August Busse, Paul Garlisch, Fred Winkelmann, Jr., Herman Winkelmann, Alfred Garlisch, Ted Goebbert, Ed Grewe, Louis Goebbert, August Deeke, William Mirs, William Behrens, Adolph Busse, Herman Schwake, Henry Rehr, Otto Schiebach, Frank Lovitz, George, Paul, Henry, Louie, William Heimsoth, Edwin, Groge and Bill Goebbert, Louis Busse. Julius Garlisch, being out of luck, was hit by a horse so could not attend the wedding celebration.

20 years ago—Dec. 29, 1939.

Arlington Heights: It is not every year that a newspaper can move into a new home. Thus the publication family of the Paddock Publications can be pardoned if they are a little bit puffed up over the commodious new home they have occupied since Sept. 1—that is numbered among the building achievements for 1939 in Arlington Heights. At the west end of the Campbell st. business district it is located in the former Klehm's woods. Twenty trees had to be removed to permit its construction. It is far enough from the hustle and bustle of down town to be free of interruptions. Cool breezes can enter large windows on all four sides next summer. Well constructed and an efficient heating plant will keep the structure warm and cozy the coming winter. There is five times the space as was provided in the old building occupied for a period of forty years. There is ample room for double the equipment now in use and twice as many employees. This new newspaper home is built for Arlington Heights of the future.

ARLINGTON Remains Safest City in Suburbs: Here is some good news for Arlington Heights police department and citizens generally who are zealous of the safety record maintained by the municipality. The fatal accident of Dec. 18 occurred in Palatine township, and not in Arlington Heights. Such was the decision of the deputy coroner at inquest held Thursday on accidental death on Wilke rd. The damaged cars and injured persons were thrown into the corporate limits, but the actual place of the accident governed the case, stated the coroner.

Amiable Debate Is Aroused with Poem

Who would ever associate controversy with such a simple and delightful poem as "The Twelve Days of Christmas?"

However, as the Christmas season approaches, the gifts mentioned in this traditional poem are bound to arouse good-natured debate.

Why? Simply because the order of the much talked-about gifts that "my true love sent to me" have been shuffled since the poem was first penned many years ago.

ONE OLD account of the poem has the gift for the ninth day, for example, as "nine drummers drumming," while another has the gift for the same day as "nine ladies dancing"; one anthology indicates the first day's gift as a "parrot in a juniper tree," yet another claims it was "a partridge in a pear tree." It would appear that someone has taken the liberty of "poetic license" with the poem, whose author is anonymous.

One thing on which all can agree, however, is that the gifts are peculiar. Maybe the author wished to remain unknown on purpose? Who would want to take credit for dreaming up such a conglomeration of gifts to send to someone dear at Christmas time?

For the benefit of those not familiar with this delightful poem, whose verses grow on you as the gifts add up each day between Christmas and "Twelfth Night," when the Three Wise Men appeared to the Christ Child, the final summarizing verse in one popular version, reads:

The twelfth day of Christmas my true love sent to me
Twelve drummers drumming.
Eleven pipers piping,
Ten lords a-leaping,
Nine ladies dancing,
Eight maids a-milking,
Seven swans a-swimming
Six geese a-laying
Five gold rings,
Four Colly birds,
Three French hens,
Two turtle doves,
And a partridge in a pear tree.

What an assortment to have under your Christmas tree! (B8

Set Tryouts For Inge Production

Anyone interested in acting? Tryouts for the Village Theatre production of "Picnic" by William Inge will be held on Sunday, January 3, at 1:30 p.m. at the Lauterburg & Oehler community room, Arlington Heights.

The play is to be directed by Sid Breese, known to many who live in the northwest communities of Chicago. Mr. Breese has acted in many summer plays as well as being a director.

VILLAGE THEATRE will present its second adult play of the season on February 12, 13 and 14 in the Little Theatre of Prospect high school.

Anyone desiring a script or information regarding Village Theatre productions is invited to call Lynn Lobenhofer, stage manager, at CL 5-1585 or Anita Wilkins, production manager, at CL 3-3272. (Bill

A Christmas Dream . . .

T'was the night before Christmas
Strange as it may seem,
When two sleepy children
Dreamed a real life dream.

Of a trip to Santa's Village
At the great North Pole.
Let's tag along,
At they set the stage
For a dream into which they stroll.

They spot a candy cane
And directions on it show,
The Starry-eyed children
Where they can go.

In Mrs. Claus' kitchen
A sight greets their eyes,
And Mrs. Santa gives them
A tasty surprise.

To the children's delight
They gaze at his bed,
Which is, as it should be,
Shaped like his sled.

Inside Santa's barn
His Reindeer are twitchin'
Excited by the Big Day,
Are Dasher and Blitzen.

Up the chimney they're peekin',
How can Santa sneak in,
Down a chimney so small
When he's as wide as he's tall?

They gaze at the giant clock,
And the months of the year,
Soon the hands will meet to lock,
As Christmas draws near.

On top of a frosty knoll,
They see the North Pole.
Jack Frost is sitting up there,
Icicles dangling from nose and hair.

Santa lets them write and look
At their names in his giant book.
Where his records, year after year,
Show all good children far and near.

Photos by Fred Gareiss taken at Santa's Village, East Dundee, Illinois. Verse by Maynie Tobler.

Season's Greetings

As 1959 draws to a close, and people throughout the world look forward to their various holiday celebrations, all of us at McDonald's feel doubly blessed. First, that we live in a country such as ours, where there is room for all of us to build our lives in freedom and peace. Secondly, that we have been fortunate enough to be in an area such as this, where so very, very many of you have honored us with your patronage. May we take this opportunity to extend the greetings of the season, and to say thank you, while we wish you the very best for the future.

A NEW CAREER FOR 1960
We need 10 new men to start by Jan. 4th for an unusual opportunity our century old national company is putting into effect in 1960. These men will work on a guarantee of $5,000 per year but their average income will be $8,300 per year. Two of these men will be promoted during 1960 to District Manager with a guarantee of $10,000 per year but an average income of $18,000 per year. One of them will be promoted to Divisional Manager with income of $35,000 per year.
Ours is a low pressure, non-competitive direct selling business. No experience necessary for this unusual opportunity. Must be able to start January 4th or sooner.

OK New Bug Spray

A number of new fungicide weapons for fruit growers get an o. k. from the University of Illinois department of plant pathology.

On the basis of tests, "Phaltan" combined with small amounts of lead arsenate is recommended for the first time by plant pathologist Dwight Powell. The combination proves to be an excellent spray for controlling summer apple rot diseases, and it is especially effective on "Botryosphaeria," or soft rot of apples.

"Cyprex" also goes on the recommended fungicide list for next season. Mixed at ½ pound to 100 gallons of water, it offers good control of apple scab.

A note of caution comes from another series of tests just completed. Some fungicides applied in the early-cover sprays can cause excessive fruit thinning. Before fruit growers make up their 1960 spray program, they can get more information on this by contacting Powell at the University of Illinois.

Special Cures Needed for Each Fowl Infection

Initial signs of infection in several poultry diseases may be similar, but the treatment necessary for each disease is different.

University of Illinois veterinarians say that delay in the accurate diagnosis of such diseases as fowl cholera, fowl typhoid and blue comb and erysipelas now account for some major losses to poultry farmers.

Each of these poultry diseases requires specific treatment. The drugs necessary to treat fowl cholera are not effective against the organisms causing typhoid. The treatment for blue comb is not effective against cholera.

The so-called broad-spectrum antibiotics, such as penicillin, are no cure-all for poultry diseases. Penicillin is effective against erysipelas, but not against blue comb. To be handled effectively the latter disease must be treated with specific antibiotic combinations.

SINCE IT IS difficult to make an accurate diagnosis on the farm during the initial infection stages, these veterinarians recommend that a farmer take two or three typically sick birds to a veterinarian or state diagnostic laboratory for diagnosis. They add that this might be done as a form of insurance when birds become listless, go off feed or show signs of diarrhea, or when the general condition of the birds becomes poor.

Proved prevention measures and prompt diagnosis of possible disease problems, if they appear, are the combination on which the farmer must now depend. The increasing numbers of birds in individual poultry flocks and the speed with which most virus infections, such as those of respiratory nature, travel, can make a delay in seeking accurate diagnosis costly.

Benson To Address Ag-Industry Forum

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will address the University of Illinois agricultural industries forum, February 2-3. He will speak after the dinner on Tuesday, February 2.

Benson headlines a long list of nationally known speakers who will discuss current and future problems of businessmen serving agriculture.

Other featured speakers on the general session program include Raymond W. Miller, Washington, D. C., public relations consultant, on "How Can Capitalism Compete?"; Maxim Cohen, general manager, Chicago Regional Port district, discussing "Impact of the St. Lawrence Seaway on United States Markets"; Franklin J. Lunding, chairman of the Board of Jewel Tea company, speaking on "Planning to Build Our Markets."

ON TUESDAY afternoon and Wednesday morning, the Forum will divide into special sessions for those interested in dairy, grain, livestock, poultry and eggs and farm supplies and equipment.

The dairy group will discuss trade barriers in milk distribution, processing and maintaining quality in concentrated milk, and promoting and expanding markets for fresh and concentrated milk.

The grain marketing group will center its program on transportation problems. Industry and government representatives will report on rail rate structures, changes affecting grain, transportation problems in plant location and coordination of rail, truck and water rates for grain.

THE LIVESTOCK marketing sessions will feature reports on changes in meat distribution and meat packing, western feed lot operations and changing patterns in livestock production and marketing. Speakers will include industry economists, retail officials, animal scientists and market representatives.

Forum participants interested in poultry and egg marketing will discuss the quality-controlled shell egg program, declining per capita egg consumption, and egg production costs.

Those interested in marketing farm supplies and equipment will discuss potential markets, location of feed-mixing facilities, economics of buying fertilizers and seed, choice of corn drying and storage systems, and problems in adopting better farm producion methods.

THE FIRST Agricultural Industries forum held last year attracted more than 700 people. The 1960 Forum is expected to draw an even larger number. This year's program was developed from suggestions of agricultural industry leaders during meetings at Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis this past spring and summer.

E. E. Broadbent, associate professor of agricultural marketing and general chairman of the 1960 Forum, reports that headquarters will be in Garner house, one of the newest men's residence halls on the University campus. Meals and room facilities will also be provided there. The Forum is sponsored by the department of agricultural economics and the division of university extension. Further details and reservation forms can be obtained from the department of agricultural economics, University of Illinois, Room 305 Mumford hall, Urbana.

Down On The Farm

CARL F. MEES
with Your Farm Adviser

It seems that the Christmas season comes faster with each passing year. I can remember when I was a young growing lad I thought Christmas would never come. I would begin counting the days to Christmas after November 1. It seemed that November and December were the longest months in the year. Today one hardly has time to get all the things done that he should before the Christmas season arrives.

The post office department has been busy the past few weeks delivering Christmas cards, and gifts. There must be a reason for sending cards, Christmas gifts, and expressing "Merry Christmas." It is our way of telling our friends and relatives that we like them. It is our way of spreading our love abroad.

CHRISTMAS has many meanings to many people, but to me its true meaning is the birth of Christ. I like the Christmas story, perhaps because of my farm background. I can imagine shepherds watching their flocks by night. I can imagine a humble stable, livestock, the manger and the boy. I remember when as a small boy I used to go every Sunday afternoon to the little country church (Karnthal) in Union County and practice the Christmas pageant. It was a season we all looked forward to.

In those days, like today, all children did not participate in the Christmas programs, but I'm confident, the children and their parents who did not participate really missed something.

CAN YOU IMAGINE an educator who could do as much teaching as Christ did in three years. Can you imagine a personality that can live on and on in the hearts and lives of people?

Parents—I hope you can give your children more responsibility and fewer things. I hope you can teach them that being good and treating others right and fair is worth more than money.

Merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year to all.

Foods Conference Slated For February 2, Urbana

Feed manufacturers and nutritionists from various parts of the nation will meet at the University of Illinois on February 3-4 for the 1960 Illinois Nutrition Conference.

Sponsored by the departments of animal science and dairy science, this year's conference will feature the latest research findings in the field of animal, dairy and poultry feeding and nutrition. In addition, three special features of wide interest to the general public and the feed industry are scheduled.

Research reports on the program will include the selenium-vitamin E enigma, fatty acids in ruminant nutrition, amino acid in poultry and swine rations, vitamin A for beef cattle, energy relationships to reproductive performance in dairy cattle, energy evaluation of feeds for swine and coccidiosis and the coccidiostats.

INDUSTRY program participants include R. O. Nesheim, Quaker Oats Company and A. Zeissig, Merck, Sharp and Dohme.

On Wednesday afternoon, February 3, F. A. Kummerow, U. of I. professor of food chemistry, will discuss his research findings on "Nutrition and Heart Disease." Speaking at the banquet that evening, A. V. Nalbandov, professor of animal physiology, will report his experiences and observations on "A Trip Through Russia." Thursday morning, Bruce Larson, associate professor of dairy science, will discuss "Radioactive Fallout and Our Food Supply."

A detailed copy of the program and reservation forms may be obtained from the conference chairman, K. E. Harshbarger, Department of Dairy Science, University of Illinois, Urbana.

The conference follows immediately after the close of the Agricultural Industries Forum, to be held on the Illinois campus February 2-3.

School To Convene Next Month For Weed-Killers

The latest information on the effectiveness of granular and liquid herbicides will be one of the topics featured at the Illinois Custom Spray Operators' Training school January 27-28 at Urbana.

For several years the effectiveness of weed-killers has been questionable, said H. B. Petty, chairman of the school. Petty is extension entomologist with the University of Illinois and Illinois Natural History survey.

The Custom Spray school is planned for all persons associated with the agricultural chemical industry. This group includes aerial and ground spray operators, industry representatives and men and dealers. In addition, any other interested persons may attend.

Here are some of the other topics to be discussed: (1) new developments in controlling face flies, (2) turf diseases and lawn weeds, (3) soil insecticides and (4) the relation between weeds and crop yields.

The school will be held in the Illini Union building on the University of Illinois campus. For more information, write to Petty at 280 Natural Resources Building, Urbana.

Q. To whom does a bride address her letter of thanks for a gift which has been received from a married couple?

A. She writes to the wife and thanks both: Thank you for the lovely present you and Mr. Jones (or, Jack) sent me, etc."

Q. Are there any tips necessary when dining in a cafeteria?

A. None really are necessary, but it's all right to give the girl who carries your tray to the table some gratuity—10 to 25 cents.

Q. If olives and celery are being served at a dinner, when is the proper time to pass them around?

A. During the soup course.

Tree Cankers Need Action

The week-end gardener who hoped to forget about the landscaping until next spring had better not, if he owns certain flowering ornamentals.

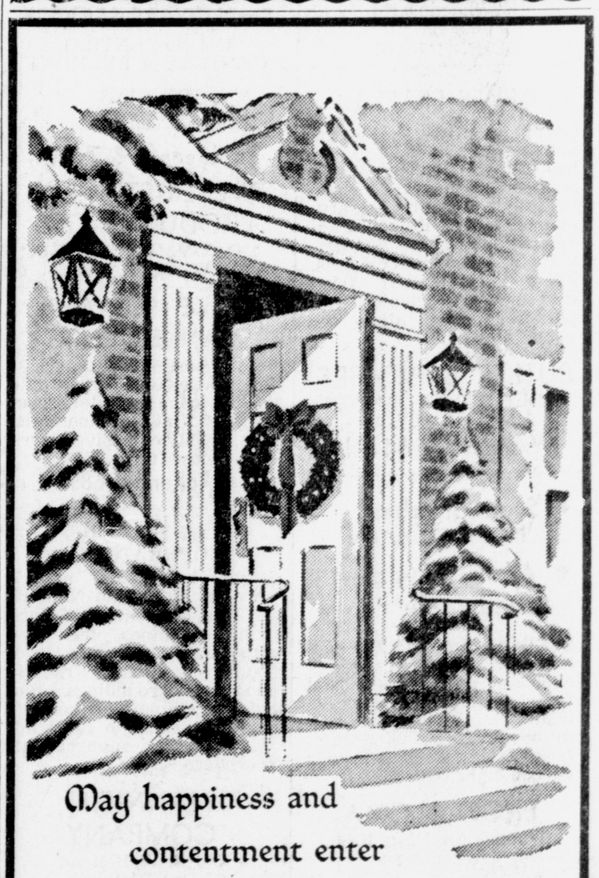

Some trees likely to suffer from fire blight canker, such as the popular mountainash, English hawthorn and pear, apple and quince, need help now. This help is really surgical treatment to rout out the bacterial infections.

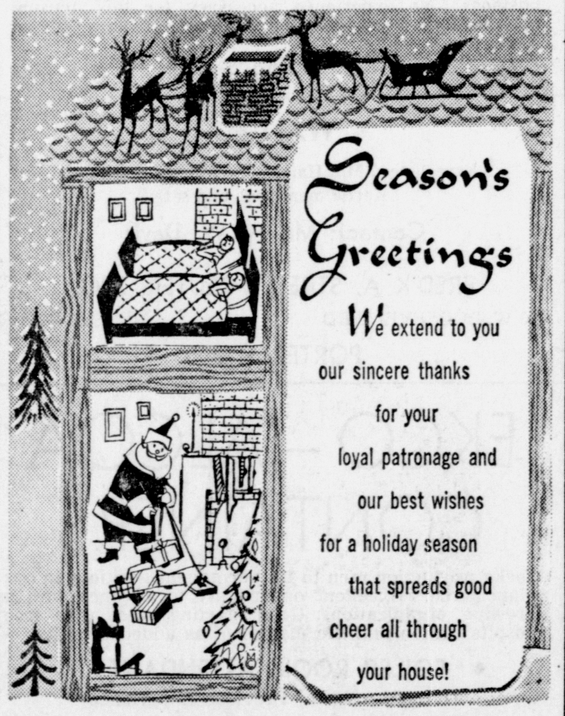

The dormant season surgery is apt to be more effective than springtime spraying with antibiotics, according to Dr. Carl Hansen, a plant pathologist. That's because the spraying must be timed precisely and the timing varies with the geography and the weather. With the invading bacteria asleep along with their host trees, they can be routed out by the skilled tree surgeon. That is, if the malady hasn't penetrated to the trunk. Trunk cankers generally mean the tree is doomed and will have to be felled and burned.

The trouble is so destructive that major branches should be removed if cankers cover more than one-half their circumference. On other branches, cankers may be eradicated surgically by removing all cankered tissue as well as a zone of healthy tissue surrounding the cankers. All tissue to be removed must be cut out down to the sapwood.

Fire blight bacteria overwinter in the marginal areas of the cankers. Reactivated in the spring, they appear in a sweet, white ooze attractive to insects which carry the bacteria to tree blossoms.
